Defense Bill Expected To Win Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate called up the administration's $22,861,584,485 defense appropriations bill today and the Democrats appeared ready to accept it without a major fight.

But key Democrats had misgivings about the pared-down military budget for the coming fiscal year. However, they did not plan to make a floor fight to increase it on grounds the move would meet certain defeat.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), ranking Democrat on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he was "not too happy" with the defense budget which the administration cut $5,500,000,000 below last year's level.

"But I am aware of the facts of life as they apply in Congress," he said.

The Democratic position apparently assured quick victory for the administration in its first Senate test on the "new look" military budget. Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), chairman of the military appropriations subcommittee and Chairman Lewest Sabornie (R-Mass.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee predicted the measure would win Senate approval with "no trouble."

Long Hearing Is Expected To Close Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy swore today that all his charges against Army officials "are true."

McCarthy said that if he notified government officials every time he receives any information about subversives in government "I'd be on the phone all day long."

The Wisconsin senator returned to the witness stand as the turbulent Army-McCarthy hearings neared their end — exactly eight weeks since they began. This was the 35th day of actual hearings.

McCarthy, the last scheduled witness, emphasized he did not consider his allegations against Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and Army Counselor John G. Adams to be "charges." He said they were "answers" to charges raised by the Army against him and his aides.

"I am convinced that everything in these answers — they are not charges — is true," McCarthy told Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), who got the first chance to question him as the morning session opened.

HEATED EXCHANGE McCarthy, in a heated exchange with Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), said it would have been "silly" for him to have called Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens in the spring of 1953 about a so-called "FBI letter" on alleged security risks at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., because it was already in Army files.

As soon as he took the witness stand McCarthy tangled with all three Democrats on the permanent investigating subcommittee and swore to the truth of all of his charges against the Army.

The Army charged that McCarthy and two of his aides — Roy M. Cohn and John T. Harbo — had demanded the recall of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, Gore, founder of the "Joe Must Go" movement, said he "definitely would not" have the 335,000 anti-McCarthy signatures with him when he faced Justice of the Peace John Terbilcock.

These Little Things

EVERYBODY, IT SEEMS, IS RUSHING AROUND

Rhody Williams has been known for a long time as a good attorney, but most people probably don't know that he's also good at playing couple.

Several Dunn couples can thank him for helping them walk down the aisle.

Among them are Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson. It happened like this.

Back during the war, Dr. Johnson was up in Mr. Williams' office. Doc was single and Mr. Williams was a widower so the talk naturally got around to girls.

"There's one girl in town I'd sure like to date if she were about five years older," confided Doc.

"Who's that?" asked Rhody.

"Leona Drake," replied Doc.

"Well," said Rhody, "maybe something can be done about that."

As fate would have it, Leona happened to be in Mr. Williams' office a few days later. He told her what Doc had said.

"Well," replied Leona, blushing prettily, "you tell him that I feel like I was five years older."

Just a few weeks later, the wedding bells were ringing.

Billy Graham Gets Biggest Reception

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — American evangelist Billy Graham carried his religious crusade to within the shadow of the Iron Curtain today and got "the most tremendous reception I ever had anywhere in the world."

Thousands of men, women and children jammed the customs house and pier as Graham came ashore from the Finnish liner Aal-lister accompanied by six assistants.

A mixed Salvation Army - Pentecostal band struck up "How Glorious is the Name of Jesus" as the revivalist appeared. Helsinki's famed Academic Male Choir, returning aboard the liner from a Scandinavian tour began a folk song from the deck but the voices were drowned out by the thousands ashore.

NEW EXPERIENCE "I have never experienced anything like this," said Graham. Crowds of wellwishers stormed around the reception hall outside the customs house and young and old scrambled to shake hands or touch the evangelist.

All traffic stopped as Graham, bare-headed, walked the 600 yards from the pier to the Palace Hotel where his party will stay during their visit.

Graham, who drew almost two million persons during his revival campaign in Britain, said he thought the reception was a gratifying omen for his two-week European crusade. His tour will take him to six countries.

Graham met with his Finnish interpreter this morning and said he planned to instruct him "to accompany my poses and gestures as well as the pitch of my voice in order to make the preaching fluent."

Dunn's City Council Faces Busy Session

Dunn's City Council will again face the question of who owns the roots in town tomorrow evening when Attorney Charles Guy appears before the board on behalf of F. E. Summerlin who is seeking damages for roots which grew into his sewer lines some time ago.

Summerlin appeared before the board a few weeks ago and asked for damages of approximately $119 for roots which he alleged grew from the street mains into his sewer lines. At that time the Council decided they had no responsibility after hearing a report from City Manager A. B. Uzie and from members of the street department.

Guy is expected to present briefs tomorrow evening in which he hopes to show liability on the part of the town. He will allege that roots grew from the town mains into the private lines of Summerlin and resulted in damages estimated at $119.

When Summerlin discussed the matter with Council some weeks ago, City Attorney I. R. Williams told him to come by his office and he would look over the matter. However, Williams gave him to understand he wouldn't do it over night.

OTHER MATTERS In addition to hearing Guy, Council will also face a number of other municipal problems. Bert Alabaster and Otis Warren are expected to ask Council to leave the bus stop in front of the E and W Restaurant on East Broad Street. Some weeks ago Mrs. Wesley Coals requested Council to have the stop moved.

Other problems to be considered will include: (1) Inspection of bookkeeping machines manufactured by National and Burroughs. (2) Discussion of delinquent tax (Continued on page seven)

Flourine Ruled Legal By Court

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma Supreme Court ruled yesterday that citizens may legally add flourine to their water.

The decision upheld a district court ruling brought by a number of Tulsa, Okla., citizens, who said adding flourine to their water was an "unwarranted exercise of police power" and a violation of freedom of religion.

The Supreme Court said addition of the chemical, in an attempt to cut down on tooth decay in children, was similar to adding chlorine. Its general purpose was like that of compulsory vaccinations of school children against smallpox, the court said.
