Sen. McCarthy's Testimony Is Challenged By Jenkins

McCarthy Claims Army Set Up Phony Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ray H. Jenkins strongly suggested today that a memorandum written by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy directly contradicted McCarthy's testimony on why the Army proposed to "break" Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton as commandant of Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

McCarthy denied the implication during concluding cross-examination by Jenkins, special counsel for the Senate permanent investigation subcommittee.

He said the Army set up "phony claims" in an effort to get rid of Lawton. The real reason, he insisted, was Lawton's co-operation with the McCarthy investigators in their hunt for subversives at Ft. Monmouth.

Jenkins reminded the senator that yesterday he testified Army counsel for John G. Adams told him last winter Lawton was to be removed because of critical remarks about certain universities.

The memo, dated Dec. 17, said the only reason Adams gave was that "Lawton embarrassed the military" by helping the subcommittee expose bad security at Ft. Monmouth.

McCarthy said the memo contained his evaluation of Adams' reason and therefore was not contradictory.

Jenkins hammered at this shortly before breaking off his cross-examination in the morning session of the 32nd day of the Army McCarthy hearings.

Adultery Charge Against Jimmy Now Off Record

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) — James Roosevelt and his estranged wife have "completely settled all differences" and indicated they will seek an uncontested separation or divorce.

The agreement, which meant Mrs. Roosevelt's charge that he was unfaithful with an even dozen women would be removed from the court calendar.

It also meant that Roosevelt, 49-year-old son of the late president, would be able to campaign for Congress without the cloud of adultery charges hanging over him.

Roosevelt scored a landslide Democratic primary victory Tuesday, despite the widely publicized charges and the Democratic National Committee's consequent refusal to back him.

Grammer Goes To Death On Gallows

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — G. Edward Grammer silently bowed his head on the gallows of the ancient State Prison here early today and died by the noose for the "almost perfect" murder of his wife.

The sorrowful and sunken eyes of the 37-year-old New York business betwined no emotion when his head was covered with a dark green hood and he plunged through the steel trap.

His body shook violently until guards moved forward and held it still. One of the red carpet slippers he was wearing fell to the floor. He sighed heavily for a minute and a half.

Then he was quiet. From the death house nearby two Negro inmates could be heard praying softly with Catholic priests, exactly four minutes after the trap was sprung, there was another gasp.

Four times Dr. Henry W. D. Hollis stepped up to examine the body. Finally he pronounced Grammer dead.

Grammer killed his wife, Dorothy Mae, in a fatal auto accident in August, 1933, for the love of a United Nations secretary.

Grammer, a stocky, balding man and the father of three children, spent his last day simply and stoically. He took Communion, visited his mother, two brothers and sister and prayed with the priest, Methodist chaplain, the Rev. Benjamin Blauhaugh.

Man Pays $75,000 Ransom For Wife

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The first clues to the kidnaping of the young wife of a wealthy industrialist for $75,000 ransom were found today on the trackless desert 50 miles east of here.

The Maricopa County sheriff's office said a valise, presumed to be the one in which the ransom was delivered, and a thermos jug and some food were discovered in the wastelands.

Footprints leading into the desert also were spotted and were being trailed by mounted deputies, special FBI agents and radio-equipped highway patrol and police cars.

Mrs. Evelyn Ann Smith, 23, was released late yesterday after her husband risked his own life to follow a fantastic trail of kidnap notes and make the payoff to the masked abductor in the foothills of the Superstition Mountains, 40 miles east of here.

Mrs. Smith, a pretty brunette and mother of two children, was kidnaped Wednesday as she left a beauty parlor here. Her abductor apparently did not harm or molest her.

The young housewife told FBI agents she believed her abductor was suffering from cancer.

"He told me that he had cancer and expected to die soon," she said (Continued on page six)

Famed Communist Taken By Death

CHICAGO (AP) — Will Rooster, 57, composer of such songs as "Backtown Strutters Ball" and "Some of These Days," died last night in a hospital.

Among his other best-known compositions were "Turkey in the Straw," "I'd Love to Live in Loveland" and "Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland."

Success For Ike Program Is Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican leaders today predicted success for most of the legislation President Eisenhower called for Thursday night to block "rash aggression" and "to build a better and stronger America."

Democrats generally declared they will back his Social Security, health and unemployment compensation proposals. But they hoisted storm warnings at his plea for his big tax reform bill and flexible farm support program.

WANTS ACTION

In his first major radio-television address in nearly two months, Mr. Eisenhower urged Congress to act quickly on the "badly needed" measures to put America on a "broad" straight legislative highway to "security, prosperity and happiness."

He said Americans are living in "an age of ceaseless trouble and danger" when the future is "shadowed by mushroom clouds and menaced by godless men addicted to force and violence and the continuance of anarchy among nations."

"Let us therefore not rest until these laws are passed," he said. "Let us have less political friction and more political fusion. Let us have in this session of Congress approval of a program essential to a stronger America."

