unprintable reason to throw me out of the boat."
And the argument continued as the two Dunn sportsmen???walked along through the water pulling the boat beside them — with the snake curled up apparently enjoying the ride. They managed to salvage most of their bull frogs and finally got to shore.
The snake refused to budge until they got the boat anchored and then he crawled out just as nice and politely as a well-mannered snake could have.
"Well," demanded Mutt, wringing wet and dripping from head to foot, "why don't you pick up that stick there and kill it?"
"W-w-w-why don't you?" replied Erwin meekly, keeping a good distance away. In the meantime, the snake went his way and Erwin and Mutt came back to town. They hardly spoke to each other on the way home.
"The next time I go bull-frogging with that Erwin Gordon," declared Mutt today, "I'm going to know there aren't any snakes around or else they can send me to Dix Hill."
But Mutt needn't worry about Erwin going again. From now on, he's going to stick to canned and frozen frog legs. He's taking no more chances with snakes.

LITTLE NOTES: Mack and Kitty Watson are spending a final week in Dunn before he takes over his new duties as manager of the Carolina Power and Light Co. office in Spruce Pine. Preston Smith, who works at Supreme Service Station, is going around with his chest stuck out like he was Tarzan. He's now a proud grandfather. His daughter, Mrs. Michael (Sybil Ann) Gachupni, gave birth to a son Friday morning at Good Hope Hospital in Erwin. Eleanor Jackson, formerly of the Western Union office, is now in Fayetteville. Dunn police went more than 24 hours without a single arrest, which is quite unusual. We checked his arrest blotter Monday night about 10 o'clock and again about midnight last night and not a single customer in all that time—not even a speeder or a drunk. Maybe everybody is behaving. Grover Henderson, back from a stay at Top sail Beach, was burning the midnight oil last night catching up on his work. The beaches were crowded during the holiday, according to reports. R. L. Sarbaugh, manager at Leder Brothers, said the beach he went to was so crowded it was hard to get to.

THINGAMAJIGS: McCullers popped back into town for a few hours yesterday on his way back to his duties as manager of the Chamber of Commerce at Decatur, Alabama. He dropped by for a bull session. "Those were the good old days," recalled Joe, as he recalled Dunn events of six and seven years ago. "The town then was struggling to get a swimming pool, a tobacco market, new industries, etc., the soldiers came to town for maneuvers and Joe was courting all the girls here about and singing with a men's quartet which made a big hit all around. . . . Anytime things got dull, we always looked up Joe. . . . "By golly," said Joe yesterday, "we had more fun then than we ever have since. Didn't we?" and we agreed. . . . We had great times together. . . . Joe is one of the former Dunn residents we miss most. . . . It was like taking a good tonic to see him again. . . . Joe isn't married yet. . . . "Having too much fun," he laughed, adding that he missed all the Dunn girls. . . . "Tell all the fellows," invited Joe, "to come on down to Decatur. I've got a few phone numbers to spare. . . . We forgot to ask if Joe if he sings in the church choir down there, too. . . . He has a good philosophy. . . . To get along, he says, "It takes a lot of laughing, a lot of loving and a lot of lying. . . . You can't go wrong with a credo like that. . . . you don't get bored, you don't get serious and you don't get involved. . . . He's a good Joe and he did a good job for Dunn. . . . Dunn's young romances apparently think these society parties list too long. . . . When a Record photographer arrived at Betty Byrd Crumpler's house last night about a dozen of them were waiting outside to take the girls home. . . . Whenever they were going. . . . One of them spotted the photographer and yelled with glee, "Thank God, the photographer has arrived. Maybe after they get their picture made they'll roll out here and we can get going. . . . Just wait until they marry 'em. . . . They'll really find out what waiting is. . . . Shirley Hinson, who writes letters for The Daily Record in addition to her duties as secretary to Everett Dofferyme, is in the hospital. . . . Should be out in a day or two. . . . Nothing serious, she said. . . . Mrs. Alcy Parker is back in town after another visit with Selene up in the coveal mountain country. . . . A lawsuit involving about a quarter of a million dollars is scheduled to be filed in Dunn within the next few days unless the matter is settled out of court.

