brewery. "I have never been in a brewery in my life either in the United States or abroad," the Alabama Democrat roared.

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower thinks that ex-President Truman's controversial White House balcony was "a pretty good idea." Mr. Eisenhower, leading a group of congressmen on a tour of the White House Tuesday, said he liked the balcony and doesn't agree with the criticism heaped on Mr. Truman when the balcony was constructed in 1948.

MIAMI, Fla. — A killer apparently made good his escape from the 21st floor of the towering, "escape proof" Dade County Jail today by slipping through a cordon of some 200 law enforcement officers.

FORT WORTH, Tex. — Mrs. Mabel Luna was emptying her vacuum cleaner Tuesday when her thumb got stuck. She tried soap to get it out. No luck. Finally, after a long futile struggle, she called police. The rescue squad freed her thumb with a can opener.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Marcelino Romani, the Puerto Rican delegate who won his battle for recognition at last year's Republican convention to the amusement of millions of television viewers, was offered a film role today. Independent producers Dick Dorso and Bernard Girard said they were awaiting Romani's answer to a request to play the role of a befuddled scientist in a comedy, "Robots Have No Tails."

NAPLES, Fla. — Lewis Bredin, wealthy Detroit industrialist, said today the prospect of his marrying Gloria Swanson "is so far in the future it is not worth talking about."

BETHESDA, Md. — Michael O'Connell has called off his love strike. The 16-year-old wooer had said he would boycott his home until his father gave him permission to marry the girl he loves. But he went back Tuesday night, after only three days on the outside.

CHICAGO — Pilots coming into Chicago's Midway Airport complained Tuesday that their landing pattern was being disturbed, so police hauled a little boy from the top of a four-story building and made him quit flying his kite.

Jelke's Mother High Court of living off the proceeds of prostitution is groundless because Jelke had sufficient income from other sources.

The judge has told the defense to "quit stalling" or rest its case. Judge Valente issued his speed-up or give-up orders to Defense Attorney Samuel Segal in a bitter exchange at the close of testimony Tuesday.
"You're stalling, just plain ordinary stalling," said the judge. "You've had three and a half days to prepare and you've done nothing, absolutely nothing."
He ordered Segal to be prepared today "because if you're not in going to direct you to rest your case."
Defense attorneys apparently were undecided whether to put Jelke on the stand. Witnesses Tuesday asked to show Jelke had plenty of money at his disposal without using the earnings of prostitutes.

brought by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.
The state attorney general's office had admitted it was "frankly worried" about the "uncontradicted evidence" that jury lists in Caswell County have been made up from voters' registration lists instead of from tax lists as required by law.
The high court took note of this, but did not rule.
In view of our conclusion that the motion for judgment of nonsuit should have been allowed we do not reach the question raised by the defendant's appeal whether there has been no intentional or systematic exclusion of Negroes from jury service in Caswell County," it said.
"But we deem it proper to call attention to the testimony tending to show that the board of county commissioners of Caswell County had not observed the statute in making up the jury list of the county."

Mrs. Archie Burns Hostess To Class

The T. E. L. Class of the First Baptist Church held their February meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Archie Burns, with Mrs. Mary Hawley as co-hostess. In the presence of the president, Mrs. G. W. Henry called the meeting to order. Mrs. Burns gave the devotional thought from the third chapter of James after which Mrs. Allen Lee led in prayer. Reports were heard from the treasurer and the secretary. The group voted to donate dish towels for the church kitchen. Lovely spring flowers, including spirea, jonquils and quines, were arranged throughout the home. Mrs. E. A. Thornton conducted an interesting Bible Quiz. The hostess served delicious Russian tea, cookies and salted nuts to the following members present: Mrs. R. A. Duncan, Mrs. Kate Wiggins, Mrs. Leslie Parker, Mrs. A. B. Adams, Mrs. G. W. Henry, Mrs. D. M. Thomas, Mrs. R. H. Strickland, Mrs. Allen Lee and Mrs. T. A. Thornton.

Ingram, 44-year-old father of nine children, was found guilty of kidnapping a young white farm girl by tearing at her in a curious manner and following her across a cornfield although he did not approach closer than 75 feet. He said he thought the blue jean-clad person was a boy and he approached to ask about the loan of a trailer.

NEGROES EXCLUDED
The National Association for the advancement of Colored People, whose attorneys defended Ingram, argued that Negroes have been excluded for jury service "solely by reason of race and color" in Ingram's county, that the Caswell County jury which convicted him was "illegally drawn," that the statute under which he was convicted is "too vague" to be valid and that the court erred in not allowing the trial to be moved to another county.

The charge against Ingram attracted international attention and became a cause for Communist propaganda. The NAACP issued a disclaimer of all Communist activities and pressure in Ingram's behalf before making an appeal. The year, Janky Ingram was arrested in June, 1951, after teen aged Willie Jean Boswell, a farmer's daughter now married, told her father and brothers that Ingram "leered" at her from his car as she walked along a rural road, then frightened her by appearing to chase her across a cornfield.
