Charlie Johnson, 74, one of the best known country preachers in this section of the State and veteran official of the Cape Fear Conference of Free Will Baptist Churches, completed 30 years of service at the Hodges Chapel Church between Dunn and Benson Sunday and an overflow crowd was on hand to bid him farewell.

Another highlight was the singing of two of his favorite hymns by the minister, a renowned hymn singer who has a whole family of musicians.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson sang two hymns, "Anywhere With Jesus" and "Jesus Never Tolls." He was accompanied by his oldest daughter, Mrs. Coy Lucas of Dunn, Route 2.

The portrait was presented to the church by women of the Ladies Auxiliary. Mrs. J. O. Miller is head of the Auxiliary and Mrs. Opal Besterfield of Erwin was in charge of the committee.

Special music was presented by the youth choir, directed by Mrs. Satterfield, with Judy Holmes as accompanist.

Police Chief George Long said he thought the girl was abducted "but not for ransom."

"Her father has received no ransom note," he said. "He's just an ordinary fellow. He wouldn't be able to pay."

The girl's father is Richard Hartley, a professor at La Crosse State College.

The main clue in the search was a pool of blood found 16 feet from the home of Diggo Rasmussen, whose 29-month-old baby had been entrusted to Evelyn's care.

A trail of blood led from the pool to about two blocks from the Rasmussen home, Police Chief

Sorry Fathers Given Delinquency Blame

James Waite, superintendent of the youth prison center at Camp Butner, believes that "sorry fathers" are the greatest cause of juvenile delinquency.

That's what he told the Dunn Rotary Club Friday night in an address on his nationally published youth prison for first-offenders.

A lot of the experts give various causes for juvenile delinquency, pointed out Waite, "but I think it all begins with sorry fathers."

"Unless a father can win the affectionate respect of his child, then there is little hope. That's where the trouble starts."

Waite, whose work at Butner was featured in the September issue of The Reader's Digest, brought along four of his boys and two of them bore out what Waite said about poor fathers.
