PARIS (P) — War veteran Roger Bosc, 27, had his nomination today for "meanest thief"—the person who stole Bosc's suitcase containing his artificial leg while he studied a map in a subway station.

Erwin Church Has Conference

A conference of Sunday School teachers and officers of the East Erwin Baptist Church was held Saturday evening at 7:30 to lay plans for the coming year in the work of both the Sunday School and the church.

Miss Ruby Williams, one of the Group Captains of the Little River Baptist Association was in charge of the conference which was designed to expand the work of the church.

Bishop Tells

will be cut. This is the second wage cut that the AFL weavers have received since the AFL signed the contract there.

"In the North Carolina Finishing mill, two months have gone by since the AFL won the election but there still is no contract. The workers have not gained a single thing by joining the UTW-AFL but they have lost much."

OWE IT ALL TO CIO

"In Erwin," Bishop said, "all the Erwin workers have today because of the CIO union. It's a splendid record of accomplishments. In 1938 when the mill was first organized by CIO the plant minimum wage was 33c, today the plant minimum is $1.03 1/2 per hour. In 1938 the average wage in the mill was 45c per hour, today the average pay in the Erwin mill is $1.35 per hour. That means wages alone have been tripled since the CIO took over several years ago. And that's not all the benefits that workers have gained. Vacation with pay, sick insurance, paid holidays were un-dreamed of when the Erwin was first organized. Today these benefits are the gains won for the workers through the CIO union."

"The UTW-AFL has been knocking around the country for fifty years," he continued, "Failure has been the only mark that the UTW-AFL has left behind. It is a well known fact that the very reason for which the CIO was started was because the UTW-AFL was not able to do the job. The CIO organization in textile began in 1937. In 1939 we were chartered as the Textile Workers Union CIO and since that time we have grown to a membership of 400,000 members. The largest textile union in the world. The very leadership that UTW-AFL is attacking today has built changed conditions in textile mills that textile workers twenty years back never dreamed of."

REPORTS STRETCHOUT

"It has been reported to me," Bishop declared, by the CIO members present at this meeting from the Durham Erwin mill that starting Monday a stretchout is being put into effect in the Durham Erwin mill. They report that starting Monday the battery fillers in Number 6 mill will be stretched out from 68 to a 101 battery assignment. In Number 1 mill, the battery fillers workload will be increased from a 60 to a 102 battery assignment. The weaver room tie-ups in hands will be reduced from seven to three. That's doubling the workload. The defers in Number 6 mill in Durham as of the Monday will hereafter have to sweep up the roving and do the sweeping up work that they did not have to do under the CIO. And if we can judge by what has happened in other mills that the UTW-AFL has taken over, there will be more stretchouts. The AFL is not interested in improving workers' wages, conditions and keeping reasonable workloads, all they care about is to get a contract regardless of what's in it.

"PRACTICALLY BANKRUPT"

"The UTW-AFL is practically bankrupt," Bishop stated. "They have been appealing to all AFL unions to give them some finances to continue their raid of the CIO," he said. "But they have been met with deaf ears. Their financial situation is so serious that a number of those who have left the CIO and joined the AFL are now asking to get back on the CIO. Among those asking to get back are some who are working right here in Erwin. What kind of service do you expect to get from a union that is virtually bankrupt? How many men will they be able to afford to have here in Erwin to help you? How many cases will the UTW-AFL take to arbitration for you when they are in so desperate need of money? Arbitrations are a costly matter. Rather than fight workload increases as the CIO has done, the AFL will allow the workload increases to go into effect because the costs of arbitration they cannot afford. I predict to you that it will only be a few months before the workers at Durham and Cooleemee will realize their mistake and want to come back into the CIO."

Judge Sharp Raps Union Activities

Judge Susie Sharp pointed her finger at CIO and AFL members in Harnett Civil Court and told them what she thought of their use of her court order for propaganda purposes.

Last July a group of Erwin Mills workers broke away from Local 250 of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) and affiliated with the United Textile Workers of America (AFL).

Local 250, backed by their president, Emil Rieve, claimed the meeting in which disaffiliation was voted was illegal. The CIO union further alleged in a civil suit that the prodigious union officials had kept records, minutes of meetings and had used funds that rightfully belonged to Local 250.

The case has made the rounds of two court terms, an appeal to the Federal District Court, an appeal to the North Carolina Supreme Court, hearings before NLRB commissioners, and is now back where it started.

The papers in question were supposed to have been deposited in the Clerk of Superior Court's vault in Lillington for the use of Local 250. Since then the CIO union has alleged the records are incomplete. Meanwhile a large advertisement appeared in The Daily Record, carrying the text of Judge Clawson Williams restraining order, which was clamped on the AFL local officials until the labor dispute in Erwin could be cleared up.

The ad sported a bold face head stating that Judge Susie Sharp upheld the CIO.

The AFL union's attorney placed the ad in Judge Sharp's desk, following a contempt hearing in which the AFL affiliated union was charged with not complying with the court order.

Judge Sharp snapped at the CIO plaintiffs that she thought the ad violated trust. She was visibly angered. The CIO men present for the trial countered with a part of a pamphlet that opposing AFL union workers had passed out at Erwin Mills in which Judge Sharp was cited for upholding their side of the argument.

Judge Sharp counter attacked. She said, "Two wrongs don't make a right."

The contempt hearing will not wind up until next week. Judge Sharp agreed to sit with the contending millworkers in Leaksville next week to determine if the records were available to such completion as to uphold or wipe out the contempt charge.

Revival Draws Large Crowds

A capacity congregation heard Dr. W. Perry Crouch last night at the revival meeting held at the Dunn First Baptist Church. His topic was "The Great Gospel We Preach."

