Star And Wife Pretend Sin, Say It's Fun

HOLLYWOOD—MGM's new acting discovery got his career off to a Hollywood start today—he announced he and his wife pretend they're living in sin because marriage that way is "more fun."

The "living in sin" husband is tall, dark Rick Jason, who'll make a splash as a Romeo in "Sombrero." Rick and his wife, actress Maria Allen, have never worn wedding rings. The wife always is referred to as Miss Allen, a system that gets them into hot water with hotel clerks now and then.

HAVE OTHER DATES—They both have other dates on the side. They refuse to reveal when and where they were married, the ceremony being an unimportant legal item to them. For a year and a half following the wedding, in fact, they didn't tell anyone except their parents they were married at all.

And in case this design for living doesn't work out, the Jasons already have money put away for a divorce.

"We have a tendency to shock people, but we don't intend to," apologized Miss Allen, a trim red-head.

Another swing southward, to include Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, and the important 24 electoral votes of Texas is expected later.

HIS SCHEDULE

Speeches on the first Southern swing include:
 Sept. 2—Atlanta, railroad plaza about noon; Jacksonville, Fla. city square about 4 p. m. and Miami Bay Front Park at 8:30 p. m. EST. He will stay overnight in Miami.

Sept. 3—Tampa, Fla., city park about 9:30 a. m. EST; Birmingham, Ala., City Hall steps about noon, and Little Rock, Ark., MacArthur Park about 4 p. m. CST.

Flying back to New York, he will spend one night at home and entrain the morning of Sept. 4 for head.

"We want to preserve our individuality. Neither of us ever planned to get married. But we discovered on our first date five years ago that we both had the same ideas on the subject."

Philadelphia and what has been billed as the "formal" campaign opening—a speech from Convention Hall with national radio and television coverage at 8:30 p. m. EST. Prior to the Philadelphia speech he will visit Independence Hall and conduct a series of meetings with GOP groups including the State Central Committee, the finance committee, Young Republicans and others.

In another statewide primary race returns from 1,446 precincts gave Sen. John C. Stennis 167,182 votes for the renomination and his opponent, undertaker William B. Davis, 19,640 votes.

Rep. John Bell Williams, in the only race pegged on Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson's strength in Mississippi, won by drastic margins over three opponents in the new Fourth District, created by the redistribution act.

Two other incumbent representatives, Arthur Winstead and William Colmer, also won renominations easily. The Democratic nomination in Mississippi is tantamount to election.
