BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (U) — Tiny Felice Torza went out today to win another one "for the baby up in heaven."

Felice meets Jack Isaacs of Langley, Va., in one of the two semi-final matches for the PGA golf championship at Birmingham Country Club. But the Little man isn't worried.

"He has wanted me to come this far," the deeply religious Torza explained. "I'm sure he wants me to go all the way. If he dies—I will."

The five-foot, six inch iron artist was talking about the son who was born to his wife last January at Galveston, Tex., the son they happily named Donald. Little Donald only lived six weeks and Felice still gets a catch in his throat when he talks about him.

"I've got the shots and I know he wants me to win it," the dark-haired mite of the fairways said as he eased onto a bench in front of his locker after beating tournament toughened Jimmy Clark in Sunday's quarter-finals. "My wife feels the same way. I've called her every night after I've won and she isn't ever surprised. She knows it too."

There was no mockery in the little man's tones, nothing but a flat statement of accepted facts. Nor Felice pointed out, does he think any less of his other son, two and one-half year old Douglas.

"It's hard to explain," he added. "I just know he wants it."

That faith, and an almost naive confidence and lack of tension, can make Torza really the man to beat among the four survivors who include New Yorker Claude Harmon and Detroit's Wally Burkemo.

This is his first crack at the PGA, which makes his progress even as far as the semi-finals something exceptional. And he didn't have a soft path this far, beating Gene Sarazen in the first round, defending champion Jimmy Barnes in the second, Wally Ulrich in the third and then Clark.

He had to crack home a birdie on the 585-yard last hole to do it, too, and that distance is more suited to the long-hitting Clark.

PGA Finals Feature Four Home Golf Pros

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (U) — Claude Harmon and Wally Burkemo collided in the featured semi-final match of the PGA golf championship today as tiny Felice Torza faced Virginian Jack Isaacs in the other.

These four, all "home pros" who ignore the tournament trail for club jobs, were the surprise survivors from the field of 136 who started last Wednesday.

The final three tournament stars, Gene Sarazen, Jimmy Clark and Bill Nary, were knocked out Sunday in upsets, along with club pro Henry Ransom.

Burkemo sidelined Douglas, 2 up; Harmon walloped Nary, 6 and 5; Torza topped Clark 1 up, and Isaacs put out Ransom by the same margin.

Harmon, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., has clipped six strokes from par during 132 holes en route to the semi-finals. Burkemo, of Franklin, Mich., is five under for 136 holes.

Isaacs, civilian pro at the Langley, Va., Air Force Base, has bettered par by three strokes in 137 holes. Only Torza of Charles, Ill., is above regulation figures, nine over par after 143.

Burkemo was two down after 18 holes in his quarter-final match against Douglas. But he rallied in the afternoon and held a three-hole lead at the 33rd hole. Douglas won the 34th and 35th with pars but Burkemo pounded his second two feet from the pin for a winning eagle three.

Harmon was one down after 18 but fired a three-under-par 33 to win seven of the next nine holes and go six up. The match ended at the 31st as they halved.

Torza was up 2 at the halfway mark against Clark and still held the advantage after 27 holes. Clark drew even at the 34th only to see Torza get a winning birdie on the last.

Isaacs was three down with six to play when he hit a terrific streak that included four birdies, one 50-foot putt and another a holed 40-foot approach shot.

Hogan Worried Over Course; Still Favored

CARNOUTSIE, Scot. (U) — Ben Hogan was the shortest-priced favorite, 6 to 4, in the history of the British Open golf tournament today as he teed off in the first round qualifying round, but he also professed to be worried.

The American star, who is taking his first crack at Britain's links crown, says the divot-scarred condition of the championship Carnoustie Course has made his usual pre-tourney planning tough.

The tourney opens with two qualifying rounds of 18 holes each, with half of the 173-man field competing on Carnoustie and the other half on the nearby Burnside Course.

