The booklet containing the city ordinances is to be completely rewritten and all of the outmoded ordinances deleted, according to City Manager A.B. Uzile, Jr. Many new ordinances have been adopted since the book was published and these will be incorporated in the new edition.

The task of revamping the ordinances has been pending for some time and has been under discussion at several of the meetings of the old city council. Nothing definite had been done, however.

At the meeting of the town board Thursday night, the project will again come up for discussion, and it will be decided whether to do the work here or have it done by the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill.

The City Council will also make its decision Thursday night on whether or not to scrap the present policy of requiring subdivision owners outside the city limits to bear the entire costs of improv-

Another Plea Will Also Be Made To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two rival groups of attorneys today asked Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas to postpone the execution of atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

They presented papers for Douglas to study in his chambers. They were prepared to argue personally before Douglas in case he called them.

Defense lawyers took their case to Douglas after falling yesterday in three separate efforts to persuade the full court to intervene on behalf of the condemned couple. The Rosenbergs are scheduled to die in the Sing Sing electric chair Thursday night.

Two lawyers directly representing the condemned couple asked Douglas for a stay of execution until a fifth appeal can be filed with the high bench. This will deal with recent adverse rulings in lower courts denying the Rosenbergs a new trial and a hearing on a reduced sentence.

SEEKING WRIT

Two other lawyers representing a Los Angeles resident named Irwin Edelman asked Douglas to issue a writ of habeas corpus, Edelman, who has interested himself in the Rosenberg case, was represented by Fyke Farmer of Nashville, Tenn., and Daniel G. Marshall of Los Angeles. The same petition was thrown out yesterday by Judge Irving R. Kaufman in New York, who called the lawyers "intruders and interlopers."

They told reporters certain "essential propositions of law" never have been presented to the court, including the contention that death sentences is illegal under any view of the case.

While a single justice may grant a stay of execution after the court itself has refused one, tradition holds that he should invoke the power only if he is confronted with new evidence which he thinks would be of compelling significance to at least three other members of the court. It takes the votes of at least four justices to bring a case before the Supreme Court for review.

COULD CALL SPECIAL TERM

If Douglas should grant a stay, the government could request a "special term" to act on it, since the court now is in summer recess. At its special term the court could either vote to vacate the stay or sustain it and consider a new appeal.

Defense attorney Emanuel Bloch wants to bring before the court adverse rulings of lower courts made earlier this month while his fourth appeal for a review of the Rosenbergs' trial was still pending before the Supreme Court.

Angier Woman, 81, Makes First Visit To Dunn Today

An 81-year-old woman who lives only about 20 miles away in the same county visited Dunn Tuesday morning for the first time in her long life.

Mrs. Sally Gregory of near Angier, the 20-mile trip to her county's largest town was quite an adventure.

It was the longest trip of her entire lifetime.

Mrs. Gregory, a kindly little woman, admits she's a homebody who, rather stay at home than do anything else.

In fact, she confessed, she hasn't visited one of her sons now in over a year—and he lives less than two blocks away from her.

Mrs. Gregory was interviewed in the basement of Dunn's Post office building, where she came to see a Social Security representative.

WANTS NO HELP

But don't get the wrong idea. Mrs. Gregory didn't come seeking social security, old age benefits or anything else for herself, even though she's eligible. She said she came in behalf of one of her many grandchildren.

"I don't want the government or anybody else to give me anything," declared Mrs. Gregory. "If they've got something to give away, I figure there are people who need it worse than I do."

A grandson, James Mitchell, brought Mrs. Gregory to Dunn. Asked how she liked the town, Mrs. Gregory allowed that it was alright. She didn't have time to look around. She looked after her business and headed back for home.

Mrs. Gregory, who was married at the age of 14, has visited one other "far-off" place during her life. She went to Raleigh several times, she said, when one of her children was in the hospital.

As a matter of fact, she rarely

Truce Teams To Meet Tomorrow After Recess

PANMUNJOM, Korea. — (AP) — The full United Nations and Communist truce delegations will meet tomorrow after a seven-day recess, the U. N. Command announced tonight.

The U. N. Command asked for the meeting, the announcement said. No details were given except that it will be an executive meeting.

