Anti-Subversive Bill Running Into Difficulty

By UNITED PRESS
The administration's anti-subversive program appeared to be running into rough sailing today in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

A member of the committee, who asked not to be identified, said the group had decided to give the administration's proposals "further study" — a move that could kill them for this session.

It handed the program a setback Tuesday by rejecting a personal appeal by Atty Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. and approving a watered-down version of his plan to abolish Communist-dominated labor unions and business firms.

Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.), an influential member of the committee, also pointed out the go-slow attitude of the committee by declining to predict that Congress will approve the anti-subversive measures before it adjourns.

Brownell went before the committee to urge a speedup in the administration program that would permit the use of wiretap evidence in national security cases, make peacetime espionage punishable by death, grant immunity to witnesses who testify about Communists, strip citizenship of convicted Reds and permit the government to remove subversives from vital defense plants.

OTHER CONGRESSIONAL NEWS
McCarthy: Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) promised to keep an eye on the Central Intelligence Agency although he has turned his contemplated investigation of the agency over to the Hoover Commission. He said his Senate investigating subcommittee tries never to overlap other inquiries. And he expressed "complete confidence" in Gen. Mark W. Clark (ret.) who will head the Hoover Commission study of the top-secret CIA.

Communists: The Senate Internal Security subcommittee called Julius Schreiber, a Washington psychiatrist, to testify on alleged Communist infiltration of the Army's Information and Education Service in World War II.

Farm: A Senate fight appeared to be in the making over a proposed two-price system for wheat that the House wrote into its farm bill. Both the Agriculture and State departments were said to be opposed to the plan which would guarantee a high price for wheat sold for domestic consumption and a lower price for that exported.

He told his news conference that he believes it is a record on which the Republican Party deserves the support of the people in the November elections.

Conceding there have been some disappointments, he said that on the whole he thinks the record of Congress is pretty good and will be better by adjournment tentatively set for July 31.

Asked whether he intends to tell the people about the Republican achievements, he said that if the final record turns out as good as he thinks it will, he will be proud to do so.

HAPPY AT FARM ACTION
He volunteered that he thinks the prospects for enactment of a goodly portion of his program are looking up. He called it a rosy outlook. But he said it would be dishonest to pretend that the whole picture is rosy and that every rose is gilded.

Ike Will Fight To Bitter End To Keep Red China Out Of UN

WASHINGTON (U) — President Eisenhower said today Congress is establishing a record of accomplishment of which any administration could be proud.

7-Year-Old Girl Was Ravished Before Murder

MIAMI (U) — The pretty blonde 7-year-old daughter of a prominent Maryland attorney was kidnaped, ravished and strangled here early today.

The bruised body of little Judith Ann Roberts, her arms trussed behind her back and her mouth covered by a gag, was found about a mile and a half from the home of her grandparents where she and her parents were vacationing.

There were no ransom demands; no advance warning. Her abductor slipped in through the front door which apparently was not locked, subdued the child and swiftly left with her.

Police Chief Walter Headley, calling the crime the "most awful thing in my 20 years on the force here", summoned every homicide detective on the force and ordered them to stay on the case until there is a break.

SEARCH NEIGHBORHOOD
Police made a house to house search in the area of the $20,000 to $30,000 house neighborhood. Judith and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Roberts, of Baltimore, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roseburg. They had arrived only Sunday.

Detectives Irving Whitman and Charles Sapp, leading the investigation, said Judith was sleeping on the sofa in the living room, while her mother and grandparents were in other rooms. It was from that spot that she was kidnaped.

MUTT BUTT, ERWIN GORDON, FROG LEGS AND PAL JOE

If you want some frog legs, drop around to Upchurch's and see Mutt Butt and then go over to the Mini Grill and have Erwin Gordon cook them for you.

However, it might not be safe to mention frog legs to either Mutt or Erwin right now. They've just gotten dried out good from the frogging expedition they made Monday night.

They went bull-frogging in a pond down near Sam Strickland's farm in Sampson. They had good luck for the first hour or two and had a dozen or so of the big jumpers in the boat.

About that time, a big moose came snake-erwin says he looked to be about ten feet long—slid into the boat and right between Erwin's legs.

Erwin let out a yell, took a flying leap and landed about three feet from the boat in the water. He took such a violent jump that it capsize the boat and shook Mutt out of the pond.

It was such an exciting time that the hair (all three of them) stood straight up on Mutt's shaggy wet head but he finally managed to spit out about a pint of water and sputter, "What in the unorthodox, unorthodox, unorthodox, is going on here?"

"Didn't you see that s-s-s-nake" quivered Erwin, who is just as afraid of the lone, sleek creatures as Dr. Belmont Kittrell.

"Yeah," replied Mutt, his head barely sticking out of the water, "but that was no blankety blank (Continued On Page Two)
