BIG GOVERNMENT STILL BEGINS IN THE CAPITOL
WASHINGTON - No matter how many times we come to Washington, we are always as fascinated by the place as a high school senior on his first trip.

INTERVIEWING - There's something very intriguing about the nation's capital. You get the feeling by the time you cross the Potomac. The atmosphere is altogether different from that you find in New York, or Cleveland, or Denver or Los Angeles. Everybody looks important here - from the smartly-dressed page boys in Congress and the suave, stripped-panted diplomats to the herds of big business representatives who fill the cocktail lounges in the city's plush hotels. Even the thousands of girls - the secretaries, the stenographers (Continued on page six).

FBI Tells Police Watch For Small Atomic Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) - The FBI has urged police officers throughout the nation to be on the alert for attempts by enemy saboteurs to sneak midget atomic weapons into the country, it was learned today.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The FBI itself declined to comment on the letter. But informed sources said it was not prompted by any new fear that potential enemy agents were believed to be about to try to smuggle atomic bombs or other weapons into the country for sabotage purposes.

BE ALERT!
"Be especially alert," the warning said, "regarding any article that is extremely heavy for its size."

Both of the metals can be coated with plastics, or other metals to disguise their appearance and can be machined into any shape.

MONEY ON THE MOVE - History has a way of repeating itself. Here is Colin McPhail, 64-year-old resident of Lillington, Route 3, who helped the late H. T. Spears, then cashier of the Bank of Lillington transfer the money when the same bank moved to its present location on the corner of Main and Front Streets. Recently the money was moved into the vaults at the courthouse, at the original site where the bank opened 50 years ago (Photo by T. M. Stewart)

Bank Of Lillington Holds Open House

The Bank of Lillington will hold open house Thursday, March 25, from 7 until 9:30 p. m. in a handsome new building located directly West, across the street, from the County Courthouse.

No invitations have been issued in the Lillington vicinity but all friends and customers of the bank are invited to attend the opening and inspect the building, one of the finest examples of functional architecture to be built in this part of North Carolina.

Refreshments will be served and favors distributed. Bank officials will be on hand to greet visitors and show them the building. Every caller will be given an opportunity to guess the number of coins in a jar with the correct guesser receiving a $50 savings bond for a prize.

John W. Spears is cashier of the bank which his father, the late Henry T. Spears, founded in August 21, 1903. A portion of the fine new bank building rests on the identical spot in which the bank first opened for business. From one employee, the bank has grown until it now has 11 fulltime employees.

Says U. S. Must Consult Britain On Use Of Bases

LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today that the United States must consult with Britain before ordering "massive retaliation" against any aggressor from U. S. air bases in this country.

Churchill told the House of Commons that he has "smooth and friendly arrangements" with President Eisenhower for discussing such emergencies as aggression.

FRONT LINE
