

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said today an Allied blockade of Red China would be an effective step to take if other efforts fail to free 11 American fliers imprisoned there.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Some 300 rebellious lepers have seized control of the Chacachare Island leprosy hospital, defying colonial government efforts to suspend its popular director, it was reported today.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican senators who consider themselves unwavering backers of President Eisenhower hoped to win a bigger role today in their party's policy-making in the Senate.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower got powerful bipartisan backing today for a three year extension of the 20-year-old reciprocal trade agreements program.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic members of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee scheduled a meeting today to polish a report blasting the Dixon-Yates power contract.

PARIS (AP) — A major political assault aimed at undermining the strength of Premier Pierre Mendes-France begins in the National Assembly today while the Premier is engaged in a series of important conferences in Rome.

CLEVELAND, O. (AP) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard was back in his jail cell today after attending the funeral of his mother.

NEW YORK (AP) — Orders went out today for the arrest of 13 second string Communists sentenced two years ago for teaching or advocating the overthrow of the U. S. government by force. Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman issued warrants for arrest of the Reds Monday after the U. S. Supreme Court in Washington refused to review their conviction.

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The State Department of Motor Vehicles plans to submit to the General Assembly a bill requiring inspection of motor vehicles.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Bob Lennon, record-breaking hitter with the Nashville Vols, today was named most valuable player of the Southern Association last year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Council of the Organization of American States has delayed until Wednesday a decision on whether Costa Rica is threatened by invasion from neighboring Nicaragua.

ROME (AP) — Former Italian Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Fascism's "Lion of Africa," died today at a Rome clinic. Graziani, 72, had been ailing for several years.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration will not ask Congress for legislation to override state "right-to-work" laws.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP) — The owner of a New York aviation corporation will go under water next April in search of relics from one of the ships on which Christopher Columbus sailed to America in 1492.

ATLANTA (AP) — Former Georgia Gov. John M. Slaton, 88, who was the state's chief executive from 1912 through 1915, died early today at a private hospital here.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's air force today attacked Red-held positions in the Tachen Islands area with heavy four-engine bombing planes.

RALEIGH (AP) — The Greenville Ministerial Assn. asked the General Assembly today to ban the sale of objectionable comic books in North Carolina. The request said there is "alarm" about "so-called comics" portraying mayhem, acts of assault, murder, sex and use of narcotics.

+ These Little Things +

(Continued From Page One)

ten him out of bed for the information. But he's a good-natured fellow and didn't seem to mind.

BIRTHDAYS: Celebrating birthdays today are Granville Tilghman, Martha Corbin, Robert W. Drake, Mrs. R. R. Raynor and Watts W. Ward, Sr.

THINGAMAJIGS: Cad Uphurch says his wedding ring has never been off his finger since Nelva put it on there at the wedding ceremony. "And it must will come off," added Cad. "Must be love—or is the thing stuck?" Cad says he didn't even take it off while serving in Paris during the war. That must have been the supreme test of something. There is a difference of opinion among Dunn Presbyterians, as well as Presbyterians everywhere, over the proposal to merge the three branches of the church. But they've been debating the matter for 18 years and the church goes along just as happily and harmoniously as ever. They never get mad with each other about it. We have great admiration in those Presbyterians. "The real test of a gentleman," says Dr. Glenn Hooper, "is to be able to disagree agreeably." Joe Ruark reports that Herbert Taylor is getting along fine as McPherson Hospital. You can't keep Shap Bryan down. The Dunn attorney new was a sick man when he entered the Dunn Hospital Friday afternoon, but he was back at work Monday morning. On his last Chamber of Commerce bulletin, "Let's make every minute of 1955 count." That's also good advice. J. T. "Country" Jernigan, now a resident of Fayetteville, was visitor in Dunn yesterday afternoon. He came to pay up his Daily Record subscription and to

Harnett Plans

(Continued From Page One)

committee will follow. No deadline was named for McDonald to report, but he was urged to act promptly and when his committee is ready to report to do so at a second county-wide gathering.

John A. Oates, 85 year old attorney and historian who headed Fayetteville's elaborate bi-centennial committee celebration last year, and Paul Green, Chapel Hill playwright, were present and both spoke.

The Rev. Thomas E. Nelson, pastor of historic Barbours Presbyterian Church opened the meeting with prayer. McDonald, who had called the meeting, then turned the gathering over to W. A. Johnson of Lillington, county attorney, who presided.

