Saturday Last Day To Get Name On Books

If you are still unregistered, tomorrow will be your last chance, and the Dunn Junior Chamber of Commerce members are going to make an all-out effort to make sure that no one eligible neglects this opportunity.

Cars will be available at the car pool at the Chamber of Commerce all day to carry registrants to their registering places and return them to their homes. Just phone 3350 if you want a free ride.

A car will cruise Dunn with a loud speaker exhorting those who are eligible to be sure and register, and pointing out that tomorrow will be their last chance to do so in time for their ballot to count in the coming General Election.

Local registrars reminded Dunn citizens today that if they have moved from one precinct to another since the last election that they'll have to register in the new precinct in which they now live.

FOUR PRECINCTS HERE Aversboro is divided into four precincts with Broad Street and ACL as the dividing lines, four precincts as follows:

Aversboro No. I, all who reside in that section north of Broad Street and east of the ACL railroad.

Aversboro No. II, all who reside in that section south of Broad Street and east of the ACL Railroad.

Aversboro No. III, all who reside in that section south of Broad Street and west of the ACL Railroad.

Aversboro No. IV, all who reside in that section north of Broad Street and west of the ACL Railroad.

REGISTRATION PLACES Registrars with their books will be found at the following places in the county tomorrow:

Anderson Creek-Hills Garage. Aversboro No. 1-W&S Motor Co. Aversboro No. 2-Dunn Municipal Building.

Aversboro No. 3-Auto Sales and Service. Aversboro No. 4-Dunn Armory. Barbecue-Mack Cameron's Store. Black River - Angier Municipal Building.

Scott Says He Has No Plans

Governor W. Kerr Scott, an avowed admirer and staunch supporter of President Harry S. Truman, says he's positive Mr. Truman is helping—not hurting—the Democratic ticket of Stevenson and Sparkman.

"That talk about Truman hurting," declared Governor Scott in an interview while in Harnett attending a county-wide Democratic rally, "is coming from those people who have been opposed to Truman all along."

Governor Scott made plain his position. "I am," he said, "a North Carolina Southern Roosevelt, Truman, Stevenson Democrat."

The Governor said he has no patience with those who claim to be Democrats but say they'll vote for Ike.

Young Evangelist Attacks Crime Conditions In Dunn

SHE PREACHES FROM THE BIBLE

Mayor Declines Comment About Dope, Liquor

Renee Martz, famed 12-year-old evangelist, told a packed house at the Gospel Tabernacle here last night that she's found Dunn to be a sinful city.

"This is another Sodom and Gomorrah," the young preacher told the congregation.

Little Renee opened her remarks by offering praise for the town. "Today," she related, "we were taken for a ride around this city. I saw spots of loveliness, new areas developed, trees with their falling leaves and restful character . . ."

RIPS OFF THE LID

And then came the bombshell as she ripped off the lid and laid the bare facts open for the crowd.

"But under the carefully-laid surface, I am told you can dial a number and get a bottle of whiskey . . . a shot of dope . . . a handful of sneaky corruption.

"I'd expect this in Chicago where I was born," she said, "or Port Said, Egypt where they told me to stay in the lighted streets for fear of knifings . . . or Genoa, Italy, where the elevator man told Daddy to garage his car or it would be stripped on the corner under the street lights . . . But here in Dunn, this is another Sodom and Gomorrah!"

A hush fell over the congregation. Things were so quiet you could hear a pin drop as the little crusader continued her war on the devil.

UP TO THE CHURCH

"If the men elected to office here can't or won't correct this," suggested Renee, "the church had better. I would hate to live here . . . It is your duty as a Christian to run sin out and bring Christ in."

"If the local pastors," she continued, "would have a heart that palpitates as one who chucks out their petty grievances and make a crusade for God . . . this would be a real town to live in."

Mayor Ralph E. Hanna, when advised of the charges this morning. (Continued On Page Four)

AT STATE MEDICAL MEET

Harnett county physicians attending the meeting of the North Carolina Chapter of General Practitioners in Winston-Salem on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday were: Dr. Charles W. Byrd of Dunn, Dr. W. E. Adair of Erwin, and Dr. W. K. Willford of Lillington. Mrs. Adair also attended. General sessions were held at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

Lillington Man, 94, Will Vote For Adlai

Mr. J. Frank Byrd of Lillington today is celebrating his 94th birthday. "Mr. Frank," as he is popularly known, was born near Buie's Creek, Oct. 24, 1858, the son of Andrew Jackson and Caroline Shaw Byrd. A carpenter by trade he has worked in many places throughout North and South Carolina.

