FORECAST DEFEAT
Thus the move appeared headed for defeat by a margin of 3 to 1 or more.

If the Anderson motion should carry, its supporters intended to follow it up with a motion to adopt the old Senate rules with a rewritten provision for curbing filibusters. Their proposals calls for allowing the votes of 49 senators to cut off debate after 14 days instead of the 64 votes now required.

curriculum for the students.
"Strangely enough," said Mr. Johnson, "all the people I've talked with seem to favor the idea." He said it was not his proposal, but was suggested by a member of the board.
This action would give both the Dunn and Erwin schools seven or eight additional classrooms for other grades and would make it necessary to add classrooms at these two schools.
The proposal will be incorporated into the county school board's long-range planning program.

But nine photographers were invited into the residence to take pictures of Eisenhower, Churchill and the prime minister's host.
Newsmen stood in the cold in front of the Baruch mansion for more than two hours, hoping Eisenhower would issue a statement, but he stepped into a limousine without saying a word.
Only a few newsmen had remained when Eisenhower returned at 8:01 p. m. and although he waved at them before entering the building, he declined to comment.

Most of yesterday was consumed with the case of Jodie Ferguson, charged with assault with intent to kill on his cousin, Willie Stokes. He was charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.
According to the testimony, after an argument on the porch of Ferguson's home, Stokes fled to his own house nearby, and was shot at by Ferguson's cousin.
After being shot at with the pistol, the witness said, he hid under a brick pillar, but it was not large enough to protect him. Shots from the shotgun hit him in the face and shoulder. He said there had been no previous trouble with his cousin.
Jodie contended that Stokes had a gun and the defense introduced an old gun with a broken stock, which Constable R. C. Mundy said was found at the scene of the shooting. Although the stock was broken, the gun could be fired.
The jury returned a verdict of guilty of assault with a deadly weapon, but ruled out the intent to kill. Sentence has not yet been pronounced.

"He didn't say," Baillie said. "He just said, 'Of course there will be press conferences.'"
In answer to questions, Baillie said Eisenhower did not say anything about his meeting with Prime Minister Winston Churchill last night.
In an interview before newsreel and television cameras, Baillie was asked the subject of his talks with Eisenhower.
"Press coverage of his administration," Baillie replied, "based on my knowledge of the coverage of a few other presidential administrations and my acquaintance with him when he had a very big press situation during the war."
Pressed as to whether the conferences will be "regular," Baillie replied:
"I can't answer that. I'm not the general's spokesman."

Judy Garland's Mother Is Dead

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Show business veterans joined actress Judy Garland today in mourning the death of her mother, Mrs. Ethel Gilmore, herself a former vaudeville performer.
Her body was found yesterday lying face down between two parked cars outside a Douglas aircraft plant at Santa Monica, Calif., where she worked as a $1.50-an-hour clerk.
Plant physicians said the woman, 58, apparently suffered a heart attack while hurrying to work yesterday morning.
ESTRANGED FOR YEARS
She and her famous daughter had been estranged for several years.
Friends said the rift developed when Judy, through her ambitious drive of her mother, finally attained success, only to discover she had lost happiness.
Judy made her stage debut with her mother and father, the late Frank A. Gumm, a song and dance man.
In later years Mrs. Gilmore launched Judy and her two sisters, now Mrs. Sue Cathard of Los Angeles and Mrs. Johnny Thompson of Dallas, in a vaudeville singing act. It was from this act that Judy rose to stardom.

Mrs. Matthews

acting clerk Mrs. Matthews was paid $455 a month. The same as Morgan drew, but had no vacation.
NO EXTRA HELP
During the clerk's absence, no extra secretarial help was employed so that Morgan suggested that savings effected there and in supplies would provide the salary out of the clerk's budget. Commissioner Worth Lee Byrd's motion that the salary be set at $300 a month failed to draw a second. Byrd pointed out that any law firm in the county would be eager to pay the capable acting clerk more than that in private employment.
Mrs. Inez Harrington, clerk to the board, noted that as an elective officer, her salary was not so high.
Commissioner R. L. Mangum then suggested that the assistant clerk's salary be set at $280 a month and reviewed at the end of the six months when a new budget will be drawn. Commissioner Lasater seconded and approval was unanimous.
Solicitor Neil Ross and former deputy clerk of court, D. P. Ray Jr., both said an assistant clerk had been long needed in the county.
"And if the bar were consulted," Ross said, "the bar would approve Mrs. Matthews 100 percent."

ture, with an all-glass front, is now being finished according to Mr. Pope's specifications and fixtures of the latest design are being built by a well-known fixture manufacturer.
TO CARRY COMPLETE LINE
Mr. Pope said his store will carry a complete line of men's women's, and children's ready-to-wear, shoes and household furnishings.
For sometime, Mr. Pope, a leader in the various affairs of Dunn and Harnett, has had a desire to return to his hometown and erecting of the new shopping center provides him an excellent location. He also cited the need for such a store in Dunn.
Mr. Pope will continue operation of Pope's Department Store at Angier, but said he is liquidating the store at Coats. He pointed out that the Dunn and Angier stores will be able to serve all the area between the two towns.
Mr. Pope, who is well known in the mercantile field throughout the State, opened the Coats store in 1944 and the Angier store in 1946. For 12 and a half years prior to that, Mr. Pope represented the Stephen-Putney Shoe Company.
He said today that Pope's Department Store in Dunn will feature many nationally-advertised lines of merchandise for men, women and children. He will also offer a number of exclusive lines which cannot be obtained at any other store here.
More complete details of the new business establishment will be announced at a later date.
The new shopping center, erected by Alfred Blalock and Dr. W. W. Stanfield, was opened to the public last May. Other stores in the center are Piggy-Wiggly, Walgreen and Sears.

Haire Trial Is Set For March

The murder trial of Charles H. Haire on charge of killing his son-in-law, Clyde Powell near Olivia, was continued today in Harnett Superior Court due to the illness of Robert Young, Dunn attorney, who is the chief defense counsel.
