Assembly Has About Half Of Umstead Items

RALEIGH (AP) — The General Assembly heads into the sixth week of its 1953 session tonight with just about half of Gov. William B. Umstead's legislative program either passed or under committee study.

More of the governor's proposals are expected to be embodied in bills to be introduced this week. However, some major items involving relatively large expenditures will not show up until after the Joint Appropriations Committee concludes its hearing Feb. 17.

These include a 10 per cent retroactive pay raise for public school teachers; a long-range primary road building program; a 10 per cent retroactive salary raise for all state employees; a bond issue for construction of white and Negro training schools and mental hospitals and revision of sales tax exemptions "if it is found that revenue is not sufficient to meet properly the essential needs of the state."

A rundown of other major parts of Umstead's program and their progress:

- 1. A commission to study state use of television channels for education and cultural purposes. Passed by both houses. Commission named.
2. Reorganization of the State Highway Commission into 15 rather than 10 divisions. Scheduled to be studied by Senate and House Roads committees this week.
3. A motor vehicles inspection program. Expected to be introduced this week.
4. A drivers training program in all public schools. Not yet introduced.
5. Outlawing hot-rod cars from the highways. Under study by a House Judiciary Committee.
6. A reexamination of the Ports Authority Act to develop small inland ports. Not yet introduced but under study by the Board of Conservation and Development.
7. A commission to study re-organization of the state government. (Continued on page two.)

Encouraged By Prospects For European Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived from Europe today and said he is "encouraged" by prospects of progress on creating a European defense community.

Dulles and foreign aid chief Harold E. Stassen landed here after an 11-day unity-prodding tour of Western Europe.

Dulles brushed aside questions regarding the possibility of a U. S. naval blockade of the Red China mainland.

Asked if he thought a blockade would be "a good idea," Dulles said "I have nothing to say."

Dulles handed out a 650-word typewritten statement to reporters as he stepped from President Eisenhower's personal plane with Stassen. Dulles said he expected to see Mr. Eisenhower today to report on the trip.

"Mr. Stassen and I shall report to the President and to members of Congress," Dulles said. "At the moment we limit ourselves to saying that we are, on the whole, encouraged by what we have been told by the leaders of the six continental European nations which have signed the treaty to create a European defense community.

"We do not minimize the difficulties confronted by those who have undertaken this great project, but we believe that there is a responsible determination toward completion."

DODGES FORMOSA — Although Dulles brushed aside questions on Formosa, he was certain to meet sharp questioning from members of the Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on Far Eastern affairs.

The subcommittee has asked him to appear before it as soon as possible to "clarify" Mr. Eisenhower's action in freeing the Chinese Nationalists for attacks on the mainland.

Of the European situation, Dulles said that by putting the military forces of six European countries into a single unit, unification would be created at points where divisions had been "disastrous" in the past.

Dulles noted that the treaty had been signed last May but that so far none has ratified it. Mr. Eisenhower asked Dulles and Stassen to go to Europe and see what was the matter.

Dulles in his statement did not refer to the Formosa debate, but he did say that "other matters" were discussed in Europe.

Stassen in another statement said he believed that the way Dulles conducted the discussions with European statesmen would be known in future years "as 10 great days of service by the secretary of state to the cause of peace and of freedom."

Stassen said he had made it clear throughout the journey that the foreign aid program would be continued. (Continued on Page Seven)

Work Is Pushed On Hospital

The first shipment of a $9,000 order of furniture for the new 41-bed addition to the Dunn Hospital has arrived and today was being placed in order as Manager M. E. (Pop) Winston pushed plans for opening of the new addition.

Mr. Winston said this morning that, barring any unexpected delays, the new addition should be ready for use by March 1.

The modernistic new hospital furniture was manufactured for the Dunn Hospital by the Hill-Rom Company of Batesville, Indiana, a subsidiary of the Hillenbrand Industries, Inc.

This is the same company that manufactured the furniture for Rex Hospital in Raleigh.

Work on the hospital addition is being pushed to completion and the new addition will give the hospital a total of 85 beds. The hospital is now rated as a 55-bed hospital, although it was originally built for only 40 beds.

Police Search For Killer In Virginia

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Police searched today for the man who killed a 20-year-old youth and seriously wounded his teen-aged girl friend here Saturday after the girl, unable to speak, wrote the description of the "cold blooded" attacker on a note pad.

Police Chief L. D. Warren said pretty choir-singer Margaret Hollowell, 15, described the man who shot her and put fatal slugs through Donald Mathews' head as being stocky and middle-aged.

