City Council Gets Petition

City Council received a petition from the Recreation Commission of the Chamber of Commerce last night requesting a special election on the use of City funds for recreational purposes. The petition was signed by 387 persons.

Members of the Town Board received the petition but took no action.

On recommendation of City Attorney I. R. Williams, a check will be made of the signatures to determine if those signing were registered voters.

If 15 percent of the voters sign a petition asking a special election, it serves as a mandatory request and Council has no other action to take but set an election.

Members of Council all signed the petition and they seem to be little doubt that a special election will be called. No opposition has been voiced.

Two weeks ago Council also discussed the possibility of having a vote on whether to use fluoride or not at the same time the recreation-fund-vote is taken.

Councilmen emphasized, however, that if a vote is taken on the use of fluoride, it will be only for advisory purpose.

George Pope It Takes Lot

late Willie Jackson and Margaret Isabelle Mitchell Pope.

His first job was as telegrapher for the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad at Godwin and he walked the distance of several miles each day for the 31st month job. In addition to the salary, he received a bushel of meal, a gallon of molasses and 20 pounds of white side meat.

"That was good money and that was also good eating," recalled Mr. Pope in that interview. "Why I lived just as good back then as I do now."

Mr. Pope stayed with the railroad for about nine or ten years, also working at Elrod, Pembroke, Magnolia and as a traveling auditor. The latter job made him give up railroading.

WIFE DIED IN 1941
Mr. Pope was married to Novella Strickland daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Olin D. Strickland. They celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary in 1941 and their death came to her on July 6, 1942.

He came to Dunn in 1900 and went into a grocery partnership with the late Richard Warren, father of Dr. Casper Warren, now pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dunn.

Later, the George F. Pope Lumber Company was established here and operated for more than a quarter of a century as Dunn's largest payroll. It had 10 employees. He also founded Pope and The Lumber Co. It was in partnership with Lofton Tart, now chairman of the county board of commissioners and president of The Commercial Bank. The firm is now owned and operated by Tart's son, Clarence Lee Tart.

Mr. Pope had seven children and grandchildren much of his property in recent years, but still possessed farms totaling more than 1,000 acres in size and a large amount of real estate.

COMMUNITY BUILDER
A number of impressive cornerstones bear his name, including Dunn's big Municipal Building, the First Citizens Bank Building, the First Baptist Church and the old school building, torn down about a quarter of a century ago.

A big, good-natured man with a hearty laugh, Pope seldom spoke unless about something he had a chance to say. He had a chauffeur, but he was found driving his chauffeur. He appeared to have an unlimited amount of energy and vigor.

Once asked for a sure-fire way to success, he said there was no such thing. "But," he added, "hard work, the ability to stick to a job and real honesty and character might be the answer." That was his philosophy.

PIONEER BAPTIST
Mr. Pope was one of the oldest members of the First Baptist Church here.

Surviving are one son, Arthur F. Pope, prominent Dunn business man; two daughters, Mrs. Alfred Blalock and Mrs. Margaret Pope McKay, all of Dunn; one brother, Reuben Pope of Dunn; seven grandchildren, in addition to a grandchild, and a niece, Miss Jessamine Stalling, who made her home with him.

It Takes Lot

few restaurants in the State to attain this honor.

Asked how he did it, Mr. Rollins replied:

"There's only one way to do it. Buy the best. Prepare the best; serve the best and serve it in the best manner."

"That's his formula for success and it works."

NOT SO SIMPLE
Don't get the wrong idea. It isn't all as simple as that. It takes plenty of hard work and effort and there are grimmings in the restaurant business just like any other kind of business.

For instance, last week when the choice steaks ran out, Johnson's Restaurant serves the very finest steak, which they secure from a leading meat packer in Philadelphia.

The Fourth District Bar Association, with a Federal Judge, several district judges and other dignitaries in attendance, was meeting at the restaurant. A check the day before showed plenty of the choice steaks in the locker room.

But the crowd the night before ate a lot of steak and there was Jack-facing all those judges and solicitors—and not enough steak.

STEAKS VIA AIR
He picked up the telephone, phoned Philadelphia and two hours before the supper the steaks had arrived by plane.

"You know I couldn't have served these judges anything but the best," related Mr. Rollins.

The Dunn restaurant man is a native of Philadelphia. Pa. but his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Rollins, moved to Greenville, N. C., when he was a child. His mother is dead but his father still resides in Greenville.

Like many other adventuresome boys, Jack got the yen to run away from home. And, like other run-away boys, one of his first thoughts turned to food. He ended up as a bus boy in the Florence Restaurant in Columbus, Ohio.

CAME UP HARD WAY
In case you don't know what bussing dishes means, it's the job of gathering the dirty, greasy dishes off the tables and stacking and washing them. That was his unpleasant job. He worked there for a year. Promotions came fast, however. His boss soon learned that there was a natural-born chef and restaurant operator.

From Florence Restaurant in Columbus, he went to the George Washington Hotel in Winchester, Va. as second cook. Three or four years later—and several jobs later—he became a first cook.

