Ike, GOP Solons To Meet

Will Discuss Policies For Next Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Dwight D. Eisenhower is planning to meet with Republican leaders of Congress about Dec. 1 to discuss the GOP legislative program, it was disclosed today.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of the Massachusetts Republican who is slated to be speaker of the House in the next Congress, said he understood that Eisenhower wants to talk over legislative problems with congressional leaders in advance of the new session starting Jan. 3.

Republicans won airline majorities in both the House and Senate Tuesday while Eisenhower captured the presidency with the biggest vote ever given a presidential candidate.

The latest United Press tabulation gave Eisenhower 32,527,194 popular and 442 electoral votes, compared with 25,956,321 popular and 89 electoral votes for Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

CONGRESS CLOSE Eisenhower's victory was not reflected in the majorities the Republicans won in Congress. The Senate will consist of 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one independent, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon. The indicated House line-up is 221 Republicans, 212 Democrats and one independent, Rep. Frazier Reams of Ohio.

Martin said in a telephone interview from North Attleboro, Mass., that the big Eisenhower majority showed the GOP candidate's personal popularity.

"Personally I don't think we would have won if Eisenhower had not headed the ticket," Martin said. "I question whether another Republican could have won."

TO MEET WITH TRUMAN Eisenhower's conference with congressional leaders apparently will take place after he has a White House "unity" meeting with President Truman.

Safety Teacher Is Fined For Speeding Here

Carmine Giuseppe Conrad is one of the safety instructors at Fort Bragg. One of the main points he tries to impress on his students is the danger of speeding.

Due to this, Conrad is one of the last persons one would expect to find haled into court for violation of a traffic law. However, he evidently does not practice what he preaches, for yesterday he turned up before Judge H. Paul Strickland in City Court, charged with speeding.

To add to his discomfiture, when he was arrested by Highway Patrolman D. L. Matthews, who charged him with travelling at 70 miles per hour, he had three of his erstwhile pupils with him. Conrad told the court that he (Continued on page two)

Parole Sought By Alger Hiss

WASHINGTON (AP) - Alger Hiss has applied for parole from his five-year prison term for lying about his role in a Russian spy ring.

A Justice Department spokesman revealed Thursday night the former State Department official applied to Warden George Humphrey of the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., where he has been imprisoned since March 21, 1951.

Hiss will automatically become eligible for parole Nov. 21, when he will have served a third of his sentence. He was convicted of perjury in January, 1950, on charges of lying when he told a federal grand jury under oath that he never slipped confidential government documents to Whitaker Chambers, confessed member of a pre-war Soviet espionage ring.

Carl Lucas Finds Its A Long From Erwin Here

According to the vote in Harnett County there are 4,301 persons who like Ike. Carl Lucas, owner of Carl's Grocery in Erwin, however, is definitely not one of these.

He and a clerk who works for him, Lexie Tyndall, each backed a different candidate, Carl favoring Stevenson and Lexie favoring Ike. Finally they agreed on a rash bet to decide the issue. The loser was to hand the winner in a wagon, from the store to the First-Citizens Bank in Dunn.

Came the dawn Wednesday and Carl, looking a bit grim, turned up at the store to be greeted by a triumphant Lexie. Wednesday afternoon, Carl paid off Lexie, relaxed and comfortable, with a huge cigar in his mouth, sat back in the wagon, while his perspiration (Continued on page 8)

Court To Convene On Monday

Eighty-five cases, including five murder cases, eight manslaughter cases and a variety of other offenses ranging from drunkenness to forgery, bootlegging and embezzlement are scheduled for trial in the two week criminal term of Harnett County Superior Court which opens Monday.

There will be no court on Tuesday in observation of Armistice Day. Judge Henry L. Stevens and Solicitor Jack Hooks will prosecute the docket.

One of the cases set for action by the Grand Jury of county-wide interest is that of C. G. Fields of Angier, once-prominent banker and former vice-chairman of the Harnett County Board of Commissioners.

Fields is charged with embezzling approximately $5,000 from an insurance company he represented after his resignation as cashier of the Angier branch of the First-Citizens Bank and Trust Co.

