COLUMBIA, S. C. (P) — The midway of the 83rd South Carolina State Fair was in full operation today, despite last night's fire which swept away 57 concession booths, causing an estimated $75,000 in damage.

Ten Little Injuns Is Delayed Here

Jim McMillen, founder of the Dunn Little Theatre, today announced with regret, that plans to put on the play, "Ten Little Indians" had been tabled, at least for the present. The group had been unable to complete a cast for the production at this time. "Perhaps after the holidays, we can manage to interest more of the local talent in lending their services," McMillen said. He pointed out that many of the loyal Little Theatre devotees had expressed deep concern over the apathy on the part of the members of the group who were historically inclined. "We earnestly hope," McMillen said, "that interest in the group may be revived. However, the reminder, 'an aggressive forward moving organization, responding to the cultural needs of a community, must have both workers and actors.'" He said there were plenty of workers but that there were too few who were willing and able to portray a characterization on the stage. Without sufficient actors, he pointed out, there cannot be a play. Mr. Robert Phebus, director

Drama and Speech at Campbell College, invited to do so by President Earl Mahone, had offered to lend his time and talent in order that the Little Theatre group could produce the stage vehicle, "Ten Little Indians." However, Mr. Phebus came to Dunn on three occasions and met with a group far too small and inadequate in numbers to put on the play.

BACK FROM TRIP

Mrs. Charles Highsmith returned Friday from Winston-Salem where she visited her son, Dr. Charles Highsmith Jr., who is sick in the Baptist Hospital. His condition is very satisfactory and he is slowly improving. He will be in the hospital for another month.

The first request for women nurses to take care of wounded came from the Continental Army in 1776. Women were chosen from among mothers, wives and sisters of the troops and sent to hospitals. For ten weeks' work, they received about $25 and their food rations.

The Mexican Chamber of Fishing Industry estimates the nation will export 20,000 tons of shrimp to the United States during 1952.

Orphanage Has Big Fire Loss

Fire late yesterday afternoon completely destroyed the dairy barn at the Falcon orphanage. The cause of the blaze could not be determined. The fire was first discovered at 4:00 p. m. while most of the personnel and the students were out picking cotton. The blaze ripped through the 80-foot square frame structure so quickly that there was no chance of putting out the flames. Superintendent C. T. McCartney estimated the damage at between $18,000 and $20,000. All milk equipment and 1800 bales of hay were destroyed. The only casualty was the Guernsey bull the orphanage uses for stud. None of the herd of 20 cows was injured, however. Part of the milk from the herd is consumed by the orphanage children and the remainder is sold to neighboring pasteurizing plants.

Little Things

(Continued From Page One) moved from the hotel to Mrs. E. V. Gainey's rooming house, leaving word at the hotel for the Youngs. Mrs. Bond waited all day Monday for the Youngs to come by. She's afraid the Youngs might have failed to get her message, perhaps thought she had already returned to San Antonio and left her. Or, she's hoping that they've just been delayed and will be by for her. The trouble is that Mrs. Bond failed to get the name of Mrs. Young's parents and thus is unable to contact them. She appealed to The Daily Record today to notify the Youngs that she's at the Gainey rooming house waiting for them. It's a long way to San Antonio and Mrs. Bond doesn't want to get left. Citizens who might know the Young family are requested to contact Mrs. Bond. She's right much in suspense about getting back to San Antonio.

LITTLE NOTES: Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Whittenton went down to Spartanburg, S. C., last week for an advance showing of the 1953 DeSoto and Dewey reports it's a "humdinger." "You'll have to wait to see it for yourself," says the popular Dunn dealer. Bill Teyford, still expanding his commercial printing shop here, added another big piece of equipment last week. That's one firm that stays so busy it has to turn away business. Fannie Sue Turnage, The Daily Record's "Girl Friday" and her beau, Go Go Jackson, took in the ice show last night, report that she's wonderful. Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Barefoot, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Horton, also in the audience. Howard M. Lee will have a huge $100,000 train exhibit on display at his store just before Christmas. Speaking of Christmas, Norman Suttles and Bert Alabaster of the Chamber of Commerce report that this year's Christmas parade in Dunn will be the biggest and most colorful ever. Bill Elgas says everybody ought to read the editorial about President Truman in last week's Life Magazine.

Morse Offered Cabinet Post — President Truman offered Sen. Wayne Morse (R-Ore) the job of attorney general last December but Morse turned it down. It was disclosed today. Morse, who announced Saturday he is bolting the Republican ticket to back Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson, acknowledged in an interview that Mr. Truman had offered him "one of the top positions in the government." But Morse said he rejected it because "I don't approve of Republicans in a Democratic cabinet or vice versa."

