SEOUL, Korea — Korean President Syngman Rhee will back down on his demands for unification of his country by military force in talks with U. S. President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower, qualified South Korean sources said today. The sources said Rhee is convinced an invasion of North Korea at this time is unfeasible, especially in view of the economic status of South Korea.

Cpl. Johnson Is Now In Korea

Marine Corporal Bernice S. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson of Dunn Route 3, has arrived in Korea and has been assigned to the First Tank Battalion of the First Marine Division. The 22-year-old local Leatherneck entered the service in December 1951 and was promoted to his present rank last June. A former student of Coats High School, Johnson was engaged in farming with his father prior to entering the service.

Only Few Price Controls Remain

WASHINGTON — Price controls will remain on about a third of the average family's budget by the end of this week, officials said today. They made the estimate after Price Stabilizer Tisha E. Woods suspended ceilings on nearly all women's and girl's clothing. Woods also signed a similar order decontrolling men's and boys' clothing. It is expected to be issued late this week.

Holiday Liquor Supply Seized

A bootlegger whose home is the handy location of two blocks off Lillington's Front Street business section, today was minus some of the liquor supply apparently intended for the holiday trade. Sheriff Bill Salmon said that a surprise visit to Mary Bailey McNeill's house on Friday night he found 22 pints of tax paid whiskey. The whiskey, which represented various high priced brands, was piled in big paper sacks on the floor, the sheriff reported. The sheriff promptly seized the whiskey and now has it under lock and key awaiting the trial of the McNeill woman on charges of possession for the purpose of sale. Mary, a Negro woman with a record of prior convictions for liquor violations, did not appear in Recorder's Court on Tuesday. Her attorney, A. R. Taylor, presented an affidavit that she was ill with influenza and the case was continued for one week.

PMA Election To Be Dec. 6th

Kyle Harrington, supervisor of the Production Marketing Administration in Harnett County, said today that the wheels have been set in motion for the annual PMA election in December. On December 6, from 1 to 2 p. m., Harnett farmers will nominate candidates for local committeemen and delegates. Twelve days later, on December 18, farmers in each of 16 communities will vote from 9 to 6 p. m., at the usual polling places in the annual election. Each community will elect three local committeemen and a first and second alternate. They will at the same time ballot for one delegate and one alternate delegate from each community.

DELEGATES TO MEET — On December 19, the day following the election of the local committeemen, the delegates will meet in a group at the county agriculture building to elect the three-member county committee. Harrington pointed out that local committeemen only get six dollars for each day they work. County committeemen's pay is seven dollars, also on a per diem basis.

For the first time, the township of Grove has been divided into two parts for the PMA work. Harrington reported. The division runs from Averasboro township line near Red Hill service station on highway 40 to Coats, continuing South on the Lillington-Coats road near Nell's Creek township line to Walter Franklin's home. Territory south of this road contains Community Number One, while farms North of this road will fall into Community Number Two.

Those attending the showing were: Johnnie E. Wilbourne, head of the appliance and furniture departments at Purdie's; Scott Ferrall, Edward West, Norwood Carroll and Kirby Williford. The 1953 GE range will soon go on display here.

Barbour

(Continued from page one) same court, Barbour accused McLamb of assault with his fists, but Judge M. O. Lee found McLamb guilty of trespass. Judgment was suspended on payment of costs and on condition McLamb stay away from Barbour's place of business. Later in the day McLamb's attorney, E. L. Doffenmyre, telephoned Judge Lee to post notice of appeal to the Superior Court. Bond for McLamb was fixed at $100. Both parties to the dispute testified that the fight climaxed a quarrel a week earlier. Barbour claimed he was irked at what he termed the "hot rod" flying techniques and disregard of flying regulation by McLamb and his friend, Robert Strickland. McLamb also testified about the disagreement but said Barbour apologized to them and they had in turn apologized to him. Testimony revealed that after a flight to Fayetteville on Sunday, McLamb and Strickland came to the filling station which Barbour operates. McLamb said they came to check on the report of a ground-rod plane. Barbour said they came to try to buy 12 cents worth of ice cream for a dime and to make sarcastic remarks.

LOSES SEVEN TEETH — In the fight that followed, Barbour lost seven teeth, McLamb got a lick on the head that required three stitches to close. Strickland, a pilot and friend of McLamb, was the first state witness. He said they came to the station to get ice cream and an argument followed. He said Barbour was the first to hit McLamb and then McLamb "let him have it in the teeth." He told the court that when Barbour came up from the ground where he had fallen, he had a small pistol in his hand and whammed McLamb on the side of the temple.

Strickland said he ran into the station and took down the phone to call officers when Barbour came in, pistol in hand and ordered him not to phone. "And I didn't," said Strickland. ASKED TO STAY AWAY — On cross examination, Strickland admitted that the week before, Barbour had told them not to come to the place but said he and McLamb thought Barbour had sent for them. He also admitted McLamb got on top of Barbour and that several persons, including Leon Mc Caskill, Barbour's son-in-law had to pull McLamb off Barbour. He denied that McLamb passed the first lick. McLamb the second state witness, told the same story of going to the station for ice cream, but said he left when told to do so. Outside he said he stopped to speak to Keith Stewart flight director, and commented, "Your boss is a little drunk isn't he?" Then the witnesses added, "Barbour whammed me, and I let him have it in the teeth. He denied being told to stay away or that he hit Barbour first."

BARBOUR'S STORY — Barbour's story was that he had to go to the station on Sunday around 3 p. m. to investigate reports that Charles McLamb was taxing over the field and flying too low. Later he said when settling up with some paratroopers who jumped with their own equipment, he reported that McLamb and Strickland came in and made some sarcastic remarks about the jump.