"Services will be conducted through Friday of this week at 9:00 each morning and at 7:30 each evening, with the concluding service of the series Friday evening."

MORNING SERVICES

Topics Dr. Crouch has chosen for the morning services are: Tuesday, "Dealing With Doubt"; Wednesday, "Christian Conquest of Fear"; Thursday, "Christian Formula for Peace of Mind"; Friday, "The Victorious Life."

Topics for the evening services include: tonight, "Failure of Evil"; Tuesday, "Thirst of Life"; Wednesday, "God's Grace"; Thursday, "The Importance of Our Influence"; Friday, "A Final View."

Dr. Crouch, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Asheville, is an outstanding speaker, and the pastor of the host church, Rev. Ernest P. Russell, extends a cordial invitation to the general public to attend these services.

Lillington Loses To Clayton

The passing of Quarterback Bobby Dodd and the running of Fullback Clark Davis gave Clayton a 31-6 win over Lillington at a 10-yard pass from Jack Long to Leo McDonald and held a first period lead, 6-0.

Clayton came back strong in the second period and tied the game when Dodd passed 20 yards to Eugene Capps.

Smith Cites Menace Of Illegal Aliens

RALEIGH — Senator Willis Smith informally reported to a news conference Friday morning his impressions and opinions gained during a ten week official trip to Europe this summer.

He returned to the United States Tuesday and arrived in Raleigh early Thursday morning, after two months study of the refugee and immigration conditions in Europe, following attendance upon the Interparliamentary Congress in Bern, Switzerland, in late July.

Senator Smith said he would join the Democratic caravan traveling the State in the interests of the Democratic party, but he confessed some lack of enthusiasm for Governor Stevenson's reported attitude on economic and civil rights issues of vital concern to the South. He said he would have to catch up on developments since he left the country before making positive commitment, but he has never voted anything but the straight Democratic ticket and presently has no intention of doing so now. He added that he would take no part in the campaign of vituperation against General Eisenhower, saying that political questions should be settled on something other than abuse.

The political refugee problem in Italy, Greece, Turkey and other Southern European countries is much less acute than it was two years ago, Smith believes that with proper attention those countries can integrate into their own economy nearly all of the refugees. The number now is not large — some 2,000 in Italy, less than that number in Greece and still fewer in Turkey. The goal of all these refugees seems to be the United States. Pointing out that this country has already absorbed nearly a million and a half immigrants since the end of World War II, the Senator feels that we should take others only so fast as we can assimilate them and make potential citizens.

REFUGEE PROBLEM

The subcommittee on immigration of the Senate Judiciary Committee has not prepared its report, but Senator Smith — who served as chairman of the group — gave some indications of what he expected the formal report to contain.

The next most important step is to provide instruction in American citizenship, a bill which he introduced in the Senate a few months ago authorizing systematic citizenship training for new arrivals got lost in the session-end rush in the House of Representatives. He said he would offer it again in the next Congress and hoped it would pass. He made it clear that he does not want to close the doors against good people who cherish the hope of making good in America; neither does he want to open wide the gates for all might represent the subversive.

Little Things

Raleigh friend told him, "You were up here trying to wrangle a few new roads for Harnett County. That Bible was just an excuse for your real visit."

"So now," laughed Father McCarthy, "they're calling me a politician. I can't win."

THINGAMAJIGS: Among local Democratic leaders who like Ike is Mince McLamb, who's one of the staunchest and best Democrats in this part of the country. Like many other Democrats, he makes no bones over the fact that he can't stomach Truman. When General Ike appeared in Charlotte, Mince was right there, sitting only about 50 feet from where General Ike spoke. Three of his Sampson friends, Aaron Navler, Edward McLamb and Martin Jackson, went with him. It took us two weeks to get up with Mr. Mac to get a first-hand report. He says he and the others were well impressed with General Eisenhower.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Prince will move back to Dunn from Florida about the first of the year.

Hal Jordan entered one name of "The World Series. . . The local theatre owner was in Charlotte and saw it on television. . . J. O. West has already made it plain that if he's elected city judge he won't take any foolishness off the lawyers or anybody else. . . He intends to "run my court," he says. . . A short while ago he and two lawyer friends came down from a session of court. "I want to tell you right now," said J. O., "if you try anything like that when I get on the bench you'll land in jail for about 30 days. . . And, believe it or not, the lawyers agreed he was right and congratulated him for his stand. . . James Surles is one of the hardest-working fellows in town. . . Works day and night. . . J. W. Temple Jr., formerly Daily Record photographer, writes his folks that he likes the Coast Guard fine. . . But, of course, he'd rather be home. . . Buck (Top Dollar) Currin still has hopes of the Dunn market reaching ten million pounds this year.

Senator Smith Probina Reds

NEW YORK (P) — Senate Red hunters called upon Americans in the United Nations, including a top Secretariat official, today to tell whether they have been taking part in Communist activities. A Senate Internal Security subcommittee summoned scores of witnesses to appear at the opening session of the public hearing in the Federal Court House on Foley Square. Senator Willis Smith of North Carolina is a member of this committee.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.) who promised to produce "startling revelations" during the hearing, turned its attention to U. N. personnel following a morning session devoted to subversion in New York City schools and colleges.

NORTH CAROLINA UNLIMITED

Another "FIRST IN THE NATION" For NORTH CAROLINA!

Thanks to our extensive forests, North Carolina leads the nation in production of wooden furniture and harder plywoods. . . we're first of all southern states in income from forest products. Contributing greatly to our farm family income, this helps make North Carolina a better place to work, play and live.

Also contributing to the pleasant living that is North Carolina is the brewing industry's self-regulation program where brewers, wholesalers and retailers—in counties where malt beverage sales are permitted under state control—co-operate to maintain wholesome conditions for the legal sale of beer and ale.
