Multiply that occasional night the average married couple goes dancing by enough to equal 365, and you have the dancing schedule of Bambi Linn and Rod Alexander, one of the most successful young dance teams.

She's been dancing since she was a child in Brooklyn. Rod took it up at the ripe old age of 20. Three years ago they met and got married when both danced in a Broadway musical. They've been dancing together ever since.

"We hardly ever say anything to each other when we're dancing," said Bambi, a slight, blonde girl with elfin charm. "Except if something goes wrong. Then I say I'm sorry."

MUST BE PERFECT

To get to the top as a dance team these days a couple must be technically perfect as well as fresh and original. So the "Tm sorry" occasions are rare.

"People want perfection these days," sighed Mambi.

"They're more sophisticated because they've seen so much more good entertainment." added Rod.
"Tricks don't impress them any more. They want dances with new ideas something that appeals to their imagination."

He has to come up with a new idea each week. From Monday through Thursday the hard working couple perfects the dance in the bare whearal studio. Not until
