Took Three To Jail Him; Is Fined $100

There ain't no two policemen going to take me to jail, "Robin Jackson told the two officers, Corporal K. M. Fall and H. F. Pope, who were arresting him for drunken driving. His statement was correct: the officers needed the aid of Fire Department Lieutenant J. E. Norris, to get their reluctant prisoner into the police car.

It all came out Monday in Recorder's Court when Jackson, 20-year-old youth, was tried for drunken driving, no operators license and resisting arrest. The officers stopped the car driven by Jackson after a chase that ended in front of the home of Lieutenant Norris.

Corporal Fall in his testimony quoted the defendant's remark, and said that Lieutenant Norris had to help get Jackson into the police car. He denied using a blackjack to subdue the captive, and his fellow officers corroborated this testimony. The officers surmised that Jackson was injured by contact with the car door in the struggle to get him in.

Judge Strickland found Jackson guilty and sentenced him to 90 days, suspended 12 months on payment of $100 and costs. He recommended that Jackson's license be revoked.

Prayer for judgment was continued in the case of Herbert Hoover Johnson on charges of careless and reckless driving, on payment of costs plus $28 damages.

Harold Woodrow McLaurin was fined $5 and costs with prayer for judgment continued for speeding 50 in a 35 mile zone.

Robert Lee Warren, charged with breaking and entering the premises of Lela Mae Holland, was found guilty of forcible trespass and given 90 days, suspended on payment of $15 and costs. On a drunkenness charge he drew 30 days, suspended on payment of $5 and costs.

James Ernest Moore, charged with no operators license, drew 30 days, suspended 12 months on payment of $25 and costs.

Sandy McNeill was bound over to Superior Court under bonds of $2,500 each on one charge of larceny from the person and another of breaking and entering.

Waymon McDougal was given 30 days, suspended 12 months on payment of $5 and costs for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He is to remain sober and on good behavior.

John Surles was given a six months road sentence for assaulting his wife. Another six months sentence on which judgment had been withheld on his promise not to assault his wife, was also invoked to run consecutively.

The remaining cases on the docket, prosecuted by Solicitor J. Shepard Bryan, involved public drunkenness and the offenders escaped with fines and suspended sentences.

Two-Way Radio For Sheriff Purchased

Law enforcement in Harnett County today moved out of the horse and buggy era with the purchase of the latest two-way radio equipment for the sheriff's department.

County commissioners in a special session approved the bid of $5,069.59 made by Motorola, nationally known makers of radio equipment and specialists in police radio. This was the only bid received.

This sum will provide mobile units, several "walkie-talkies," and almost instantaneous connections in a relay which will link the courthouse in Lillington with the state highway patrol office in Raleigh and with the police station in Dunn.

The equipment, guaranteed by the manufacturer to incorporate the very latest in radio research is so powerful that any number of additional police cars could be added at any time in the foreseeable future without installation of new equipment. A 60 foot aluminum tower will be erected on the courthouse and the radio system will also use Lillington's high tower water tank. Installation of the equipment is expected to start in February.

Motion to accept the Motorola bid offered by salesman, James Hawkins, was made by Worth Lee Byrd and seconded by Commissioner R. F. Lester, Jr. Other commissioners attending were Rufus Mangum and Chairman L. A. Tart. B. P. Ingram was absent.

Two of the four mobile units bought have been used 11 and 14 months respectively in Carteret County, and were purchased at $375 each or a saving of over $600 on similar new ones. Commissioners, after much discussion agreed to buy on a measure only on condition that the maker promise that if after the installation, they were not satisfied new equipment would be submitted.

ECONOMY MOVE — "This is a very unusual opportunity for economy," Hawkins told the commissioners. Ordinarily, we may go for a long time and have no used equipment at this equipment is practically as good as new. Every piece will be tested before it reaches you.

Immediately after the commissioners voted to buy the radio equipment an application was filed with the Federal Communications Commission for a frequency clearing, necessary before the new police station can go on the air.

Details of a service agreement between the commissioners and the radio manufacturer will be worked out at a later date. Commissioners decided. Majority seemed to favor a long term contract under which the manufacturer will agree to furnish service and parts for any difficulty that might arise.

The new radio installations will give the sheriff a 20 mile range in which law enforcement officers can have immediate communication with the courthouse in Lillington, Raleigh patrol headquarters and Dunn police station.

Money for the purchase of the radio equipment came from funds, assigned to the sheriff's department for annual operations, but never used. The money represents savings effected over a period of several years in secretarial help, supplies and other general office expenditures.

Sheriff W. E. Salmon, delighted with action taken by the commissioners, said the two-way radio will make it possible or the law to compete with the law breakers at least "on an even footing." With as large a county as we have just can plain lucky, not to have had any more disasters than we have had," said the Sheriff.

At the same time the commissioners awarded the contract to repair the leaking jail to Paul Phelps' Wood and Tin Shop in Lillington. Phelps bid of $1,125 was low to the $2,489 submitted by R. M. Turlington, Lillington contractor.

Phelps bargained to re-roof the jail, remove the steeple replace the gutters and any damaged timbers. Several grand juries have called on the commissioners to repair the jail. Jailor Ken Matthews said it had been leaking for five years.

McNeill Confesses He Snatched Purse

Any doubt that may have existed that Sandy McNeill was the Negro who knocked Mrs. Ed Welborn down and stole her pocketbook, was removed by McNeill himself yesterday.

Before he left for the roads to start serving two sentences, one of 90 days and another of 30 days, the Negro ex-convict voluntarily told Chief of Police A. A. Cobb that he was the purse snatcher, and clinched the confession by telling where he had hidden Mrs. Welborn's purse.

McNeill was convicted in City Court Thursday on the purse snatching charge and bound over to Superior Court under bond of $2,500. He was bound over under another $2,500 bond on charges of breaking and entering the premises of Russell Fowler and stealing a Luger automatic.

The confession completely clears the case and makes unnecessary the testimony of defense witnesses whom McNeill requested Thursday to support his claim of innocence. Officers were unable to secure these witnesses for Thursday's hearing.

Chief Cobb said this morning that City Commissioner B. A. Bracey, after seeing McNeill in Court Thursday, said he was sure he was the man who entered his home recently. Bracey told Chief Cobb that he was planning to swear out a warrant against McNeill on the charges.
