SBI Is Probing Jernigan Case; New Witnesses

The State Bureau of Investigation has been called into the Houston Jernigan insurance cases to investigate the possibility of criminal violation in connection with the disappearance of the prominent Dunn business man last August 13th, it was disclosed here today by attorneys for the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company.

An affidavit signed by M.A. White, vice president of the insurance company and released today by Attorneys John Allen McLeod and Max McLeod of Dunn disclosed that SBI agents have been investigating the case for sometime.

BODY NEVER FOUND — Jernigan reportedly was swept out to sea while fishing from a pier during a hurricane at Wrightsville Beach last August 19th, but his body has never been found. Insurance companies, claiming he is still alive, have refused to pay off claims totaling about $200,000 on his life. Approximately a dozen suits are pending in the courts.

Today was the first disclosure that the case is being investigated from a criminal angle, although SBI agents had appeared as "observers" at deposition hearings held in the case previously.

Police Chief Everette Williamson of Wrightsville Beach told the insurance company lawyers that he called in the SBI after finding three witnesses who have sworn under oath that they saw a man answering the description of Jernigan "leap from the pier into the water and subsequently waded out to the water on to the beach and walk to the street and get into an automobile which was driven away by a woman" at the same time and place that Jernigan was alleged to have drowned.

Attorney McLeod said that one reason the insurance companies earlier this week requested a continuance was that the case is being investigated from a criminal angle, although SBI agents had appeared as "observers" at deposition hearings held in the case previously.

Carr Disputes Testimony Of Army Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Francis P. Carr testified today that Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens proposed last Oct. 2 to use Pvt. G. David Schine as his personal observer in Army intelligence schools.

Carr also testified that Stevens suggested on Nov. 6 that Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy forget the Army and start investigating the Air Force and the Navy.

Carr, staff director for McCarthy's Senate investigating subcommittee, replaced McCarthy in the witness chair at the Army-McCarthy hearings to give the Wisconsin Republican time to rest from a weekend speaking trip to the mid-west.

Carr also said: 1. That while their plane was approaching Ft. Dix, N. J., last November he heard Stevens say "something like, 'Now will be a good time to get that picture with Dave.'" Stevens has denied asking to have his picture taken with Schine; the private said Stevens did ask.

CALLED SCHINE HOSTAGE — 2. Army counselor John G. Adams referred consistently to Schine as a "hostage."

3. Roy M. Cohn told Carr that Adams was "trying to trade us information about some homosexual in the Air Force for information about our next investigation."

Perspiring freely under the kilig lights, the chunky Carr told of accompanying Cohn, McCarthy subcommittee counsel, to a conference at Stevens' office Oct. 2. They discussed other subjects, Carr related but the subject of Schine also came up.

Take Care of Schine — It was his recollection that Stevens was the first to mention Schine then the unpaid chief consultant to the subcommittee. Schine later was drafted, on Nov. 3, and the Army has not given him any special assignment.

The Army has charged McCarthy Cohn and Carr with using improper influence in an effort to get special treatment for Schine. The (Continued on Page Seven)

Winston Churchill Knighted By Queen

WINDSOR, Eng. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II today formally invested her first minister — Prime Minister Winston Churchill — with the Order of the Garter — the highest personal honor a British monarch can bestow.

In a private investiture ceremony in the throne room of ancient Windsor Castle, the young Queen handed Churchill the golden insignia of the Order of the Garter and personally buckled below his left knee the blue velvet symbol of the order. She pinned to his chest the star of the garter and hung around his neck the golden collar.

Then two fellow knights draped his shoulders with the blue mantle of the garter.

King Arthur's Knights

This afternoon, Churchill and his fellow knights will file in glittering procession to St. George's Chapel where the Queen utters the traditional words, "It is our will and pleasure that Sir Winston be installed."

Churchill then will take his intricately-carved seat in the chapel choir and so be formally installed in the order, a brotherhood of chivalry inspired by King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table.

The Queen bestowed these honors on Churchill a year ago and he wore the decorations at her coronation. Today's formal ceremonies set the seal on his garter knighthood.

Centuries of history go with the golden collar and the blue velvet garter that place Churchill among the little band who are "dearly beloved" by the Queen. Membership in the 606-year-old Most Noble Order of the Garter is limited to 28 knights.

Harnett Man Slain In Jealousy Feud

A love triangle feud between two neighboring Harnett County farmers erupted in a blazing shotgun duel Saturday night that left the "lover" dead and sent the husband to jail on a charge of murder.

Witnesses said Harvey G. Horton, 47, well-to-do farmer, and Fred Ivey, 39, his next-door neighbor, stood 10 rows of cotton apart, with guns aimed, cursing and threatening each other, and then Horton felled Ivey with five or six bullets from his rifle.

Ivey, a widower who reportedly had been paying attention to Horton's wife, died about 7:30 o'clock Saturday night shortly after arriving at the Dunn Hospital.

A jury impaneled by Harnett Coroner Grover C. Henderson of Dunn ordered Horton held for the grand jury on a charge of murder. At the inquest, Horton took the witness stand and unhesitatingly gave a vivid description of the slaying and the events leading up to it. "I told him," related Horton, "that, 'You asked for it' and then I started pumping it into him." "I shot over his head a couple of times and then I let him have it in the belly." The load entered just above Ivey's navel.

FOUND HIM IN CLOSET — Horton said that about two or three weeks earlier, he had found Ivey behind some clothes in the closet of their bedroom and had asked his wife: "What's this son of a — doing here?" (Continued on page two)

"She is my wife—my first wife—and I tried to keep her from killing herself with these pills."

CALYPSO, N. C. (AP) — A man and a woman robbed a branch bank here today and took "not over $5,000" from a greying woman teller at gunpoint.

Clay Casey, president of the parent bank at Mount Olive, N. C., said the couple held up the lone woman teller, Mrs. Alice Sanderson, about 50 at about noon.

Mrs. Sanderson said she turned her back to the teller's window for a moment and when she turned around the couple was in the lobby. She said the man pulled a pistol from his pocket and asked her to hand over the cash. She said they came around behind the counter but took only what was in the cash drawer.