Audience Cheers

The President spoke before the Citizens For Eisenhower Congressional Committee and the admittedly partisan audience interrupted 32 times to cheer him wildly.

Mr. Eisenhower grinned his pleasure. Mrs. Eisenhower was moved almost to tears when the orchestra played "Mamie, What A Wonderful Day It Was."

In one brief political note, Mr. Eisenhower announced his pleasure at the prospect that there will be "many more" men and women supporters in the next Congress and added: "It would seem redundant for me to say the more the better."

But for the most part, the President steered clear of politics and appealed for bipartisan backing for his program which he said is designed to give "every willing American a practical opportunity to enjoy good health, a good job, a good education, a good home, a good country."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Milton E. Young (R-ND) said today the Republican Party "might as well write off" the Midwest in future presidential elections if the GOP formally adopts President Eisenhower's farm program.

Par value of each share of stock was set at $100 a share. Around 130 persons attended the dinner and pledges signed on the spot. The proposed building, which (Continued from page six)

These Little Things

WILLIE BIGGS IS LUCKY TO HAVE A JOB TODAY

Willie Biggs, the hustling Dunn Jaycee leader is a man who gets things done and he's got plenty of nerve.

It's a wonder he isn't padding the sidewalks today looking for a job. If Louis Sutton wasn't a very kind-hearted, good-natured fellow, he probably would be.

Willie is the man due the credit for getting Mr. Sutton, president of Carolina Power and Light Co., the speaker for "Tyler Appreciation Day" here. As you know Willie works for the power company here.

Mr. Sutton, one of the nation's best known utilities executives, was attending an important meeting in Newark, New Jersey last week when Willie interrupted him to invite him to the Dunn celebration honoring Henry Tyler.

Mr. Sutton was happy to come, of course, and figured it would be a nice social trip and would give him an opportunity to relax and to see some of his old friends here.

The thing is, Willie forgot one important little detail.

In his big, swank office in Raleigh last Monday morning, Mr. Sutton picked up his copy of the Daily Record and started reading about plans for the Tyler celebration.

Jimmy Garvin, an attorney, leaves a law practice in Miami to become an active member of the large Cadillac-Oldsmobile dealership here.

Born in Charlotte in 1923, Jimmy Garvin later moved to Fayetteville where he attended public schools. Later he attended Campbell College in Harnett County where he was graduated in 1950. While at Campbell he took an active part in dramatics, was the club president, and class president during his senior year, and took an active interest in other college activities.

Sewell Keeps Lions Laughing, Thinking

By CARL CONNER Record Staff Writer

Herbert Sewell, GOP candidate for Governor in 1952, spun a line of good humor and lively philosophy for the Lions Club ladies' night dinner last night, and ended the "laugh-making dissertation" with as fiery a sermon as any hell-fire brimstone evangelist ever gave.

He was a surprise package. No one knew just what to expect. At first he sounded like a windy politician—then just a home-fellow humorist. But, he fooled everyone when he drew his jokes to an end and spent the last five minutes of his talk urging those attending to know Jesus as their personal savior.

The philosopher-politician-at-torney praised the ladies attending the dinner, and told the husbands that behind every good man is a better woman. "Let's give them a big hand," he told the men.

"I never expect to get a Nobel prize," Sewell mused, and then added, "but they gave Gen. Marshall the peace prize for bringing on war in Korea—so you can't tell what they'll do."

"Most speakers begin by giving you a long list of what they expect to cover," Sewell told the Lions and Lionesses, "but I'm going to tell you what I'm not going to talk on."

His list was interesting. It included: (1) World Federation and everlasting peace. (2) Destructive potentialities of the H-Bomb. (3) Not going to quote from the Readers Digest, and (4) the Kinsey Report.

Friend Puts Ike Up For Re-Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — An old friend of President Eisenhower put him up for re-election in 1956 last night.

The President addressed a meeting of the National Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee, a Republican organization working in behalf of the administration.

As the President finished his speech, May Snyder, World War II mess sergeant for the chief executive, leaped to his feet in the banquet room of the Statler Hotel and shouted, "Who are we going to elect in 1956?"

The audience of about 700 people roared "Ike."

The President waved his hands in an effort to suppress the applause and having no success, left immediately with his wife for the White House.

Three Held On Robbery Charge

Three Negro youths were being held in Benson this week on charges of an abortive robbery attempt at Oaks Milling Company in Four Oaks early Tuesday.

The men were identified as Wade Richardson, Benson; Narvelle McDougle, Benson. Route three; and Richard Earl Lyles of Smithfield, Route one.

The three men were charged with breaking and entering the Four Oaks business and with possession and transportation of illegal liquor.

Members of the Benson Police Department were alerted following the attempted robbery at the mill. Officer Donald Lee found the men asleep in a car in Benson early Tuesday, and because they fitted the description of the robber, held them.

The State Bureau of Investigation is continuing to investigate the case.

Police indicated that the would-be-robbers failed to open the company safe, and no money was reported missing.
