Elizabeth grew into a chubby little girl with a mop of curly golden hair and blue eyes and a look of some determination. She was a distinct personality by the time she was one year old. She nicknamed herself Libbet.
CARED FOR BY NURSE
Libbet spent her first years in care of a nurse. But in those days the royal duties of the duke and duchess were light. They spent much time playing with Libbet before she went to bed and they sat by their bedside reading. The duchess taught Libbet to read.
When Libbet was five she got a new governess, Miss Margaret. It became known that Margaret would be the duchess' last child. The Prince of Wales was still very much unmarried.

more important than salary increase.
Maintenance of a salary schedule of $2,800 to $4,100 for A certified teachers would require an additional $2 million. Better salaries, however, would attract more qualified teachers, who are deserting teaching to go into other lines of activity.
In Harnett County, Profit said, of the 35 teachers in our school system, 46 have certificates lower than A. Forty-three of these teach in white schools.
Last year, Profit pointed out, the legislature was asked to provide 118 attendance officers for 100 school units in the state. To employ a really adequate number, he would add about half a million to the school budget, he declared.
Harnett County has no attendance officer this year, Profit said, but there was no appreciable increase in absenteeism. The ration is still about ten percent of the average attendance. Profit said that he felt the compulsory attendance laws should be tightened.
"The tragedy is that these children are often problem children in the schools when they are looked to attend," he declared.
Particularly in overcrowded classrooms, are often not in a position to cope with additional problems.
Instructional items have increased enormously in the past few years, Profit asserted. The new asphalt flooring in the recently built schools require more care than the old lold wooden floors, and other needed services have increased.

President Leslie H. Campbell, President of Campbell College, opened the meeting with prayer, and offered the group the use of Campbell's facilities for further meetings of the United Forces for Education.

Call Firemen For Grass Fire

A grass fire in the 800 block on North Orange Avenue kept local firemen busy from 3:45 to 4:15 p.m. according to the report by Howard M. Lee, Secretary-Treasurer of the Dunn Fire Department.
The fire had been started in some vacant lots under department supervision, but while the truck was back at the fire station getting more water, it got out of control.
Eighteen men responded to the alarm and the fire was extinguished in short order.

Elizabeth II

royal horse guards clattered in turn to Charing Cross, Temple Bar and the Royal Exchange in the very center of the mile-square old City of London to read the proclamation the same way.
But none of her subjects saw their new queen. She went from her residence at Clarence House to near-by St. James Palace through an inner passageway and returned the same way.
Standing before a gathering of men, most of them old enough to be her father or grandfather, she swore that she is "a faithful Protestant and that I will, according to the true intent of the enactments which secure the Protestant succession to the throne of my realm, uphold and maintain the said enactments to the best of my powers, according to law."
Turning to the assemblage, the queen said in a firm, clear voice: "Your royal highnesses, my lords, ladies and gentlemen:
"By the sudden death of my dear father, I am called to assume the duties and responsibility of sovereignty.
"At this time of deep sorrow, it is a profound consolation to me to be assured of the sympathy which you and all my peoples feel toward me, to my mothers and my sister, and to other members of my family.
"My father was our revered and beloved head, as he was to the wider family of his subjects; the grief which his loss brings is shared among us all.
"I know that in my resolve to follow his shining example of service and devotion, I shall be inspired by the loyalty and affection of those whose queen I have been called to be and by the counsel of their elected parliaments.
"I pray that God will help me to discharge worthily this heavy task which has been laid upon me so early in my life."

King's Body In Uniform Of Admiral

SANDRINGHAM, Eng. (AP) — The people who loved and worked a life time for the late King George VI said a last sad goodbye to their master and monarch today as he lay dressed in his favorite sailor's uniform.
Gardners, maids, cooks, butlers, footmen, bowlegged groomers, grained farm hands, gamekeepers and huntmen stood around a body which appeared to be sleeping peacefully.
They saw the late monarch attired in the uniform of an admiral of the fleet. Near the "sailor king" as he was affectionately known, lay his cocked hat and gold-limbed sword. Across his chest was the blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter, the country's highest order.

Servants Weep

Some of the servants of the royal estate wept openly as they shut themselves through the bedroom. Many had served him since youth.
They were the first persons outside the royal family to see the king as he lay in death. Queen Mother Elizabeth wanted it that way. She thought it fitting that people who loved him most and had spent a lifetime working for him should be the first to pay their final respects.
Standing a bit back and to one side in the room was Jumble Emerson, 73, royal carpenter, who had finished his last work for the king. It was a coffin, made from a season oak which the king himself had felled.
Near the bed stood James MacDonalds, the king's valet. He found the monarch's body when he brought him his morning tea two days ago.

Local Agents Report On Firms Progress

Barbour-Byerly Mutual Insurance Agency, Dunn, N. C. agents for Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Company, announced today that Lumbermen has passed the $100,000 mark in 1951 sales, thereby setting a new record high for the company in any one year.
Barbour & Byerly, whose office is at North Wilson Ave. was notified of the record sales volume in a letter from James S. Kemper, chairman of Lumbermen, Chicago.

ELLIS BARBOUR

Mr. Barbour & Byerly pointed out that the $100,000,000 figure was reached by writing premiums at the rate of $53,420 each hour of every working day.
The present total also is more than 3,380 times greater than the sales volume of $29,563 of 1912 — the year the company was founded.
At the current rate, Lumbermen's agents are matching the 1912 total every 35 minutes.
Federal income taxes in 1951 will exceed $1,000,000 under terms of the law that sets a floor on taxes for mutual insurance companies regardless of underwriting gains. Dividends to policyholders will approximate $11,750,000 during 1951.
Kemper founded Lumbermen in Chicago after the state of Illinois passed a workmen's compensation law in 1912.
The old line insurance companies announced new rates which would have cost as much as four times the old rates for employers liability insurance. Kemper, however, believed complete protection could be offered for less if intense efforts were made to cut the accident rate by eliminating causes of accidents.
The lumbermen in Chicago agreed. The result was formation of a mutual insurance company to provide protection for lumber and woodworking firms, later extended to include a representative cross-section of American business and industry.
