THE BURNER WITH THE COOL SMOKE PIPE
—USES LESS OIL—
Think of it! Cures for Only 2¢
The folks who sell CURE-ALLS like to tie a string around that first joint of pipe while the stove is burning. The string won't even color, which means that the big outer drum is radiating the heat out into the room—not wasting it out the flue pipe. And, if it won't burn that string, there won't be any damage if a stick of tobacco should fall against that pipe. Folks who use CURE-ALLS tell you to hang your tobacco right up against the flue pipe. There isn't any wasted space with a CURE-ALL.
