NEW YORK (AP) — J. Fred Muggs, a chimpanzee in the employ of NBC, asked CBS today for equal television time "to refute all gestures made by chimpanzee who aped me on Edward R. WASHINGTON (AP) — Government economic experts estimate that Americans are earning as much money during the early months of 1954 as they did during the same period last year. The estimate, believed to be figuring large in the administration's six-up of the present economic picture, would mean that personal income during the first three months of this year is running at an annual rate of $281,600,000,000.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene D. Millikin R-Colo, chairman of the finance committee, expressed confidence today that any further reductions in the controversial excise tax cut bill could be blocked. The Senate voted 64-23 Wednesday night to order a 50 per cent slash in excise or manufacturers' sales taxes on refrigerators, toasters, and other oil, gas and electric appliances. It was a sharp rebuff for the top GOP leaders in their first big tax test because 28 Republicans broke ranks to help 35 Democrats and an Independent to put the amendment over.

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's government put the entire country under a state of emergency today. Circusmen worked through most of the night getting train hons and gaily colored wagons aboard a 36-car train that will take the big Ringling Bros., and Barnum and Bailey show to New York for its opening in Madison Square Garden March 31.

Red China's dictator, 60-year-old Mao Tse Tung, apparently is back at the same old stand. It had been three months since Red publications or broadcasts made any mention of Mao's attending a public function, and speculation had mounted that he either was seriously ill or dead. But this week the New China news agency said in a Peiping dispatch that Mao had presided at the first meeting of a committee delegated to write a new national constitution. The dispatch took on unusual significance since it was played up in especially large type by Red newspapers.

French authorities said the raid, which was carried out yesterday, was even more devastating than big napalm raid staged Tuesday.

S. military and air attaches. The broadcast monitored in London said the conductor disclosed his findings in a letter to the Soviet trade union organ, Trud.

He just told a questioner at his weekly news conference Wednesday that he would re-examine atomic information policy with AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Arthur W. Radford planned to report personally to President Eisenhower today regarding the U. S.-French talks here this week on the crucial situation in Indochina. Radford was called to the White House today as French General Paul Ely postponed his return to Paris until Friday to put in another day of work with U. S. military chiefs. Scout Schedule Released Today

Harnett County Scout Executive Russell McLean today released a schedule of activities for April, and urged scout officials to work to make it the best month so far this year.

Topping the list of activities is a training program for cub scouts, and for scout leaders to be held at the Buie's Creek High School April 2, 7, 9, 14, 21 and 23. The program will begin each evening around 7 o'clock and last around one hour.

During the six-day program leaders will gather at Buie's Creek to review the principals of scouting, McLean stated. Various phases of scouting will be covered in all of the sections, he added, with different instructors talking at each meeting.

"A number of scouting officials have complained that they don't know anything about scouting," McLean said. "Now they will have the opportunity to learn," he added.

Each of the nights of training will be given to various problems in scouting, including the general problems, camping, and other important activities.

Besides the training program, other activities planned for April include:

- Regional scout meeting at Atlanta, Ga., April 19, and 20; District Roundtable discussion, April 26.
- District meeting, April 27; Camporee, April 30-May 1, at Camp Durant; and several meetings for reviewing charters of various county troops.

loner replied, according to Scott, "Well, you're the boss." And that, said Scott, "is how I got 'em."

"Of course, the rank and file of North Carolinians, not being Governor, couldn't order a network of new highways around their homes," continued Rodman. "They just took what was given them and were grateful."

"But there are other points of interest on the Scott farm roads, not counting three rather expensive bridges and an underpass or two for the convenience and safety of the Scott cows, something only a few other farmers got."

SCOTT GOT BIG CHECK
"By all means visitors should look over the new location of U. S. Route 70, a super-highway which runs for about a mile through Scott property. They can't see the $12,000 check paid to the Governor for his 33 acres of right-of-way, for according to him he used that money to buy a 400-acre farm in Orange County. That was a cracker-jack trade."

"During the Scott administration, the Fifth Highway Division, spent in Alamance County nearly one million dollars more than the amount of Division funds allocated to that county. That, of course, meant that other counties in the Division got nearly a million less in improved roads. This is most interesting to people from those counties still on muddy roads."

SOLD GRAVEL, TOO
"While the visitors are pondering this, they might wander over to the rock quarry on the Scott farm and see where a contractor extracted gravel for use in building roads under a lease agreement with the Governor. It might be interesting to ask the guide if the ex-Governor is still profiting from the quarry, as the lease reportedly was to run for 10 years."

"From the quarry, the sight-seeing visitor might move on to the spot from which the Governor sold top-soil used in constructing the new Durham-Chapel Hill highway. This is exceedingly interesting, as we are informed that better top-soil was available adjacent to the new road."

"Visitors no doubt will wonder why top-soil was hauled all the way from Haw River through Orange County and into Durham County, if plenty of better-grade top-soil was much nearer, but of course, this is just one of the wonders about Mr. Scott's 'model' of community improvement."

HE ATTEMPTED GRAB
"Another cause for wonder would have been the roads he expected to build with the $750,000 in surplus highway money he tried to grab for Alamance during the tail-end of his administration, but public furor caused him to back down and now we can only speculate whether he intended to make his 'model community' even more model."

"Altogether, this should make for a very interesting and educational excursion. Certainly, there is nothing else like it in North Carolina. But you have to give Mr. Scott credit for doing it all himself. As he told a reporter: 'You know damn well we'd never have got these roads if I'd waited for some other administration to give 'em to us.'"

"That's certainly true. No other Governor in the State's history ever did so well by himself."

"And that points up one of the many things people like about Senator Lennon. He's not the type to 'feather his own nest' at public expense. He's just not the grasping kind."

FREDRICKS RETURN
Miss Gabor made the prediction on the eve of Rubirosa's Dec. 30 marriage to the dime store heiress. The marriage broke up in Palm Beach, Fla., after 78 days because Miss Hutten "spent all of her time in bed," according to Rubirosa who described himself as an incurable "outdoor man."

WIVES BORE HIM
"Bubi" told reporters at a press conference yesterday that he was "bored" with rich wives and was looking for a "poor girl" to be his fifth bride. It was doubtful that Miss Gabor could qualify.