Hogan was slated for action on Burnside. Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., third choice at 7 to 1, will compete on Carnoustie. Carnoustie is figured at par 72, Burnside at 70.

The two qualifying rounds will trim the field at 100 players for the opening of the championship competition at Carnoustie on Wednesday.

Defending champion Bobby Locke of South Africa is the second choice at 5 to 1.

In addition to Hogan and Mangrum, other Americans entered are Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O.; Glenn Peoples of Tampa, Fla.; Tony Longo of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; George Wise of Pasa Tiemp, Cal.; John O'Donnell; Harold Oatman of Norfolk, Va.; Lt. J. S. Meiklejohn of Norfolk, Va.; and W. W. Fairfield, whose home town is listed as Nichols, U. S. A.

Presbyterian College Gets New Grid Coach

CLINTON, S. C. (U) — Athletic Director Walter A. Johnson said today former Alabamian Christian College head coach Bill Crutchfield has joined the Presbyterian College coaching staff.

Crutchfield, a native of Orangeburg, S. C., fills the vacancy created by the resignation of Sid Varney who recently became head coach at Elon College.

A former fullback and center under Carl Snavely at the University of North Carolina, Crutchfield was the youngest head coach in the North State Conference when he took over at Atlantic Christian in 1949. When that school dropped football after the 1951 season, Crutchfield moved to Mansfield O., high school.

There will be a game tonight between the Dunn Blue Sox and the Erwin Red Birds at 8 o'clock in the Dunn Ball Park.

Wimbledon Title Taken By Yank

WIMBLEDON, England (U) — The Wimbledon championship indicated that American men may regain their own singles title and the Davis Cup from Australia and re-emphasized that U. S. women have made women's international tennis a private Yank competition.

Despite losing Frank Sedgman to Jack Kramer's professional troupe, Australia was expected to win the men's singles and doubles crowns with its brilliant 18-year olds, Ken Rosewell and Lew Hoad, and 23-year old Mervyn Rose.

Rosewell and Hoad did with the doubles, but the singles title was taken by 29-year old Vic Seixas of Philadelphia in a straight set triumph over Denmark's Kurt Nielsen. The young Aussie wilted in the singles with Seixas ousting Rose and Hoad, while Nielsen upset Rosewell.

America, in one of its most successful appearances at this tennis capital scooped up four titles.

Margaret Little Mc Connolly captured her second Wimbledon singles crown in as many tries Saturday by defeating Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-6, 7-5.

Miss Hart and Shirley Fry of Akron, O., followed with the first love victory in a Wimbledon final when they crushed Miss Connolly and Julia Sampson of San Marino, Calif., 6-0, 6-0, for the women's doubles. Miss Seixas and Miss Hart won the mixed doubles title, 9-7, 7-5, over Miss Fry and Enrique Mares of Argentina.

Rosewell and Hoad defeated their countrymen, Rose and Rex Hartwig, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5, in the men's doubles final.

ALL STAR SQUADS NAMED FOR MAJOR LEAGUE GAMES

CHICAGO (U) — The starting major league All-Star squads were set today for the 20th annual inter-league contest.

Only six players, three from each league, were selected as repeaters from last year's teams.

The New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals both placed three men on each team while the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers tied the Cincinnati Redlegs by placing two representatives.

The two teams, selected by votes of the fans, will meet July 14 at Crosley Field in Cincinnati.

Yankee Manager Charlie Dressen will handle the two teams and select their own starting pitchers and supporting players.

Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati first baseman, led individual players in votes with 1,652,803. Yankee center fielder Mickey Mantle was second with 1,413,938.

Here are the starting players and their batting averages:

NOW HAS THE

Oil-Rite Tobacco Topper

Five Reasons Why The Oil-Rite Tobacco Topper Is Better:

1. It places the oil entirely around the bark of stalk, not 2-3 around.
2. Places the same amount of oil on every plant and has an adjusting screw.
3. Weighs less, gravity fed, no tank to pump.
4. Is faster, does not spray leaves.
5. Is made of non-corrosive material.