Here's A Real Fish Tale — An 8-Ton Yarn

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Fishing boat captain J. B. Mathews had a whooper of a fish story to tell today about the "big one that got away" — all eight tons of him. Mathews said his charter boat the 85-foot Captain Ben Strickland, was cruising the Gulf of Mexico Monday about 50 miles west of Johns Pass, Fla., with 50 passengers when they spotted a whale shark, the world's largest fish, jolting on the surface.
The fishing boat master jockeyed his vessel alongside the huge fish, which Mathews estimated to be 45 feet in length and about eight tons in weight.
Mathews said his first mate, Milton Payne, managed to hook the shark under the jaw with a grappling hook attached to an inch-thick anchor chain.
The shark immediately came to life and headed out into the gull, towing the Captain Ben Strickland along like a bobbing cork.
After a ride of 15 miles Mathews said he radioed for help and his fishing boat Atlanta answered his call, taking off 35 of his 50 passengers. The rest vowed to stay and see the battle "to the finish, even if it takes a week."
It didn't take that long. A few hours later, the anchor chain snapped.

All five rural policemen spent the hot afternoon in the woods waiting from 2 to 3 p.m. The still already had run and officers saw five cases of whiskey. At nightfall two men returned in a Model A Ford, picked up the four cases and loaded them and took a fifth case from a plant bed. That was the signal for policemen to block the car. Both men have posted bonds of $500 each for trial July 13 in Harnett County Court. And Policeman Wade Stewart said his fourth of July souvenir was "plenty of red bug bites." A. W. O'Quinn, B. E. Romeo Flynn Told To Pay His Rent

LONDON (UP) — A British judge today ordered actor Errol Flynn to pay a bill to his landlady within seven days or go to jail.
Flynn angrily contended the landlady overcharged him.
The scene was the Westminster county court. The cast did not include Flynn although he was in town.
But the evidence included a heated letter from the actor to Judge Edgar T. Dale, denouncing Mrs. Margaret Lucy Peters' charge that he owed her about $130 in back bills on her Hampstead house which he rented in 1952.
Mrs. Peters obtained a judgment in that amount last November and complained to the court that while she had been promised payment repeatedly, she hasn't seen the color of Flynn's money.
According to her attorney, Flynn who currently is staying at the plush Savoy Hotel, obviously can afford to pay the claim for gas, electricity, laundry and telephone charges.
Judge Dale read excerpts from the actor's letter to him in which Flynn said:
"I don't think it very fair to arrive in this country and, just after my arrival, to be told without warning that I was sued and lost the case."
The judge commented he could not believe Flynn didn't know the case had been heard.
Flynn said he was willing to pay the money to his landlady, but charged she not only failed to keep her rental contract with him, but had charged him 40 pounds per week for a house "which the estate agent said was worth 25 pounds." There was more in the letter, the judge said, but he felt he had better not read it because "it is just vulgar abuse and I doubt it."

Half-ton beauty with a two-ton punch

THIS new '54 GMC light-duty wasn't born just to win beauty contests. Sure, its sleek lines, full-width grille and panoramic windshield are handsomely un-trucklike. There's the same dashing air about the inside, too. Two-tone color scheme. Harmonizing, supple-leather upholstery. Smart instrument panel, with dials clustered for instant reading. But mister—take another look! A burly, brawny brute of an engine—a real truck engine—makes you think of a Miss America who also can bend horseshoes. 125 horsepower says that this beauty can heft a top load with ease and dash. That's more power than some makers pack into their two-ton models. That's more usable power than in any other 6-cylinder engine in its class! And its wide, deep box holds at least 8 cubic feet more than the roomy '53 model. That tail gate is grain-tight—and sand-tight. Finally, it offers Truck Hydra-Matic Drive* that saves you, saves your cash, saves your time. (Note to the luxury-minded: there's a DE LUXE model at extra cost, with chrome grille and trim, two-tone paint, curved rear corner windows—the works!) Come in and drive this great GMC. It will do all its own selling! *Truck Hydra-Matic Drive, standard on some models, optional at extra cost on others. Got a modern truck! Be careful—drive safely!
