Harnett County Has Excellent 4-H Clubs

Harnett County's 1,416 4-H Club boys and girls this week are observing 4-H Club Week, one of the most important events of the year for the youth organization.

Many of the clubs have scheduled special events and all are uniting in trying to inform the public of the manifold worthwhile activities of the group and deepening the loyalties of its members.

The theme of 4-H Clubs this year is "Serving as Loyal Citizens Through 4-H" a theme that tries to focus their activities throughout the year. With this theme in mind, the members will strive to better themselves, their communities and the nation throughout 1952.

In club meeting places throughout the county, in Chapel programs, by displays in store windows, exhibits and radio programs featuring their work, the youngsters are trying to point out to the public, and particularly to those of their own age, the importance of their work in improving the 4-H's Head, Heart, Hands and Health.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

Many of the clubs have planned special programs for the week, and included as guests, adults and those of their own age. Many of the young guests, who become familiar with the program and projects, will unite with the organization, although the events of the week are not primarily directed toward boosting membership.

The week will end Sunday and the majority of the nineteen clubs in the county are planning to attend church in uniform and as a group. Many ministers have scheduled sermons directly concerned with the 4-H Club members and others in their age group.

The training these young people gain in farming, homemaking and similar activities are invaluable preparation for the following of these projects when they attain adulthood and through their training they are admirably fitted for leadership in the future.

Clubs grew in size and number and in 1951 the County Council was organized. Officers of the Council are: President, Joan Ennis; Coats, Route 1; Vice-President, Bobbie Jo Lewis, Fuquay, Route 1; Secretary, Lorena Pace, Broadway, Route 1; Reporter, Billy Langston, Coats, Route 1; and Historian, Gertrude Ford, Coats.

Other hand, Democrats have insinuated that the Republicans are more interested in playing politics with an eye on the November elections, than in a speedy hearing to develop all the facts.

One reason for the stalemate is that GOP members, led by Kenneth Keating of New York, think that other department and agency chiefs who send cases to justice for prosecution should be heard first. Attorneys General McGrath later, Democrats insist that this is a political maneuver to delay McGrath's appearance until September or October, thus putting him "on trial" just before the elections.

"The man we are supposed to investigate is McGrath, not these other people outside of his department," declared Democrat Byron Rogers of Colorado at a recent closed-door meeting. "He may be absolutely innocent of these charges. We are all convinced of his personal honesty, despite the misrepresentation of some of those under him. But as far as the public is concerned, McGrath is under a cloud until he has a chance to testify. That's all the more reason why he should be heard as early as possible."

"But I don't know what questions to ask him until all the evidence has been assembled and a counsel appointed to put it in shape," objected Keating. "We need a competent lawyer to do this job."

"All seven of us on this committee are lawyers," countered Rogers. "We should be able to judge the evidence."

"That's right," broke in Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey, another Democrat. "Certain specific charges have been made against McGrath. Let's get him up here and question him about them. Let's do it as soon as possible. I'm tired of all this piddling around. It's time we got down to business."