"That's the ambition of every cook to hold the No. 1 spot in a big restaurant," related Jack today, "and that was one of the happiest days of my life."

The rest of Rollins' restaurant experience is now history. He made the circuits—the William Penn Hotel, a swank establishment in Miami, Fla., the Monticello in Norfolk, Va., the Savannah Hotel in Savannah, Ga.

And finally, his own business. He operated the Charcoal Steak House in Norfolk, Va. for seven years until Uncle Sam called him to the Army. He served for three years as a mess sergeant. Most of his time was spent at Jefferson Barracks and Camp Crowder.

In the Army, as in civilian life, he saw that those who sat down to his tables enjoyed the best.

Mr. Rollins was selected to manage Dunn's growing restaurant. He served as chef at the Bon Air Night Club in Raleigh and a short stay in Rocky Mount.

Swan Haworth, pastor of the First Baptist Church, officiated. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lean Phillips Thompson and one son of the home, Ronald Anthony; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. New Developments Are Planned Here

City Manager A. B. Uzzle was instructed by the Town Commissioners last night to begin work on the installation of sewer and water lines for O. W. Godwin, Sr., immediately.

Uzzle reported that four persons were seeking work on sewer lines, and inquired of Council as to which one should be begun first. After an examination of the requirements, it was found that Godwin has made the necessary payments, and obtained the necessary easement for the construction work to begin.

Council found that a delay will be necessary in the requests of Morris Fleischman and L. B. Poy's until the proper easements are obtained.

Part of the fee required from Pope was taken care of in a swap of 43 cemetery lots for the services of Duncan Hines Restaurant. It didn't just happen.

Mr. Rollins married the former Miss Cora Lee Dunn of Rocky Mount. They have one son, Walter, age 14 months.

"And who does the cooking at home?" Mrs. Rollins, of course, Jack is strictly professional. He's a real restaurant man.

Dallas Folks Angry; Buying Up Shotguns

DALLAS, Tex. (UP) — A virtual state of emergency prevailed here today as every available policeman armed, angry citizens stood watch for a rapist-murderer who slit the throat of a 29-year-old mother.

It was believed the maniac who ravished and killed Mrs. Harold C. Parker Wednesday night may be the same nude Negro prowler who has terrorized the city for weeks by accosting at least a score of women and raping one three times.

More than 400 persons reported prowlers to authorities. All police vacations, leaves and days off were cancelled and the full force ordered to overtime duty, with 56 two-men squads on special patrol duty.

Hundreds of enraged husbands and fathers bought guns yesterday, almost buying out some stores, and many men stayed home from work to guard their families.

Police investigated a complaint last night by a divorcee, Mrs. LaVerne Cremer, 28, who said a young Negro man knocked at her door, ravished and killed her. She and her husband were in bed and she was alone when she was attacked. The neighbors fled. However, the neighborhood police they did not see at one.

REWARDS OFFERED
Dallas newspapers, radio and television stations offered rewards totaling $4,000 for information leading to the conviction of Mrs. Parker's attacker.

City police received some prowler calls by 10 p.m. last night. Virtually all false alarms. The averaged about 80 calls an hour during the "rush period" and a sheriff's office reported it too flooded by reports from scared citizens.

At least four men were arrested and held as suspects when found in the area where Mrs. Parker was raped and her throat cut.

Before Mrs. Parker died in the arms of a policeman, she gasped: "A Negro man took me under the bridge and cut my throat."

You Hear Strange Things About Catholics

Yes, you can hear some strange things about Catholics. You hear it said that Catholics believe all non-Catholics are headed for Hell... that they believe non-Catholic marriages are invalid.

Some think Catholics believe Our Pope is God... that he can do no wrong... that they owe him civil allegiance and that he should have the political power to rule America.

It is said that Catholics want religious freedom only for themselves... that they oppose public schools and separation of Church and State as evils which should be destroyed.

The claim is made that Catholics pay the priest for forgiveness of their sins... that they must buy their departed relatives and friends out of Purgatory... that they adore statues... are forbidden to read the Bible... use medals, candles and holy water as sure-fire protection against the loss of a job, lightning or being run down by an automobile.

But what is worse, some say Catholics corrupt the true teaching of Jesus Christ with the addition of pagan superstitions and practices that are nothing less than the inventions of the devil.

If all these things—of any of them—were true, we would be a pity. For at least one out of every six Americans is a Catholic—and we would be a national tragedy if one-sixth of all Americans entertained such erroneous ideas.

The Knights of Columbus is an organization of 700,000 Catholics men of reason and intelligence. Our ranks will be found statesmen, scientists, historians, physician, movie stars, lawyers, educators and others representing every cross-section of American life. And for each and all of them loyalty to the Catholic Faith is the ac of a reasonable man.

We are deeply interested in the welfare of our Church and our Country. And we believe the interests of both will be served when fair-minded people know the Catholic Church as it is—not as it is sometimes mistaken to be. If you have heard and believe any of these false claims, and want the truth, we will gladly send you free booklet which explains many aspects of Catholic belief and practice concerning which people are commonly misinformed. Write an address that we can reach and ask for Pamphlet No. 1 N.
