NO ROOM AT THE INN — That was the title of the float shown here which was entered in the Christmas Parade here Saturday. Taken from Luke II-7, it depicted the turning away from the inn of Mary and Joseph. Those in the tableau were: C. W. Surles, Jr., as the innkeeper; Ruby Surles as Mary; and D. B. Register Jr. as Joseph. This was one of the many beautiful floats that depicted in tableaux some of the events connected with the birth of Christ. (Daily Record photo by Louis Dearborn).

Federal Deficit Of Year Is Cut To 5.5 Billions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A slowdown in defense spending may cut this year's federal deficit to about $5,500,000,000.

That is a little more than half of the $10,300,000,000 deficit for the 1953 fiscal year which the administration predicted four months ago. And it is only 38 per cent of the $14,400,000,000 deficit which President Truman foresaw when he sent his budget message to Congress last January.

Government experts said that a lag in defense spending, which has never been fully explained to the public, is mainly responsible for keeping the Treasury from going as deep in the red as expected.

Tax collections have been running a little higher than the Treasury anticipated, but not much. It now appears that the government will take in about $69,000,000,000 before the 1953 fiscal year ends next June 30, instead of $68,700,000,000 as previously thought.

LESS SPENDING

The big change which has thrown the administration's guesses out of kilter has been in spending. The experts now figure that it will run about $74,500,000,000 instead of $79,000,000,000.

Congress helped to put a crimp in spending by cutting many of President Truman's budget requests. But all of the Congressional cuts were supposedly taken into account last August, when the Treasury revised the expected deficit downward from $14,400,000,000 to $10,300,000,000.

The 55-day steel strike last summer offers one obvious explanation for the lag in defense spending which has taken place since Congress went home.

Two Teachers Hurt In Wreck

Two members of the Lillington school faculty are in Rex Hospital at Raleigh as the result of an automobile accident that occurred Saturday about 5 p. m. on Highway 210, less than a mile south of Angier.

Patrolman Paul Lucas said that Mrs. J. A. Walker had a brain concussion and Mrs. W. E. Aikrey had several broken ribs and a possible fractured vertebra.

CHORUS FOR JAYCEE PLAY — The quintette shown here will lend charm to the big Jaycee variety show "Shooting Stars" which will open Wednesday night. The bevy of lovelies will put on one of the dance routines which will be a feature of the show. Shown are, left to right, Frances Altman, Renee Byrd, Peggy Blair, Peggy Kirby and Geraldine Tarr. The cast has been working hard to make the show tops in entertainment and rehearsals have been held even on Saturday and Sunday. (Daily Record photo by T. M. Stewart).

"Shooting Stars" All Set

"Shooting Stars" the big laugh packed variety show, sponsored by the Dunn Junior Chamber of Commerce, is all set for its opening performance on Wednesday night.

Members of the Jaycees, following the dynamic lead and example of their director, Mrs. Lola Schafer, have managed to inject unexpected bits of humor into the rehearsals, and many of these ad-lib parts will remain in the show.

The answer to the question of who will be "Queen for a Day" is one that many of the local ladies would like to know. Prizes galore will be heaped on the woman chosen for that title.

PEAK IN CHARGE

Hubert Peaky, in charge of this portion of the program, announced today that most of the prizes have been collected and they will go on display in a downtown store window. Included are table lamps, a half ton of coal, permanent waves, paint, nylon hose and many other valuable gifts.

Masons Hear Pugh At Union Service

Using as his text Romans VIII-28, "All Things Work Together for Good for Those Who Love the Lord" Rev. Robert L. Pugh, of New Bern, Superintendent of Craven County and Senior Grand Warden of North Carolina emphasized character building in a Sunday night sermon at the Dunn First Baptist Church, opening the 100th anniversary of celebration of Palmyra Masonic Lodge.

Character, he told the group, is not due to something without but something within. He spoke of the virtues of the Masonic philosophy and pointed out that their application would inevitably lead to the building of good character.

Approximately 85 members of the Dunn Masonic Lodge occupied the section in the church that had been reserved for them. More than 200 members of the other churches in the community were present for the occasion.

BANQUET TUESDAY

Tomorrow night the main event of the centennial celebration will be held at the High School cafeteria, with members and their wives invited to the banquet which starts at 7:45 o'clock.

Principal speaker for the occasion will be Dr. Glenn Blackburn, chaplain at Wake Forest College. Dr. Blackburn, a native Tarheel, attended Wake Forest College and the Baptist Seminary in Louisville. He served as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Lumberton before joining the Wake Forest faculty.

Another feature of the banquet will be the history of the lodge during its 100 years of activity, presented by Curtis Ennis, newly elected secretary of the Palmyra Masonic Lodge.

ERWIN MASONS TO ELECT
Neill S. Stewart Masonic Lodge of Erwin will hold its annual election of officers at a stated communication tomorrow night at 7:30 p. m. All members of the Lodge are urged to attend. Mike Crawford is the retiring master.

Erwin Juniors Will Give Play

A play, reminiscent of high school days, will be presented by the Junior Class of the Erwin High School under the direction of J. L. Honeycutt on December 12 at the Erwin High School auditorium. The play "High School Hero" is set in a principal's office and the majority of the cast are boys and girls of high school age. The story is particularly fascinating for the younger generation, because it is concerned with their own kind of every-day problems; many of the scenes parallel in their own experience.

It tells the story of Bill Rockwell, the high school hero, Class President and Football Captain, who is prepared to sacrifice his good name to protect a younger boy. It also tells the story of Sue (Continued on page two)

Way Is Sought To Break The War Stalemate

ABROAD CRUISER HEL-ENA WITH EISENHOWER
President-elect Eisenhower and his chief foreign policy and economic advisers explored today the vast problem of breaking the Korean stalemate without involving the United States in a costly and expanded war.

Eisenhower met with John Foster Dulles, the next secretary of state, and other men who will form his cabinet in the admiral's cabin of the 17,000-ton heavy cruiser Helena as it sped toward Honolulu.

The Eisenhower party was due at Honolulu Thursday morning. It will lose a day crossing the international date line between Wake, where the Helena anchored earlier today, and Midway.

The seas today were choppy, but the sun was out. Eisenhower looked rested after taking a day off from his duties Sunday.

OTHERS PRESENT

Also present at today's meetings were George Humphrey, the next Treasury secretary; Interior Secretary-designate Douglas McKay; the next attorney general, Herbert Brownell, and Joseph M. Dodge, Eisenhower's representative to the Budget Bureau.

The talks were in the conversational stage today, but staff members said it would not be long before Eisenhower and his advisers will be able to formulate plans on paper.

However, there was no word on what Eisenhower and his aides thought about Korea.

"We will make no statement on Korea at this time," said James (Continued On Page Two)

Official's Home Is Entered Here

A bold thief entered the home of City Councilman B. A. Bracey Friday night and made off with a container filled with pennies from a cedar chest in the Bracey bedroom.

Mrs. Bracey first heard the intruder, when he dropped the lid on the chest. She called Bracey who asked the man "What are you doing here?"

The intruder, a Negro, who was standing alongside the chest, muttered something and dropped his hand toward his side, at the same time starting toward Bracey in a threatening manner.

Mrs. Bracey, alarmed for her (Continued on Page Two)