There was no indication whether the meeting promised a further step toward the signing of an armistice or whether some complication had arisen.

DELAY POSSIBLE

In Washington Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had warned that the present Communist offensive on the battle front could seriously delay an armistice.

Staff officers, who have been meeting daily during the recess to discuss a cease-fire line, the exchange of prisoners and other details, will meet after the plenary session.

American officers in charge of "Operation Big Switch" — the exchange of prisoners after an armistice has been signed — held a high-level meeting today at the U. N. base at Munsan.

Tomorrow's truce meeting will bring Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior U. N. delegate, and North Korean Gen. Nam Il together, along with their staffs at 11 a.m. 9 p.m. Tuesday EST.

Harrison and Nam resumed their top-level negotiations yesterday on June 10, turning over the truce but to staff councils of both sides to draw the cease-fire line and settle other minor business.

GOOD HUMOR

Their last two meetings had ended in an atmosphere of good humor. Harrison, who often had addressed Nam in severe language before agreement was reached on exchanging prisoners, smiled as he talked to newsmen.

At the time the chief spokesman stepped aside, there was general belief they would not return to the truce but until all of the kinks had been ironed out of the armistice agreement.

Earlier today sources said the cease-fire probably would not be signed until June 25—third anniversary of the Korean war.

The meeting was called as Communist forces captured Finsen Ridge on the blazing east-central front for another victory in their new offensive to gain high ground before the cease-fire is called to freeze the battleline.

Democrats Expected To Back Vandenberg Plan

Husband Of Dunn Woman Honored

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Maurice A. Weinstein of Charlotte was installed last night as president of District 5 grand lodge of B'nai B'rith at the closing session of the group's annual convention here.

Some 500 delegates from six southern states attended. Mr. Weinstein is the husband of the former Miss Rosa Baer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Baer of Dunn. The prominent Charlotte attorney is well known in Dunn.

Democrats were expected today to line up behind Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg's compromise Air Force expansion program.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), a member of the Military Appropriations Subcommittee, predicted the Senate would come within $200,000,000 of approving Vandenberg's plan.

The retiring Air Force chief of staff presented the group with a proposal Monday calling for a $1,435,000,000 boost in the administration's Air Force request for new funds for fiscal 1954.

It would aim at a 143 wing air arm—instead of the 120 wings proposed by the administration—but shove the target date back to mid-1957. Under the more expensive Truman recommendations, plans called for 143 wings by mid-1955.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbot are studying the proposal. They have been holding out for a $5,000,000,000 cut in the Truman recommendations.

Other developments: Taxes: The House Ways and Means Subcommittee launched hearings on a general revision of tax legislation today with Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.) still holding out against a vote on the administration's request for a six-month extension of the excess profits tax.

Clark: Two Republicans—Chairman Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) and Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Cal.) — were confident Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark will accept an invitation to testify before their Judiciary Subcommittee on his handling of various cases when he was attorney general.

Clark's office said he had "no comment whatever" on the request. The subcommittee voted 3 to 1 Monday to ask him to appear.

Trade: The House voted 388 to 25 Monday to approve a one-year extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act after Republicans held down Democratic attempts to delay a provision enlarging the tariff commission from six to seven members.

Miami Issuing Storm Warnings

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A teletype network began operation today to speed hurricane warnings across the exposed "belly" of the nation.

Forty-five weather stations and military bases were linked together for the annual invasion of the destructive summer storms, most of which breed during the last two weeks in August through the first two weeks of October.

The hurricane warning setup will relay storm advisories to possible coastal danger points throughout the South.

Chief federal hurricane forecaster Grady Norton said that although the network will cease operation Nov. 15, there actually is no official hurricane "season."

"We've had hurricanes as early as May and as late as December," he said.

New Commy Units Launch New Attacks

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Chinese infantrymen scored new gains on the blazing east-central front last night and at least 15 Red planes bombed the big Allied port of Inchon, setting fire to a petroleum dump.

At dusk yesterday more than 1,200 Chinese struck against "Red" units at the western end of their two-mile deep beach, dispatches said the attack was to be decreasing in force by midnight.

Flames from the burning petroleum dump could be seen from the Munsan area 10 miles away.
