DULLES, EDEN AGREE ON INDOCHINA

Say Political Settlement Is Needed First

LONDON (P) — United States Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden agreed today there can be no cease-fire in Indochina without a political settlement, informed sources said.

The misunderstanding, which may meet objections in France, was said to be the first fruits of Dulles' flying trip to Europe. He is seeking to get Britain and France to agree on a unified plan to block further Red Chinese intervention in Indochina.

The two foreign secretaries, in their second meeting of the day, also were said to be in agreement that there could be no "appeasement" or sell out to the Communists in Southeast Asia.

Eden had consulted with Prime Minister Winston Churchill before his second conference with Dulles.

FRANCE COOL — France was openly cool to Dulles' proposal for a stern warning to Red China against getting more deeply involved in Indochina.

Leftwing laborites in the British House of Commons were raising cries of suspicion against the talks going on only a few doors away in Whitehall.

Dulles' second meeting with Eden lasted two hours and 10 minutes. It was announced a third conference will be held at 10:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m. EST) tomorrow in a further attempt by the American secretary to get Britain to go along with a firm policy.

After his third meeting with Eden, Dulles is scheduled to fly to Paris on a similar mission to France.

At their morning meeting Dulles and Eden sidetracked their discussion of Indochina to discuss the explosive situation in the Holy Land. They turned to the Middle East to talk over the increasingly serious dispute between Israel and Arab Jordan that is causing "mounting anxiety" in Western capitals.

Although officials declined to explain the sudden detour, authoritative sources said the 1950 joint declaration by the United States, Britain and France was discussed. In 1950, the Big Three undertook to aid Arab nations if they were attacked.

Billy Graham Raps Nudity In Posing

LONDON (P) — Evangelist Billy Graham said today actress Simone Silva's posing nude from the waist up at the Cannes film festival was "the lowest kind of publicity stunt."

"There is no doubt that this sort of thing contributes to immorality," Graham said. "I think any decent person would agree with me."

Miss Silva willingly stripped to the waist and posed for photographers with actor Robert Mitchum at a film festival picnic. The British film star admitted later she did it for publicity.

The actress said she had been offered a seven-year Hollywood contract starting at $254 a week by a new company that has taken over the Charlie Chaplin studios.

Roger Mann Heads Elections Board

Roger Mann, well-known Lillington banker, is the new chairman of the Harnett County Board of Elections.

He was elected by the other board members after all three were given the oath of office in ceremonies held in the county courthouse at Lillington.

Woodrow Hill of Dunn, local dealer for The News and Observer, was elected as the new secretary of the elections board.

The third member of the board is B. F. McLeod, of Buie's Creek, the Republican member. Mr. McLeod is a merchant and an insurance man.

Chairman Mann succeeds Donald McRae of Lillington, Route 3, who had asked not to be renominated to the board.

Secretary Hill said today that the board would hold another meeting in the near future to appoint registrars and judges in the county's 21 voting precincts.

Large Crowd Attends First Of Pre-Easter Rites Here

The Rev. Byron Jones, guest speaker for the pre-Easter services sponsored this week by the Dunn Ministerial Association at the First Baptist Church, told the audience last night that death isn't a nice thing to think about, but that it would pay everyone to consider it seriously.

Rev. Jones will be speaking each evening during the week at 7:30, will be on the morning devotion at 9 o'clock over WCKB, and will speak at the morning services at 10 o'clock.

A world traveler, Rev. Jones has made two trips to the Holy Land, where he studied the religious conditions there. He said today that plans are now being drawn for a third trip with a number of ministers and laymen going in 1955.

Services during the week are sponsored by the Dunn Ministerial Association with a different minister presiding over services each evening.

TO SHOW MOVIES — In addition to speaking, Rev. Jones will be showing a movie, and possibly colored slides of the Holy Land during the week.

Opening the series of services last night, Rev. Jones called attention to the fact that many persons today die without knowing anything is wrong with them. "It pays to seriously consider death and be prepared," he said.