Oates was the first speaker. He offered brief concise advice on how to stage a celebration and reminded the audience "he had learned the hard way" since he had personally directed three similar celebrations in Fayetteville.

His advice in thumbnail sketch was: pick your best leaders; let the centennial committee pick the date; plan an outdoor play or drama to finance the undertaking; don't weigh the program down with speakers; don't extend the celebration too long; don't forget the schools, the churches and the newspapers.

Oates told the group, "The first time I ever came to Harnett County I came riding a mule, across Black River. The water got into the saddle with me, and I arrived at the party where I was headed, quite wet. I had a poor opinion of Harnett." Oates promised that in every phase of the prepared celebration, Harnett would have "the active support of the mother county of Cumberland."

Oates went on to say that county commissioners would not be called on for money so much, as for active cooperation and support.

Major Griffin, manager of the Highland Cafeteria in Fayetteville, accompanied Oates. Griffin directed floats for the Fayetteville celebration. "The most worthwhile thing that will arise from the celebration," Griffin predicted, "is the cooperation and pleasure of working together. You can have an occasion you will remember all your life." He suggested that if any floats were included in the celebration that all showed be keyed to one theme and that contests among school children might afford a theme suggestion, not previously considered.

Green, called on by the Rev. Mr. Nelson to give the group the benefit of his wide professional experience, commented, "I am here to listen and learn. But I want you to know I am interested. Anything I can do long distance, I will do it."

The writer drew for the audience a colorful word picture of the drama potentialities that lie in the history of Harnett. He stressed the importance of music in any celebration. "Please, have music and singing in the celebration. 'Some of the most glorious music in the Western World, lies hidden in the throats of our Negro citizens.' Green said, "Don't overlook them in planning this celebration."

Green went on to say, "Our people in this county know from whence they came, and they are going somewhere. We have something to tell the state and nation."

The group then voted to confine the temporary committee to five, with Dr. David Huffines, Jr., Lillington Presbyterian minister, speaking on the motion for a small temporary committee. This motion was made by Green and seconded by Mrs. J. N. Rigby of Lillington.

Mrs. N. S. Atkins of Lillington nominated McDonald for the chairman of the temporary steering committee and he was elected by acclamation. She also included in her motion the suggestion that McDonald name others to work with him.

Chairman Johnson called for comments from the audience and the schools would participate. Question of an appropriate place to hold the celebration also was mentioned, with Lillington, Bute's Creek amphitheatre and the Dunn fairgrounds mentioned.

Mixup

(Continued from Page One)

out what happened and to arrange a new date for the extradition hearing.

A warrant charging both the woman and her paramour with first degree murder, and documented evidence concerning their presence in this State on the date of the murder had already been rushed to Detroit for use at the hearing.

Sheriff Moore said, if necessary, he would go or send other officers to Detroit to testify concerning their investigation of the case.

Among documents sent to Detroit was one showing that Mrs. Long and Hespil had registered under an alias name at a Fayetteville tourist court the night before the slaying.

FIRST WANTED DIVORCE

In her confession, Mrs. Long related that they had come to North Carolina to talk with her husband about giving her a divorce and that the slaying followed. She said they picked him up behind the post commissary at Fort Bragg and took him on the ride that ended in his death.

Sheriff Moore and District Solicitor Jack Hooks conferred last night about the case and both told newsmen they now see practically no hope of having the couple returned to Harnett in time for trial at the one-week criminal session of Harnett Superior Court that opened Monday morning.

Sheriff Moore had planned to have them rushed back to Harnett immediately after the hearing in Detroit Monday.

Harnett's next criminal term of court won't be held until March. Long was shot three times at close range with a .22 calibre pistol.

Woman Gets

(Continued From Page One)

scrubbing the floor and that she ran, with his in pursuit, to wash a jar in the scrub water. Officers found four and one half gallons of whiskey around 100 yards from the house in a cluster of honeysuckle. They said a well traveled path led to the place of concealment. Whiskey was entered in evidence by Solicitor Jack Hooks.

The solicitor in his speech to the jury portrayed Cattle as "the worst kind of bootlegger, one who will sell by the drink to anybody, and has been in the business many years."

DID NOT TESTIFY

The defendant, who elected not to take the stand, was represented by Steve Nimocks of Fayetteville.

