Doesn't Think Unions Would Obey Injunction

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Truman said today Congress could not force him to use the Taft-Hartley law to end the steel strike.

The President, hit by numerous news conference questions on why he had not used the Taft-Hartley law, expressed the belief that the union would not comply with an injunction to end the strike as readily as it agreed to his steel mill seizure which was later ruled illegal by the Supreme Court.

The Senate has voted to "re-quest" Mr. Truman to use the Taft-Hartley Act. The House is expected to follow suit.

CONSIDERING IT

Mr. Truman admitted that use of the law is under consideration, but he volunteered that congressional action would not have any bearing on his ultimate decision.

Asked why he did not avail himself of the 80-day cooling off period provided by the law, the President said that 99 days had been used in the same manner and Congress had time to consider the problem then.

"Are you implying that they (the union) would not obey the injunction?" a reporter asked.

Yes, the President answered.

Ike Is Accused Of Wrecking Defense Program

WASHINGTON (AP)— A Taft leader charged today the U. S. armed forces are "in pitiful condition" due "largely" to the advice of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Rep. B. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn.), a leading supporter of Sen. Robert A. Taft for the Republican presidential nomination, said the administration "was able to employ General Eisenhower to cover up its fatal gambling with our security" when the military budget was trimmed in 1949.

Reece's speech was inserted in the Congressional Record.

Reece, former GOP national committee chairman, charged that "a few of our top military men—namely General Eisenhower—were willing to sell themselves to the administration in order to give popular and pleasant assurances to the American people that their defenses were ready for any attack."

Reece said Eisenhower "was rewarded for his backing of the untimely cuts that wrecked our defense and our air strength by the job in Europe that kept him in the public eye."

KOREAN WEAKNESS

"The blast of public indignation that followed the exposure of military weakness in the Korean war," the Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson said today, "will make the administration responsible in the elections in November."

"The essential part played by General Eisenhower in this tragic drama has largely been overlooked. But when we listen today to his assurances about future cuts in the budget and his great optimism concerning how he can bring peace to the world and settle all our problems so cheaply, let us remember that just three years ago his great strategy was simply to split the budget three ways and that just two years ago he was assuring the Congress and the public that 48 air groups were sufficient for the present world situation."

BARBOUR IN KOREAN AREA

Small ships often do big things especially the attack transport USS Diachenko which carries frogmen, Marine raiders and commandos in the Korean area with a crew of men like Herbert D. Barbour, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Barbour of 403 East Morgan St. Benson.

Barbour, who was graduated from Benson High School and attended Wake Forest College, enlisted in the Navy Feb. 1, 1951.

City Manager Finds Office Stormy Place

It was stormy at Dunn's city hall this morning. "Just one storm after another," reported City Manager Oliver O. Manning.

"But that's nothing unusual," he laughed good-naturedly. "The situation is normal and routine."

Among other things the city manager was trying to straighten out: Several water and sewer lines were stopped up.

An emergency had developed at the swimming pool. A leaking valve forced the pool to close for repairs.

Teen-Agers Fly Without Lesson, Unhurt In Crash

ABINGDON, Ill. (AP)— Two teenage boys, who never had a flying lesson in their lives, stole an airplane, flew it 45 miles and managed to crash-land it in the dark without killing themselves.

Before the boys were through with their adventure they buzzed rooftops, sheared branches off trees, landed in jail and gave Ma and Pa Murk the fright of their lives.

The owner of the smashed plane, Harland Baird, moaned, "I don't know what I'll do," and promised to press charges against the youths.

The young airman, identified as William C. Richey, 17, and Larry L. Sopher, 16, steadfastly refused to say why they stole the plane and tried the solo yesterday.

They told police they broke into Peoria's M. T. Hawley Airport hangar and nosed around until they found a gasped-up plane.

Quadruplets Born In Massachusetts

WEYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)— Four thin walls—a breakfast call from the Manning quadruplets—brought smiles of delight today to attending nurses at the South Shore Hospital.

"We're happy to hear them cry," said Mrs. Helen Mallasi, a member of the staff of the hospital where the girl and three boys were born late last night within 66 minutes of each other. "That means things are looking better for them."

The girl, first to be born, and the two brothers who followed were said to be in "good" condition. The third brother was only "fair."

Because they were premature by 50 days, the babies were on official records as in fair condition but this was said to be merely a precautionary listing.

Meanwhile, their 27-year-old mother, Mrs. Marion Manning wife of a bus line worker, awoke refreshed and smiling.

If You Miss A Copy, Just Give Us A Ring

Summer is here and newspaper carrier boys, like everybody else, are taking vacations, heading for the mountains and going to camp.

In order to allow the carrier boys who have faithfully served you all year to enjoy a vacation, substitute carriers are being used.

For that reason, it is quite possible that you might miss an issue of your favorite newspaper.

In the event you miss a copy, the Daily Record will consider any request for a replacement.

The Record office is open every night until approximately midnight.

Just give us a ring—Phone 3117, 3118, or 3119—and we'll rush that copy out to you.

Unless you call, we just take it for granted that you are receiving your copy without difficulty.

Above everything else, we want you to receive your copy of The Record each evening.

So please phone us if you miss.
