Pledges Support To Korea In Case Of Attack

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles expects to sign a defense treaty this week pledging the United States to come to South Korea's aid again if the Republic is attacked, a reliable source said tonight.

The source said the U. S.-South Korean treaty would give the United States the "right" to base American forces in Korea as long as necessary for mutual security.

Dulles, Army Secretary Robert Stevens, and two plane-loads of high American State and Defense Department officials will arrive here Tuesday to open "common front" talks with South Korean President Syngman Rhee in preparation for the Korean peace conference.

Reliable sources told United Press Dulles hopes to complete his talks with Rhee in four days, sign a mutual defense pact and depart Saturday for Washington.

Scheidt Urges Safety Course In Schools

Edward Scheidt, State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, believes that highway safety ought to be a required subject for North Carolina school children and that no child should be graduated from high school who doesn't know how to drive a motor vehicle safely.

"That's what the former FBI official told Dunn Rotarians Friday night at a meeting also attended by county school, court and law enforcement officials.

"I look forward to the day," said Scheidt, "when no child can be graduated from our school without having learned the fundamentals of highway safety."

"After all," he observed, "what's the use to teach them all the

Byrnes Opposes New Federal Aid

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina told the 45th annual conference of governors today the time has come to "dispose any new federal aid projects" to states.

Byrnes, who directed a federal-state relations discussion at the conference, added "we should go further and consider what existing grants can be abandoned."

The South Carolina governor, who served on a committee which conferred with President Eisenhower concerning federal-state problems, said he is encouraged by a bill establishing a commission on inter-governmental relations which Congress has passed on recommendation of the President.

Nation Pays Last Tribute To Taft

By HERBERT FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and a host of other trustees of a nation's grief paid farewell homage to Robert A. Taft today and heard him extolled as a man who "personified the noblest attributes of the republic."

In the majestic rotunda of the Capitol, by order of the Congress in which he performed his greatest services, Ohio's fallen senator was given the highest honor this nation can pay its dead.

Only a dozen times in all its past before had the republic given a dead leader a national farewell like that which, starting at noon

HURTS LIBERTY

"Too much dependence on distant government will siphon off liberty as surely today as in the age of the drafting of our Constitution," Byrnes warned in speaking of the "concentration of greater power in the federal government."

The governor said federal grant to states have not been without benefit "but the conditions that justified federal aid and federal control of highway construction no longer exist."

Congress May End Present Term Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Republican congressional leaders agreed today to wait on September tax collections before making any more moves to raise the national debt limit.

Erwin Pastor Given Car By His Members

Last Minute News Shorts

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Police of two states guarded the Pennsylvania Turnpike and its approaches today, fearful that a phantom killer who has already slain two sleeping truck drivers and wounded a third may follow a pattern of striking every three days. Christmas came early this year for the Rev. Forest C. Maxwell, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Erwin. Members of his large congregation played "Santa Claus" to him Sunday morning and presented him a beautiful new four-door Chevrolet sedan.

When the popular pastor started out the front door of the church on his way home, he found members of the congregation outside waiting for him—and the new Chevrolet right in front of the door.

Almost before the Rev. Mr. Maxwell had a chance to find out what was going on, J. Aaron Holmes, prominent Erwin business man and chairman of the church board, stepped forward and told the minister: "The keys are in the car. It's all yours."

The minister was speechless at first, but his face beamed with happiness and appreciation.

Finally he said, very humbly: "I hope I can be good enough and

Dunn Girl Wins Prizes For Invalid Dad On Radio Show

Because of the love and devotion of a talented daughter, a well-known Dunn man who has been an invalid for many years will soon receive a handsome new wheel chair, an automatic electric porter lift and a nice easy chair.

Mrs. Dorothy Henry Johnson of Raleigh won these gifts for her father, V. B. Henry of Dunn, on a radio show in New York last week.

She came to Dunn during the weekend to tell her father the good news, and "I'm the happiest girl alive," she declared.

Her father has been an invalid since 1928. Mrs. Johnson can remember the day when her father was a healthy, active man.

She never had the pleasure of seeing her father walk and all my life I've wanted to do something to help him.

Mrs. Johnson for months had been listening to the American Broadcasting Company's radio program "Dad To A Friend," starring the Dunn family. It's a give-away program and it tries to help deserving people.

WON FREE TRIP

The former Dunn girl wrote James a letter telling him the story of her father and how she wanted to get him a wheel chair and automatic lift. Her letter was so dramatic, so appealing that James telephoned her from New York and arranged a free plane trip with all expenses paid to New York to appear on his program.

"I was really a queen for a few days," reports Mrs. Johnson. They provided her quarters in a big New York hotel, served her meals in her room, provided an escort for her and furnished tickets for all the shows she wanted to attend.

The big moment came on the program.

Mrs. Johnson started telling her story but was so happy and so excited she could hardly speak. So James read her letter, which brought a big ovation from the studio audience.

He asked her only one question and she supplied the answer and won.

WORTH OVER $500

In addition to the wheel chair and the automatic lift, the program director threw in the big easy chair for Mr. Henry besides.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy-pledged 83rd Congress pared nearly $13,000,000,000 from the appropriations requests submitted by former President Truman before he left office last January. The new funds voted by Congress for the current 1954 fiscal year come to about $3,500,000,000 less than Mr. Eisenhower proposed in his revised budget.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower joined the congregation of the National Presbyterian Church yesterday in prayer that the Korean armistice may lead to an enduring peace.