He said all available detectives have been put to work on the search for the murderer after Miss Hollowell regained consciousness long enough to jot her notes down on the pad. She was unable to speak because of a bullet wound in her cheek, and was described as being weak from loss of blood and shock.

DESCRIBES SLAYER — She wrote that the slayer was about 50 years old, mustached and wore thick-lensed glasses. He was about five feet nine inches tall, stocky and wore a brown suit, she said.

Mathews and Miss Hollowell had attended a movie Saturday night, went to a drive-in for a snack and were sitting in Mathews' car in a city park when the man approached, she said. He pointed a pistol at them and demanded to be taken to Churchland, a nearby community.

Mathews told the man he wanted to take Miss Hollowell home first and then would take him wherever (Continued on page two)

GOP Leaders Agree On 11 Point Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders today agreed on an 11-point "must" legislative program for this session.

Senate GOP leader Robert A. Taft said tax legislation was not included because the president and his leaders have made no final decision on tax policy.

Taft said, however, that tax legislation would definitely be passed at this session.

- The 11 points:
1. The reorganization bill already passed.
2. Appropriations bills to clear the House and reach the Senate not later than May 15.
3. Hawaiian statehood.
4. Taft-Hartley labor law amendments.
5. Limited extension of controls and allocations dealing with the defense program and critical defense areas.
6. Legislation relating to tidelands oil.

8. U. S. customs simplification.
9. Extension of old age and survivors insurance to cover groups presently excluded.
10. Extension of temporary aid to schools and critical areas.

Ground Broken For New Church Building

The ground was broken here Sunday morning for erection of a new $50,000 addition to the Gospel Tabernacle to be known as the Davis Educational Building.

Ceremonies took place right after the Sunday morning services and the first shovel of dirt was dug by the Rev. J. Luther Davis, pastor emeritus, who served the church for nearly 40 years.

Mr. Davis was the pastor who built the present church structure in 1919, and the new building will be named in his honor.

Construction of the new building will get underway immediately, R. M. Tunington of Lillington is the general contractor.

The new addition will include 30 rooms, an assembly room, a Fellowship Hall, kitchen, pastor's study, church office, library and bride's chamber. The bride's chamber will be the first in any church here.

The Rev. Bane T. Underwood, pastor of the church, officiated at the ground-breaking ceremonies. Mr. Davis dug the first shovel of dirt; the second was dug by A. G. (Gus) Register, chairman of the building committee; the third by W. C. Marshall, Sunday School superintendent, and the fourth by Edgar Surles, representing the youth department of the church.

The church has shown rapid growth and progress during recent years until the present building cannot hold the crowds. A cottage at the side of the church and another building have been used to care for the overflow.

On a recent Sunday morning, church members contributed a total of $9,000 at one service for the new building, which will be erected on the east end of the present structure.

When completed, the addition will make the Gospel Tabernacle one of the largest churches in the city.

Bar Press, Public From Jelke Trial

NEW YORK (AP) — The press and public were barred today from the vic trial of Minot F. Jelke by Judge Francis L. Valente, who said he ruled, in the interests of our youth and to prevent catering to vulgar sensationalism, if not actual depravity.

The judge ruled that the "people's case" — the prosecution should remain secret, but friends and relatives of Jelke would be allowed to hear evidence. The defense case presumably would be aired in open court, but there was no specific ruling.

Valente said he had watched for weeks "with growing uneasiness the mushrooming public anticipation of lurid and salacious details."

Valente added that he was led to believe the testimony in the case will be "stepped in fish" from what he heard when Asst. Dist. Atty. Anthony J. Lelker delivered his opening statement to the jury on Friday, particularly concerning 19-year-old Auburn-haired Pat Ward and her expected testimony that she made between $10,000 and $15,000 in some 20 weeks of work as a prostitute for Jelke.

EVEN SHIP'S PAPER

Valente noted that publicity on the trial was even being reported in a ship's newspaper somewhere in the Mediterranean last summer.

and that it later displaced a presidential message from the front pages.

He said he also was shocked to note that the press of three continents was on hand to report the trial.

"The reaction of this court to all the foregoing was revulsion and nausea," Valente said.

Valente's ruling today came after Samuel Segal, attorney for the young oleo heir, asked the court to set aside a previous ruling barring the press and public from the trial on grounds the action would prevent Jelke from receiving a fair trial.

In the eyes of the public, an acquittal of young Jelke under conditions of secrecy would lack the quality of complete vindication, which is what we're after here," Segal said.

CHANGED MIND

But Valente himself revealed that he had changed his mind about (Continued on page two)