A bachelor, he resides at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Byrd, who happen not to be related to him. Despite a recent illness with influenza he is able to walk literally miles every day, and goes to restaurants for three meals a day.

A great fisherman and trapper he is looking forward to the winter season when "muskrat catches" are good along the Cape Fear. He is a well-known fisherman and has many a fish to prove that the best ones "do not" get away from him.

ME KEEPS ALERT

Alert to every thing in the community he is a firm believer in fresh air and sunshine as the best medicine. He listens to the radio daily, and reads not only a daily paper, but current fiction, magazines and articles.

Right now the presidential campaign is of great interest, and despite being a Spanish-American War veteran and liking Stevenson but.

He thinks he is apt to be the oldest voter in Lillington. Certainly none his age will climb the steps on election day with his agile step or quick movements.

If Stevenson wins he is apt to jump several feet in the air and click his heels together, a trick he often performs on the sidewalk and in the drug store to the amazement of younger on-lookers.

A. J. FLETCHER IN "DON PASQUALE"

Campbell Concerts Open Monday Night

The 1952-53 Campbell College concert series will open Monday night when the Grass Roots Opera Company of the North Carolina Federation of Music Clubs will present Donizetti's comic opera, Don Pasquale, in English at 8 p. m. in the college auditorium.

Advance sale of season tickets has been good and a capacity crowd is expected. Tickets will also be available at the door.

The company was organized in 1949 by A. J. Fletcher, Raleigh attorney and businessman, who saw the great need for opportunities for talented North Carolina singers to gain experience in public performance. A singer himself, Mr. Fletcher realized that opera in English can be excellent entertainment, but had never been accepted as such by the American public as a whole. The average American shudders slightly at the thought of going to an opera. He associated the word "opera" with some very unreal performance in a language he can't understand. Mr. Fletcher and his Grass Roots Opera Company set out to prove that the public generally can be brought to enjoy and attend opera. (Continued On Page Four)

Small Island South Of Cuba Struck Today

MIAMI (AP) — A hurricane packing winds of 165 miles per hour, a drastic jump over previous reports, hit a small island south of Cuba today, heading northward and posing a dangerous threat to the Florida east coast.

The storm was described as "a stinker" by Grady Norton, chief forecaster in the Miami weather bureau, who was keeping abreast of details via radio and plane.

There was a strong chance that the main fury of the tropical blow would pass northward of the Florida coast, but bring gale winds to the land.

165-MILE WIND Norton said a weather post on Guano Key, 30 miles south of the Cuban coast, radioed Miami at noon that it recorded maximum winds of 165 miles an hour shortly after 11 a. m. EST. This weather observer said "the seas are colossal."

At 11:15 a. m., the observer on Guano said the winds had dropped to 35 miles an hour. Norton said at that time the center of the vicious hurricane was passing over the island enroute to the Cuba mainland.

At 12:30 p. m., Norton said, the hurricane should have been slammed. (Continued on page two)

Monroe Plans New Store Here

L. A. Monroe, prominent local business man and jeweler, announced today that he would open and operate Monroe Jewelers, Dunn's newest and most modern jewelry establishment, next Thursday.

Located at the same spot where the old M-System store was, Monroe Jewelers will be one of the finest up to date stores in the area and will have everything that the discerning customer wishes in the way of jewelry, silver, china and crystal ware.

Workmen were putting the finishing touches to the renovation of the building on Broad street today and Mr. Monroe said that he would hold the formal opening definitely next Thursday.

A number of valuable awards will be given away at the opening next week.

The store will feature silver, china and glass ware for brides of the area, Mr. Monroe said today, as he disclosed that he will carry all the nationally advertised lines of jewelry at the new shop.

GREAT ASSET TO TOWN The store will add much to the looks of Dunn's Broad street when it is finally completed next week with its beautiful black glass front and its indented entrance that gives it a spacious look from the street.

Inside, the walls will be painted in soft pastel shades with asphalt. (Continued On Page Three)