After the jury brought in its verdict Judge Morris commented, "I wish I could believe you would not sell whiskey anymore, but it just doesn't happen." And he went on to say, "A Negro who doesn't drink, and sells whiskey, is hard to catch. But I want to say the purgery is worse than selling liquor. I am glad you did not take the stand, and glad about this. You wanted to do it the hard way, perhaps a plea would have been better."

Nimocks pointed out that his client had a brother who had skipped bond and fled the county on a liquor charge. Her two sons are serving prison terms for murder, and she is the only support of an aged mother.

Former Deputy K. C. Matthews,

SEEING HOW IT'S DONE — Members of the freshman home economics food class at Campbell College are shown here as they received some firsthand instruction on meat cutting at the Johnson and Bryan Market in Lillington. Vernon Davis, the meat-cutter, was telling them how to buy meat, how to recognize the different cuts of meat and how to prepare the best cuts of meat. Left to right are: Mr. Davis, Armita Minshew, Erma Neal, Jean Slaughter, Jean Stockstill, Mary Lou Harrington, Lorraine Wallace, Juanita Minshew, Treva Hall and Miss Catherine Campbell, the teacher. (Daily Record Photo by T. M. Stewart.)

Higher Bosoms

(Continued From Page One)

that with an old-style brassiere the dart would extend up over the curve of the bustline.

Besides the softer line, designers say, this gives a girl a longer, leaner look from the ribs to the hips. Many of the new dresses and suits have loosened waistlines. So, while a girl is supposed to look willowy, she's not supposed to look wasp-waisted.

Many of the new foundation garments that achieve this redistribution of a woman's curves are one piece, strapless combinations that can best be described as "half girdle, half bra." The girle extends only a few inches below the waist. The brassiere covers only the lower half of the bosom, but that half of the bra is firmly designed to support the new raised bustline. The bare-topped bra also emphasizes that top softness mentioned earlier.

Two Escaped Cons Retaken

(Continued from Page One)

Christian Fior is the man who started it all with his "H line" dresses erroneously described as flat-fronted. The Paris designer kept insisting all along that he only wanted a raised, less-exaggerated bustline.

American designers took over and carried on where Dior left off. He designed new foundation garments so his models would fit the raised-bosom fashions. We've copied those underpinnings and added a few ideas of our own.

The result is not flat, though the profile is definitely less pointed. The next few months will tell how women fit into the new fashion mold—and how men react.

Dior Started It

(Continued from Page One)

The House adopted and sent to the Senate a resolution honoring the late Sen. Clyde R. Hoey (D-NC) who died suddenly in Washington last May 12.

Rep. B. T. Falls of Cleveland County introduced the resolution and on his motion the House suspended the rules to adopt it on three readings and sent it to the Senate. But the upper chamber already had concluded its brief session.

State Solons

(Continued From Page One)

The House adopted and sent to the Senate a resolution honoring the late Sen. Clyde R. Hoey (D-NC) who died suddenly in Washington last May 12.

Rep. B. T. Falls of Cleveland County introduced the resolution and on his motion the House suspended the rules to adopt it on three readings and sent it to the Senate. But the upper chamber already had concluded its brief session.

Ike Asks

(Continued From Page One)

runs for the premiere. There were other hazards for an underwater critic. The water got into my face mask, I had to tilt my head back, blow my nose and swallow, all at the same time, to prevent extinction. Water leaked into the airtube I choked, briefly.

We were taken to our bench seats by four "usherwets" with flashlights. We saw the movie, as clear as in a smoke-filled theater, on a 15 by 30 foot plastic screen.

The projection machine was placed in a glass-walled boat and loudspeakers were scattered on the sand. Except for fascinating fish, seaweed, bubbles and wriggling reporters floating by, we could have been in Grauman's Chinese Theater.

Smith Dies

(Continued From Page One)

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Ellen D. Smith of Fayetteville, Route 5; two nephews, Eugene Smith of Dunn, Route 4, and Sidney D. Smith of Wagram; and two nieces, Mrs. J. H. Allred of Dunn, Route 4, and Mrs. Ernest H. Cox, of Gainesville, Fla.

Ike Asking 101 Billion For Roads

(Continued From Page One)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's special highway commission advisory committee today recommended a 10-year 101-billion-dollar nationwide roadbuilding program.