Help Didn't Come, He Goes To Roads

Relatives from Coats waited just a little too long to keep Floyd Johnson, Jr., 23-year-old Bunn-level Negro from going to the roads. He left late yesterday afternoon for a 30 day term. Johnson was one of the offenders caught in the week-end roundup of citizens who have imbibed too freely. Monday he was given a sentence of 30 days, suspended on payment of $5 and costs. Officers, at Johnson's request, had put through a call to notify his relatives in order that they could "pay him out" but when no one appeared he was committed to the road camp. This morning the relatives showed up, too late.

Crowd Was Slim, But It Was Fun

Although attendance was slim at the square dance Friday night at the Erwin High School gym, sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association, those who attended had a wonderful time, and have been calling on PTA president E. R. King for a repeat performance. Tickets for the event will be scaled at fifty cents each and may be obtained in advance from any member of the PTA or at the door Saturday night. The proceeds will go to the fund for uniforms for the school band. King reported this morning that the fund has now grown to the sum of $1,115, and that this is only about a thousand dollars from the sum he needed to completely uniform the band. Thirty-eight band members have been measured for the uniforms and the order was sent off Monday. They should be delivered within five or six weeks. President King urges the residents of Erwin to turn out Saturday night and enjoy the evening of dancing and entertainment and at the same time aid the PTA in its effort to have the remainder of the fund by the time the uniforms are ready.

Sparkman, Warren To Speak In N. C.

Spellman, Baruch Say Truman Wrong

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER (P) — Dwight D. Eisenhower, fighting mad over President Truman's charge he is a captive of anti-Jewish and anti-Catholic forces, referred his White House critic today to Francis Cardinal Spellman and Bernard Baruch for their opinions.

Eisenhower ridiculed the President's allegation at Providence, R. I., for the first time Monday and indicated he would continue to deny the charges today at every New England whistle stop. The Republican presidential nominee appeared to be unimpressed with Mr. Truman's denial in a special statement Monday night that he had ever had called Eisenhower anti-Semitic or anti-Catholic. The President, in the same statement, however, again criticized Eisenhower for endorsing Republican senators who had helped over-ride his veto of the McCarran immigration bill. Last Friday Mr. Truman, in a statement to the National Jewish Welfare Board, said Eisenhower had become the captive of these senators.

Stanley

(Continued From Page One) graduated from Teachers' College at Columbia University in 1941 with a Degree of Bachelor of Science, having majored in education. He taught school in New York and took some post-graduate work in Stafford University there. He signed up for aviation training during World War II and served in the Pacific Theatre as a pilot with the Army Air Force. He was discharged with the rank of Lieutenant after 23 months, having served in that grade for that time. Instead of re-embarking on a teaching career, he entered business on his own but sold the business to enter private employment. Assisting him in the operation of the store will be Tony Simpkins, Glenn Riddle and watchmaker Roy Allen.

The new manager replaces J. M. Simpkins, who managed the store here for the past two and one-half years. He has been transferred to Greensboro, where he will act as general manager for the wholesale office of the Stanley chain. Mr. Simpkins has many friends in Dunn who will regret to learn that he is leaving.

Smith, Umstead

(Continued From Page One) vulgar language and vicious attacks upon Eisenhower. One experienced campaigner said he felt sure that Truman was hurting Stevenson, not so much by taking votes away from him as by gaining votes for Eisenhower. This man was fair enough to say that Stevenson could not be held accountable for Truman's statements, and any more than Eisenhower can be held fully accountable for McCarthy's. His idea that nobody will vote against Stevenson because of Truman, but that some will vote for Eisenhower as a protest against unjustified attacks upon his integrity.

Strengthening Positions

Among these numerous expressions of disgust and contempt for both the best campaigning have been a good many statements suggesting that Senator Willis Smith and a Governor-nominate William Umstead are strengthening their future positions by their present attitudes. Smith has consistently refused to take any part in a campaign of "vituperation and vilification" and Umstead was quick to call the hand of "The News & Observer" which inaccurately and unfairly reported him as having called Democrats who vote for Eisenhower political fakes, and Eisenhower himself a puppet of Taft. Both Smith and Umstead are supporting the full Democratic ticket, from top to bottom. Umstead has emphasized Eisenhower's lack of training and experience in civil government, as contrasted with Stevenson's excellent record in that field, but he has said nothing that would reflect upon the character or integrity of either the general or any citizen who votes for him. On the contrary he has repeatedly warned against trying to "read any Democrat out of the party." Both Smith and Umstead have emphasized the positive virtues of the party and its candidates instead of tearing down anybody else. Many people believe that over the heat of the campaign is when this attitude will be appreciated.

Russell

(Continued From Page One) the future of this country to hawkers of painless means to stop the march of communism. They will not gamble with the future of their children." NO SUBSTITUTE Russell said that no military career "however great" can be a substitute for civilian familiarity with government. "General Eisenhower's evident confusion in his efforts to grapple with vital political issues has clearly demonstrated to the American people the grave danger of placing our government in the hands of a military man who is totally unfamiliar with American civilian thinking," Russell said. "As one who has admired General Eisenhower as a military leader, I have been bewildered by the endless contradictions of his political pronouncements."
