MISS MADELINE WARD HONORED AT LILLINGTON SOCIAL EVENT

A Raleigh bride-elect who will make her home in Lillington shortly was the guest of honor at an attractive party given on Thursday night by Mrs. Roger Hawley and Mrs. Cleo Hawley at the latter's home in Lillington.

Miss Madeline Ward who will marry William Davis (Billy) Hawley of Lillington on Jan 31 in Raleigh was the honoree. Hostesses are sisters-in-law of the bridegroom elect, Mrs. Cleo Hawley, the former Miss Ora pond Smith, and her husband recently returned to Lillington to live while Mr. Hawley serves as vocational agriculture teacher at Anderson Creek School.

For the get-acquainted party the hostesses had arranged a series of interesting games and contests. Guests tested their skill in forming words from the names of the honored couple, guessing kitchen utensils hidden in a pillow slip, and penned original notes of advice to the bride-elect. Prize winners were Mrs. H. E. Smith and Miss Neil Smith of Raleigh, mother and sister of Mrs. Cleo Hawley, and Mrs. Dennis Carvalho of Fayetteville.

PARTIES FOR CAROL JOHNSON IN LILLINGTON AND RALEIGH

Two attractive parties were given during the weekend complimentary to Miss Carol Johnson, bride-elect of February 6.

The first was given on Thursday night in Lillington when Mrs. Neil Ray Johnson and her mother-in-law, Mrs. John A. Johnson, were hostesses at the latter's home. Miss Johnson was again honored on Friday night when Mrs. James Boulden entertained at her home in Raleigh.

The marriage of Miss Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd G. Johnson of Lillington, to William Parham (Billy) Tally of Lillington and Angier will take place on February 6 at Neil's Creek Baptist Church.

For a delightful informal party at the Johnson home the two hostesses invited 14 guests to bring needles, thimbles, and a dish towel. Guests then joined in the task of hemming and decorating the towels.

When they finished the towels were placed in a basket and presented as gifts to the bride-elect.

The hostesses also presented Miss Johnson with a corsage of white flowers and mantle decorations were white flowers and fern. Tiny dolls dressed as a bride and groom centered the coffee table. Refreshments further emphasized the green and white theme. Ribbon sandwiches, nut fingers, bridal cakes and Russia tea were served.

Attending were Miss Johnson, the guest of honor, Mrs. Lloyd G. Johnson, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. J. G. Tally of Angier, mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Jesse Keith, Mrs. Billy Weaver, Mrs. Reid Johnson, Mrs. Howard Johnson, Mrs. Leslie Weaver, Mrs. Doris Currin, Misses Gladys and Ruth Johnson and the hostesses.

For the party on Friday night in Raleigh at the Boulden home guests presented the bride-elect with a shower of miscellaneous gifts and the hostess added gift of crystal and a corsage of white carnations. Master Jimmy Boulden son of the hostess made the presentation of the shower gifts. A variety of contests were played and refreshments consisting of party sandwiches, pickles and coffee were served.

Going from Lillington were Miss Johnson, her mother, and also Mrs. J. G. Tally of Angier, mother of the bridegroom. Raleigh guests included Mrs. Margaret Partin, grandmother of the bridegroom, and also Mrs. Glenn Rhodes, Mrs. Harry Davis, Mrs. J. W. Johnson,
