Democrats sniped at Republicans for failing to support President El-senhower's liberalized trade pro-gram today after the Senate voted a one-year extension of the pre-sent Reciprocal Trade Act.

Two Democratic senators. Ester

Two Democratic senators. Estes Kefauver (Tenn) and Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.), accused their Republican colleagues of "running out" on the President's proposal which they said the Democrats tried to enact. The Senate rammed through the one-year extension Thursday night -by a 71 to 3 vote following defeat of a Democratic bid to substitute the President's original three - year trade program. The Democratic move lost, 45 to 32. The measure now goes back to the House for action on two minor amendments tacked on by the Sen-ate.

The one-year extension would re new the Reciprocal Trade Act be-gun in 1935 which empowers the president to cut U. S. tariffs in return for trade concessions by other nations. The program technically expires June 12. OTHER CONGRESSIONAL NEWS
