A LEADER IN FARMS AND INDUSTRY!
North Carolina is preponderantly a rural state, with a larger farm population than any other state in the nation. However, it is interesting to note that during the 1940 to 1950 period $1,858,230,000 in value was added to manufacturing facilities, leading all other southern states east of the Mississippi. North Carolina continues to move forward as a better place in which to work, play and live.
Another fine example of North Carolina progress is the steadily-improving standards of operation by mill owners in "legal control" counties. The United States Bureau Foundation policy of cooperating with such mill owners, in maintaining orderly working conditions for their employees, provides an important contribution to the pleasant living that

Dunn Native To Be Inducted By Queens

CHARLOTTE — Dr. Charlton Coney Jernigan will be inaugurated president of Queens College on the morning of March 29 in the Belk Chapel. Inaugural activities will begin March 28 and end with a reception for Dr. and Mrs. Jernigan the following afternoon.

Invitations have been sent to a number of colleges and universities, and 130 institutions and learned societies have already notified the college that they will be represented in the official procession of delegates.

Dr. Jernigan is the tenth president of Queens, a fully accredited, four-year, liberal arts college. The 98 year old institution is owned and controlled by the Presbyterian Synods of North and South Carolina. Until recently Queens was a woman's college, but now the college has broadened its educational program and admits men on a day status basis.

Dr. Theodore H. Jack, president of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Va., will be the guest speaker at the inauguration. Official delegates will be recognized in order of the founding dates of their respective colleges.

At the inaugural luncheon greetings will be brought from the Presbyterian Synods of North and South Carolina, the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and the alumnae of the college, the student body, and the faculty.

Dr. and Mrs. Jernigan make their home on Queens campus. Mrs. Jernigan is the former Miss Margaret Jernigan. She has been seriously ill with the flu is able to be out again.

accused the 41-year-old film screen actress of using the money to buy liquor for another man.

Wassil said he then struck her and immediately called police to report a "disturbance." But when officers arrived, he told them the disturbance "has stopped and everything is all right." The officers left.

He telephoned police again when he noticed Mrs. Page was bleeding about the head and mouth, officers said. She was in coma when they arrived. She was rushed to the hospital where she died 12 hours later. She never regained consciousness.

Screaming and sobbing in his jail cell, Wassil broke down when informed Mrs. Page died.

"Oh, my God! I didn't intend to kill her," officers quoted him. He said he "pushed her in the face and her head slammed against the wall."
