

Sid Caesar Plans For New TV Show

NEW YORK (AP) — "My only format will be no format."

That is Sid Caesar's thinking so far as to the makeup of his new NBC television show he will head next fall when he sets out on his own after five seasons of co-starring with Imogene Coca on "Your Show of Shows."

"It will be an hour-long variety show," the comedian explained. "We'll probably follow a schedule of three weeks on, one week off, and so forth. That will give me a rest, also the audience."

The comedian will give his last "Your Show of Shows" performance on June 5.

"Aside from some discussions now and then, I won't be doing any concentrated work on the new program until after that," he said. "I owe it to the present show not to get involved in anything that will take a lot of my time. After all, getting this program on the air every Saturday means working steadily from Monday morning right up to air time."

"I'll take a rest after the last show. At least that's what I say now. It may be that plans for the new show will take more time than I expect and I might not get a real vacation at all."

The first thing I have to do is to open an office of my own. Carl Reiner and Howard Morris, our mainstays in sketches on "Your Show of Shows," will go along with me for the new show. This is an entirely amicable arrangement with Max Liebman, producer of "Your Show of Shows." There is no question of "trading" his staff.

"By no format, I mean that I don't want to start a pattern that will be followed rigidly week after week to the extent that the public always knows what is coming. I'll keep them off balance by mixing up the pitches."

Details as to what day and hour Caesar's show will be aired, whether he will have one or multiple sponsors, are NBC's worries, the comedian added.

CHICAGO (AP) — Election officials made a bid today to get more Housewives' votes to spring primaries.

Wingfield said, "I have given years of study to the issues I shall dwell upon. I have definite things I want to tell the people. If the people want me they can vote for me. I don't propose to campaign by Gallup poll. I don't believe in looking at public opinion to find out what the voters want."

The major candidates in the campaign are Sen. Alton A. Lennon and former Gov. W. Kerr Scott. Others who have filed are W. M. Bostick of Cary, Henry L. Sprinkle of Greensboro and A. E. Turner of Palmira. The filing deadline is noon Saturday.

Wingfield said he thinks his political philosophy is closer to that of the late Senator Smith than is Lennon's and added that he would not be seeking the seat if Smith had lived. He said his views are

TOWN GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE BOY

JOHN ECOB, 6, listens as his mother reads a story at home in Garwood, N. J., where most of the 4,622 townfolk have offered to give blood to help John in his fight against hemophilia, an incurable disease which prevents blood from clotting. The donation means months more of life to the boy, who wears a leg brace to check bleeding from a four-month-old knee bruise. He has received 30 pints of blood in transfusions.

SEEING HEARTS FOR BLIND BABIES

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS LYNCH, of New York, who adopted a little blind girl, Susan Patricia, 4 (right), three years ago, have added another sightless child to their family. She is Elizabeth Ann, 2, and she was taken by them from the Boston Nursery for Blind Babies. Here the Lynches get the youngsters ready for a party. (International)

Lillington News

Lillington Men Elect Taylor

J. H. Taylor, a retired school principal, is new president of the Lillington Methodist Men.

He was chosen at a supper meeting last Wednesday night at the church which preceded the first quarterly conference.

Other new officers elected at the same time were Jim Davis, vice-president; Howard Watkins, secretary-treasurer; Carl Kelly, representative for the Laymen's Magazine; and Hal Bradley, C. H. Brock and W. R. Cranford on the board of directors.

ANNIVERSARY DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Newton of Lillington who observed their first

"quite different from those of Scott."

He said he supported Smith's ideas "opposing socialism in government" and said he has been given the support of some of the people who supported Smith.

He said he had always been a registered Democrat but declined to say how he had voted in the 1952 presidential election. "I engaged in no partisan political activity during the 1952 campaign," he said.

"What I want to do ought to be done in the Senate," he said. He said that he has "some ideas" on foreign policy but that he is mostly concerned with domestic matters.

He said he would be delighted to debate with either Scott or Lennon but added that he was not challenging the two candidates.