Another case in which there is a great deal of local interest is that of Robert (Bob) Porter, charged with assault with intent to commit rape. Porter, 37-year-old "Country Preacher" of radio station WFVG in Fuquay Springs is charged with this crime against Ina Mae Wood, 19, who at the time of the alleged assault was an Erwin High School senior.

Stevenson's Role In Party Talked

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) - Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson's campaign headquarters here was deluged today with almost as many telegrams and letters as he might have received had he won the highest office in the land.

Miss Carole Evans, chief secretary supervising four girls opening mail, said the messages were "wonderful."

She said most of them urged him to stay in national politics and that many praised the Illinois governor "for campaigning the way he thought he should."

And the defeated Democratic presidential candidate seemed to be sticking by a passage he once wrote into a television fireside chat:

"And if it should cause you to (Continued On Page Two)

Bodyguard Says Ike Just Too Friendly

CHICAGO (AP) - Dwight D. Eisenhower had only one fault in the eyes of the Chicago policemen assigned to guard him during the campaign: The president - elect drove him almost crazy wandering, off into the living sea of persons surrounding him.

"He is just too friendly," said Lou Swee, who took a leave of absence from the Chicago police squad to tour with the Republican leader.

Swee said Eisenhower often strayed away to talk to members of his audiences.

"If someone stuck his hand out, Eisenhower would seize it for a handshake without looking to see whether there was something in it. "Perhaps our biggest problem was to keep him from being crushed or hurt by the people," he said.

Swee was just another of the hundreds of policemen assigned to the Republican national convention until Eisenhower took a shine to him and got him on loan from the police department.

They're Paying Off Those Election Bets

By UNITED PRESS Adlai Stevenson wasn't the only man who lost Tuesday. Those among his partisans who made election bets were still being tortured by gleeful Eisenhower rooters.

When the election returns rolled in, some persons had to do a little hard thinking about their big talking.

An Alabama lady had to swallow the front page of a pro-Eisenhower newspaper, and at least one man was getting ready to sample some crow.

All across the country Stevenson backers paid off profly election bets they had made in optimistic moments.

Martin Huff Jr., Democratic Central Committee secretary of Alameda County, Calif., stood still and manfully let Mrs. Anne Holliday smack six pies into his face.

The jubilant office receptionist baked the pies herself.

Fewer Hear Radios More Read Papers

NEW YORK (AP) - The nation's habit of reading newspapers has taken in healthy stride the advent of radio - and more recently - television.

People are reading more newspapers today than ever before in history, the American Newspaper Publishers Association said today.

"Newspaper reading is just about the only regular activity which showed no change after the advent of TV," the association pointed out in commenting on video's effect on family life.

While population in the United States has increased from 106,000,000 in 1920 to 155,000,000 now, the association points out that weekday newspaper circulation in the same period has gone up from 28,000,000 to 54,000,000. This means a gain of 47 per cent for population and 94 per cent for newspapers in the 32-year period.

Hoyey Pledges Support To Ike

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP) - Sen. Clyde R. Hoyey (D-NC), believes the coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats in Congress will continue to "save the country from more radical legislation."

CALLS HIS "LITTLE MAN" The North Carolina Democrat, addressing a civic club meeting here yesterday, blamed President Truman for "allowing labor bosses to dictate national policies" and said "that little man, the President got what was coming to him," in the election.

HITS RADICALS Hoyey, criticizing "radicals from the North and West" in the Democratic party, said he and other Southern Senators would pledge their support to President - elect Eisenhower and would vote with Senate Republicans to enact legislation recommended by Eisenhower.

BALLOTS ALMOST GOT AS HOT AS THE ELECTION The election was hot but the ballots barely missed being hot-ter. Yesterday afternoon as the Harnett County Board of Elections labored to canvass the county's record number of votes cast in the Tuesday election, flames leaped outside the window.

A grass fire, ignited from burning trash, swept like wild fire over the dry grass outside the small white frame building which houses the board and the law office of Neil Lee Kay Ross. The flames crackling under the oil tank outside the window drove Bernard McLeod, (Continued on page two)
