Birthday Supper Given Tuesday For R. R. Raynor

For R. R. Raynor

A group of friends helped Ro. and Raynor celebrate his fiftieth birthday Tuesday night when his wife gave a birthday supper for him at their home.

The dining room table was attractively appointed with a white Irish linen cloth and centerpiece of the birthday cake banked with pink gladioli. On either side of the cake were pink candles.

Supper was served at seven. The menu consisted of tomato juice cocktail, fried chicken, buttered lima beans, potatoes au gratin, deviled eggs, hors doeuvres, hot biscuits, leed tea, ice cream and birthday cake.

Miss Libby Raynor, the Raynor's younger daughter, assisted in serving.

Those attending included Mr. and Mrs. Raynor, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Whittenton and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mason, staged in 1951 at Venice by mil-lianaire Don Carlos de Bestigui. Even those who wouldn't concede that this pa ty was the best of the century ate freely of suckling pig-served on gold plates, drank freely of champagne and rum punch, and eyed dazzling costumes and women guests wearing $1.500,000 worth of jewels.

Movie actress Gene Tierney, wearing a definighy low-cut dress and clinging to the arm of Prince Aly-Kahn, said the Venetian palace ball was "more authentic and more restricted."
Party-giver Elsa Maxwell, wearing a red wig and beard and riding a donkey as Sancho Panze, said "people of authentic character were here" but it was hard to compete with the Venetian pageahtry.
The ultra-sophisticated show put on by ballet impressario De Cuevas was marred when a red-bereted uniformed Spanish army officer got into a loud argument with the host and was arrested by police.
The Spaniard attempted to make a speech from the main stage denouncing "this frivilous waste of money while people go hungry." It could not be determined whether he was a guest or gate-crasher.
Communist-inspired inscriptions were posted in town. They read,
"Down with the Aristocrats!"!
