Johnston County made a late start in its March of Dimes Drive and Mrs. Margaret B. Smith and Mrs. Joe Abdalla, Banner township chairmen, announced today that the drive for the $2,000 Banner Township quota will be continued beyond the end of this month.

Tuesday night a Mothers March on Polio, similar to the one conducted in Dunn was held. The fire alarm sounded at 7:00 signalling the start of the drive. Captains were Mrs. P. B. Wood, Mrs. Ed Hill, Mrs. R. G. Vann and Mrs. Marshall Woodall.

Thursday night, January 31, a benefit basketball game will be played at the Benson American Legion Building between Buie's Creek and Benson, with boys and girls teams competing. This program, beginning at 7:30, will also include cake walks and cash prizes.

United Forces Plan A Program

With Primary time drawing near and candidates announcing, the United Forces for Education has set up a five-point legislative program for the next two years, which they will champion.

It is the hope of the group, through gaining public support for the measures, to encourage favorable action on some or all phases of the program. A series of meetings, to all of which the public will be invited has been scheduled.

The first meeting of the Harnett County United Forces for Education has been set for February 7, at 8:00 p.m. in the Campbell College Auditorium. The public is cordially invited to attend.

FIVE POINT PROGRAM

The five point program, which the United Forces for Education will work toward during the next two years includes:

1. The immediate reduction of class size from 32 pupils per teacher to 30 pupils per teacher, based on average daily attendance, and the reduction to 28 pupils per teacher as soon as possible.
2. A salary schedule of $2800 to $4100 for a certificated teacher, as a minimum, based on present conditions with commensurate increases in salaries or other school personnel. The salary schedule for a certificated teacher shall be based on not more than 12 increments.
3. Sufficient funds to employ an adequate number of properly qualified attendance enforcement personnel.
4. Appropriations not only to meet increased costs of current expense items but also to provide additional required services and supplies (such as improved janitor and maid services, clerical aid for schools and more instructional materials.)
5. Capital outlay funds by bond issue to complete the present school building program, these funds to be distributed on the basis of need and ability to provide.

College Gets A New Tractor

Teamwork on the part of several outstanding Campbell College Alumni made it possible for the college to secure a new Super A tractor and four new tractor attachments in order that the college might secure and develop additional farm land, it was revealed by President L. H. Campbell.

Floyd P. Price, Jr., Selma, class of 1931 and Joseph H. Overby, Smithfield, class of 1931, accepted the challenge and the result was that the tractor has already been delivered to the farm with plow attachment, cultivator, distributor and rubber wheeled hay rake to be delivered in March.

Overby recently stated, "I believe that any real need of the college can be met by its alumni and friends. This college, which has done so much for others, should want for nothing."

HE WAS ROBBED
LEWISTON, Ida. (AP) - Sheriff Clarence Kyle found his blackjacks when he sorted through a pile of stolen articles coaxed under a haystack.

TEETH NOT NEEDED
SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) - A pawn shop reported a man hocked his teeth for the duration of a meat strike in Spokane.

YADKINVILLE—When Ed Holcombe of Yadkinville completed his commercial fence post treating plant last month, his idea was to provide a needed service to nearby farmers. Imagine his surprise when his first customer turned out to be a man from Canada.

R. D. Smith, Yadkin county farm agent for the State College Extension Service, explains that Mr. Holcombe's plant is located on Highway 201. The Canadian came by, saw the plant and bought 50 treated posts to fence his back yard. He said posts like those couldn't be bought in Canada.

GOLDSBORO—The mechanical tree planter made available to Wayne county farmers this winter has given even better results than anticipated, reports G. Mark Goforth, Jr., county agent for the State College Extension Service. Anyone who has operated a tobacco transplanter can use the tree planter. Goforth explains. One man on the planter and another operating the tractor can set a large tract in one day. Paul Uzzell of the Elroy community set a large tract that had a few pines already standing. He simply ran the planter close to the standing trees and kept on planting. His only difficulty was with a few black jack oaks whose roots are so near the surface that they interfere with the planter.

Goforth says the standard recommendation of 1,000 seedlings per acre does not always hold for the mechanical planter. Most farmers using the machine have used from 1,200 to 1,400 seedlings per acre.

WAYNESVILLE—The West Pigeon Community Development Club chose an appropriate theme for their Pigeon Valley Fair Exhibit last fall, says W. L. Franklin, assistant Haywood county agent for the State College Extension Service. Title of the exhibit was "Wheel of Progress".

Signs of progress may be seen at every hand in the community. Eighteen new homes have been built during the past year and 50 more were either remodeled or repaired. Of the three churches in the community, one is now completing a new building. Three thousand dollars were raised for improvement and upkeep of cemeteries.

SANFORD—The use of a soil fumigant last spring to control root knot increased the yield and value of tobacco by over one-third on the farm of John T. Hancock, Route 8, Sanford.

According to K. S. Harrison, Lee county agent for the State College Extension Service, Mr. Hancock treated his soil early in April, using DD soil fumigant. The yield per acre from the treated plot was 1,837 pounds as compared to only 1,210 pounds per acre from the untreated plot. Tobacco on the treated field averaged 52.5 cents and sold for $1,024 per acre. Tobacco from the untreated field averaged 41.4 cents and sold for $742 per acre.

NEWTON—A dairy farmer who migrated from New York State to North Carolina just a year ago has made good progress at breathing new life into a run-down farm, says J. Ray Allen, Cabarrus county agent for the State College Extension Service.

L. N. Roy kept only one young purebred Jersey bull when he sold out in New York and moved to a farm on Route 4, Concord. His first purchase upon arrival was ten Jerseys from Morrowcroft Farm near Charlotte. Since then he has added five more.

He seeded several acres of permanent pasture last fall and got good stands. He and his family have built a beautiful new modern brick veneer home and remodeled one of the old barns.

MARSHALL—Burdley One variety of tobacco has made a solid hit with Madison county farmers, reports V. L. Holloway, county agent for the State College Extension Service.

Two farmers of the California Creek section—Noville and Walter Hawkins—grew an acre of the Burdley One variety last season. Even though dry weather cut their yield, they harvested 2,935 pounds which brought a total of $1,778.50 for the acre. They believe that Burdley One can be spaced somewhat closer than some of the other varieties. They grew their 1951 crop in four-foot rows, spaced 16 inches apart in the drill.

North Carolina was one of the top ten states in the nation in last fall's farm crop drive.
