Durham Airman Held For Rape And Murder Of 3-Year-Old Girl

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—A 30-year-old airman was charged today with raping and murdering a three-year-old girl in a gravel pit. Authorities called it the most gruesome crime in the area in 30 years.

The body of pretty Shere Horton was found about midnight Saturday, an hour after she had disappeared from a nearby tavern where her parents had taken her. Charged was airman third class Jimmy Shaver, of Grapeland, Tex., stationed at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio. Shaver was arrested near the pit wearing blood-spattered clothing.

Shaver charged that airman Sumter C. Brawley III, 20, son of a prominent Durham, N. C., attorney did the slaying. Officers picked up Brawley at the barracks in Lackland and held him as a material witness. He steadfastly denied that he had anything to do with the slaying or rape.

Deputy Sheriff Dean Jones said the rape-murder was "the most gruesome crime in San Antonio and Bexar County within the last 30 years." He said the two airmen were well guarded when taken to the county jail because San Antonio citizens were "angry and indignant."

Shaver, in a signed statement, said that he came out of the tavern and found Brawley in the front seat of a car, with the little girl in the back crying for her parents. He said they drove to the gravel pit and turned off the lights. He said the girl started crying louder and that Brawley struck her.

Shaver said he "had enough" and fled. He gave no explanation of the blood on his clothing.

Republicans Plan New Drive On South

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican campaign strategists plan a rousing battle in the South this fall to hold and try to enlarge the beachhead they established two years ago in Democratic congressional strength.

The GOP is entering candidates in about 20 districts in the 11 states that comprise the old confederacy. But they will concentrate their fire on the four seats they gained from the Democrats in 1952 and a few others where the Democratic victory margin was slim.

For one thing, the Republican candidates will not be aided by the political pulling power of the Eisenhower name on the ballot. Democrats also believe that some of the state organizations that were something less than enthusiastic for the national ticket in 1952 will be in pitching hard against the GOP on the congressional level this fall.

The Republican "Operation Dixie" will also give Southern voters a chance to say how they like the Eisenhower administration after two years. The administrations anti-segregation moves, public power policy and farm program have all stirred some opposition below the Mason Dixon line.

MAY BACK INDEPENDENTS Both sides are acutely aware of the part the handful of disputed Southern congressional races could play in determining control of Congress next year.

The national Citizens for Eisenhower congressional committee hopes to give pro-administration candidates a hand in the South. In areas where a Republican has no hopes of winning, the committee has offered to back independent candidates who agree to vote with the Republicans on organization of the house.

So far, no takers of the offer have been announced. But a committee spokesman said the group has "two very good prospects."

COURT RULING STUDIED All sides accept as a foregone conclusion that the Republicans will maintain the two seats in the eastern Tennessee mountains that they have traditionally controlled.