Sen. Griswold, Ex-Nebraska Governor, Dies

WASHINGTON (P) — Sen. Dwight Griswold R-Neb. died early today at Bethesda Naval Hospital after suffering a heart attack. He was 60 and a veteran of Nebraska politics.

Griswold, who was stricken while driving home from a dinner party, had played golf earlier yesterday. He was rushed to the hospital and died around 12:15 a. m.

A former governor of Nebraska, he came to the Senate in January 1953 to fill out the term of the late Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry (R-Neb.).

Mrs. Griswold, the former Erma Elliott whom he married in 1916, was at his bedside when the end came. His daughter, Mrs. John H. Cayer, is now in Switzerland. His only son, Dwight Jr., died of polio in 1951.

LONG PUBLIC SERVICE — Griswold, who made his residence at Scottsbluff, Neb., was elected to the state House at the age of 27 and served later in the state Senate. He was governor of Nebraska from 1940 to 1946.

His Senate term would have expired next January. He had not announced whether he would be a candidate for a full six-year term in November's election.

Griswold's death leaves the Senate political line-up at 46 Republicans, 48 Democrats and one independent. The present Nebraska governor, Robert C. Crosby, is a Republican and is expected to will appoint a Republican to fill the vacancy.

These Little Things

EARL WESTBROOK KEPT HIS BROTHER COMPANY

The stock worked overtime Saturday for Sam Strickland, well-known farmer of the Mingo section, and Sam was a happy and proud man today.

Mrs. Strickland gave birth to a pretty little baby girl in the Dunn Hospital. She was named Sammie West.

On the same day, one of the Stricklands' cows gave birth to twin calves.

It was truly a red-letter day. "You can tell 'em that both mothers are doing fine," reported Sam, beaming with a smile that stretched from ear to ear.

LITTLE NOTES: James Surles, the State's No. 1 parakeet breeder, had an unusual experience Friday. He sold a parakeet to a woman who is 87 years old. "And she was as happy with her parakeet as a child with a new toy," says James. Mrs. Herman Neighbors says her brother, Lee Surles of Raleigh, bought a parakeet from James, and he loves that bird just like a son. (Continued on page two)

Becky Lee Named Miss Dunn Of '54

Miss Becky Lee, pretty 18-year-old Dunn student at Peace College in Raleigh, will represent Dunn in the "Miss North Carolina" contest this summer at Burlington.

She was officially crowned as "Miss Dunn" Friday night in the Jaycees' first annual beauty pageant, held in the high school auditorium and attended by more than 1,000 people.

Miss Lee, one of Dunn's most popular girls, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Lee, prominent Dunn residents.

The second place award went to Miss Fannie Sue Turnage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Furman Turnage, and third place was won by Miss Betsy Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie B. Lee.

There were an even dozen contestants. Jaycees President Roy Love crowned Miss Lee, presented her with a gold trophy, draped a ribbon around her proclaiming her as "Miss Dunn of 1954" and presented her a dozen red roses.

She will also receive an all-expense paid trip to the State pageant and finals in Burlington, where she will compete for the State title and an opportunity to participate in the "Miss America" contest at Atlantic City.

The girls were judged on the basis of appearance in evening dress and swim suits, talent, social grace and intelligence.

POPULAR SELECTION — Miss Lee's selection as "Miss Dunn" was a popular choice, as evidenced by the applause she received throughout the evening. In the talent division, Miss Lee did a pantomime on Doris Day. (Continued on page two)

Pretty Blonde Spy Asks To Be Jailed

WASHINGTON (P) — Ludmila Sergeevna Mikailova is a unique person in Washington today, despite the fact that there are lots of other girls around town that are 24 years old, blonde, and just as attractive.

She is unique in two ways: She is voluntarily in jail whereas everyone else there wants out, and she freely admits she was a Soviet espionage agent.

The trouble is that she is having a tough time convincing anyone she really was a spy.

At the time, she was telling the truth. She was the first registered at a hotel here as Mrs. Claire Wilson, was arrested last Friday night on charges that she left the West Coast without permission of immigration authorities. She is under a deportation order for proceeding on a passport order for Communist activities. At the time, she was telling the truth. (Continued on page eight)
