This School Getting Too Big For Building

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (P)—The polytechnical institution of America, where each student gets private instruction in higher learning, is getting too big for its quarters.
The school was founded in 1948 by Anatol Schneiderov on $70. It was incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia as an institution teaching languages and cultures from many lands.
The idea caught on, and now the school is moving into large quarters. These will provide 19 classrooms in contrast to six in the beginning.
Three new languages are being added — Frisian, Cambodian and Flemish. Their addition brings the total of different languages and cultures taught to 71. Not to mention a course in "flying saucers." The institution is unique in that only five or six students are in a class. As a result no more than 300 students will be enrolled for the term starting Oct. 1.

Schneiderov will be the headmaster in the course on "flying saucers" and will use as his textbook "Flying Saucers are Real" by Major Donald Keyhoe.
"The object," Schneiderov told me, "will be to sort out the hoaxes from real evidence and to publish a report on the class's findings."
"The class will meet once a week for 17 weeks and will be something like a congressional committee hearing, with witnesses being queried to describe what they saw, or thought they saw. When the report comes out, maybe we'll all learn something."
Schneiderov has done some research on his own. He says that peal by the State from a plea of abatement.

Court Not

EXTRAORDINARY ACTION
The official also said he had never heard of a judge in a lower court failing to abide by the ruling of the higher court. He said such action was practically unheard of, and most extraordinary.

He said that ordinarily, even when a judge believes the higher court is wrong, goes ahead and abides by the ruling of the higher authority.

HEARD NO TESTIMONY
Judge Strickland has contended that three Superior Court judges have told him to follow the course which he is pursuing. He has not, however, listened to any part of the oral testimony given by the parties. He said he was given to him in personal advice and did not constitute legal, official and recorded rulings.

Also, they point out, the judges who gave the local recorder that advice hadn't heard both sides of the issue under sworn testimony.

"The two judges who did hear both sides of the question under sworn testimony ruled Judge Strickland was wrong and reversed him," pointed out Attorneys Duncan C. Wilson and Everett L. Dofferny.

"How could any Superior Court Judge, or any other Judge, give a ruling on such an issue without hearing the evidence?" they asked.

Attorneys are baffled as to what will happen to all the cases which keep piling up. It appears obvious that the Supreme Court is not going to hear the case.

It is possible, however, that Judge Strickland and Solicitor J. Shepard Bryan may be able to find some other way of settling the case to the Supreme Court.

In the meantime, the cases keep piling up.

301 Group Has Meeting Here

The Highway 301 Association, in a meeting held here today, went on record as opposed to the construction of any regional highway to replace that highway until all means of using the existing highway by widening it and constructing bypasses around bottlenecks have been explored thoroughly.

Among the suggestions offered were that of writing to the Senators and Representatives, sending telegrams and personal messages to Dr. R. E. East of the Highway Department, protesting the new road and offering this alternative.

It was also suggested that the group work on the Highway Commission, through their own city and county boards of commissioners, by showing that the new road will hurt the towns along the route as well as those directly affected by owning businesses on 301.

President E. L. Washburn presided and representatives from most of the communities along the Highway 301 route were present at the meeting.

In 1111 A. D. metallic spheres were reported over the Himalayas. These were reported again in the 18th Century by travelers in Tibet and Mongolia.

city limits, and the board immediately passed an order bringing that part of Greenwood Cemetery outside the city limits into the town.

The proposition of refusing to take new subdivisions into the town until the owners have put in water, sewers and streets, acceptable to the town, was tabled for future study.

NO VOLUNTEERS
There were no volunteers among the board members when Commissioner R. G. Tart suggested that some disinterested person should inspect the interior to check on the event of resale.

The board accepted the recommendation from the Water Superintendent that the standpipe should be cleaned, with the outside being cleaned and painted this year and he inside renovated next year. City Manager Uzzle pointed out that the standpipe would then be good for another eight or ten years.

TO WRITE ORDINANCE
City Manager Uzzle is to work out the requirements and City Attorney I. R. Williams is to put them in the form of an ordinance.

A new ordinance specifying the requirements for the erection of signs was adopted. The provisions also include the erection of piazzas, porches or bay windows, which would overhang any part of the street right-of-way, which it banned.

Only such signs as are fastened securely to the walls of the building and which are ten or more feet above the street may be erected. They must not be supported or be on any part of the street right-of-way.

The ordinance does not affect signs which are now up, but if they are taken down new signs must comply with the provisions if re-erected. A fine of ten dollars was fixed as the penalty with each day constituting a separate offense.

An order was entered in the minutes, requiring property owners to file a map showing the corners and location of a building, made by a qualified surveyor, before a building permit can be issued.

Another order requires plumbing contractors to file a drawing indicating the size and location of pipes and their character. The order also provides that no privilege licenses shall be issued to a plumbing contractor unless he produces a valid state license.

Mayor Hanna told the board that he had received several inquiries in regard to fire protection outside the city limits. He said he told the inquirers that in his opinion a plan would be adopted which would charge five dollars yearly for each dwelling, or that the plan calling for a straight deposit of $100 might be adopted.

No action was taken on the proposition at the meeting, although the City Attorney was instructed to investigate the legal ramifications of such a project.

Another policy discussed, but with no definite action taken, was that of levying on the water consumers outside the city limits, so that they would pay for the upkeep of the water supplying equipment in proportion to the way the citizens of Dunn pay for this in taxes. About 25 percent of the tax levy goes to maintain the water system.

Mayor Hanna outlined the retirement plan as set forth by N. H. Cox of the Local Government Employees Retirement Fund and H. P. Trader of the Law Enforcement Officers Retirement Fund. However, the board took no action on setting this up.

It was decided that in the future, all cemetery lot deeds, should have a clause requiring the buyer to give the town first option on the lots whether the saucers are earthly things or from some other planet. We hope to examine all of the evidence and come up with something concrete."

stadium, which seats about 16,000. Eisenhower was hustled through the crowd but insisted on stopping to sign a little girl's autograph book.

He told of the Salisbury stop. He said he heard people shouting "We Want Ike" as he got out of bed on the train.

"We went out to see our friends in our robes and faced them," he said. He added that "we tried to dodge our friends, the photographers."

He said the Truman administration has dragged down U. S. prestige abroad and produced "scandals of which we are ashamed."

Eisenhower also charged the administration with creating inflation. He said it particularly hurts farmers because "the things they have to buy go up and up and up."

"The big thing we have to do now is to keep our money from growing cheaper," he said.

PRaises ROYAL GRAY
Eisenhower also denounced "subversion and disloyalty in government." He said that if there were men like former Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royal and Gordon Gray of North Carolina in office they would see that there was no subversion and dishonesty.

He went on to deplore "increasing centralization of power in Washington."

"They even want the bureaucrats now to take over responsibility for the health of each of us," he said. "They think some individuals in Washington would know more about your health than your own doctor."

The general also said that "we need not have gotten into the Korean war if we had been far-sighted."

To preserve peace and preserve America, he said, "we must have a change."