The proposal represented a boost of 54 billion over what would be spent on road development during the 10-year period if the current program were continued without change.

Two Escaped Cons Retaken

(Continued from Page One)

Two prisoners who escaped from the Wayne County prison camp on Christmas Day have been picked up in Atlanta, the State Prisons Department said today.

The fugitives are Joseph Pate, and George E. Massey, both sentenced from Johnston County last September for larceny.

State Solons

(Continued From Page One)

The House adopted and sent to the Senate a resolution honoring the late Sen. Clyde R. Hoey (D-NC) who died suddenly in Washington last May 12.

Rep. B. T. Falls of Cleveland County introduced the resolution and on his motion the House suspended the rules to adopt it on three readings and sent it to the Senate. But the upper chamber already had concluded its brief session.

Ike Asks

(Continued From Page One)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's special highway commission advisory committee today recommended a 10-year 101-billion-dollar nationwide roadbuilding program.

The proposal represented a boost of 54 billion over what would be spent on road development during the 10-year period if the current program were continued without change.

Woman Gets

(Continued From Page One)

The defendant, who elected not to take the stand, was represented by Steve Nimocks of Fayetteville.

After the jury brought in its verdict Judge Morris commented, "I wish I could believe you would not sell whiskey anymore, but it just doesn't happen." And he went on to say, "A Negro who doesn't drink, and sells whiskey, is hard to catch. But I want to say the purgery is worse than selling liquor. I am glad you did not take the stand, and glad about this. You wanted to do it the hard way, perhaps a plea would have been better."

Nimocks pointed out that his client had a brother who had skipped bond and fled the county on a liquor charge. Her two sons are serving prison terms for murder, and she is the only support of an aged mother.

Former Deputy K. C. Matthews,

Hooper Is Heading Opposition Faction

Dr. Glenn L. Hooper of Dunn has been elected chairman of a group formed by men of the Fayetteville Presbytery to fight the proposed merger of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., the United Presbyterian Church of North America, and the Presbyterian Church in the United States, North.

Elders from six counties in the Fayetteville Presbytery of 95 churches attended the organizational meeting held Sunday afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church at Fayetteville.

A prominent Presbyterian spokesman of the Presbytery, who did not attend the meeting, emphasized this was a private, unofficial meeting of private members of the church who are opposed to the union.

He said the organization could not speak officially for the Presbytery since the Presbytery, as such, has not yet acted on the proposal. Counties represented at the meeting, attended by 120 elders, were: Harnett, Johnston, Cumberland, Robeson, Moore, and Scotland.

County chairmen selected were: Cumberland, S. H. McPherson of Fayetteville; Harnett, Sidney G. Thomas of Broadway; Moore, M. C. McDonald of West End; Robeson, L. L. McDonald of Parkton; Scotland, S. J. Womble of Wagram; Hoke, K. A. McDonald of Raeford, and Johnston, Holton Whittington of Angier, Route 2.

C. W. Rankin of Fayetteville was elected secretary.

A statement released by Attorney Charles G. Rose, Jr. of Fayetteville said the group was set up as a permanent organization to fight the union of the Presbyterian Church in the United States and the United Presbyterian Church.

Student Killed In College Dorm

SWARTHMORE, Pa. (AP) — A psychology student planning to enter the ministry fired a fully loaded rifle in a Swarthmore College dormitory today and killed one of 180 sleeping students.

One of seven bullets fired through an open doorway in a room on the third floor of Wharton Hall hit Francis Holmes Strozler, 19, of Akron, Ohio, in the temple, killing him instantly.

The slayer, Robert Bechtel, 22, a junior of Pottstown, Pa., surrendered to police after the shooting spree.

Still Explodes; Two Are Killed

RICHMOND, Va. — (AP) — Two men were killed near here last night when a boiler, used making illegal whiskey, exploded and destroyed a two-story house. Henrico County police said Percy Morris, 45, and Aubrey Browder, 32, were killed in the explosion. Mrs. Morris escaped uninjured.

A pickup truck, parked about 100 feet from the demolished building, was burned.

Police said the boiler was used in the illegal manufacture of whiskey. They found a cooler and copper wiring in the remains of the building and a well filled with mash nearby.

Dulles Says U. S. Is Slow To Anger

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States is "heeding the Biblical injunction to be 'slow to anger'" in its reaction to Red China's imprisonment of 11 American airmen.

At the same time, he said, Americans "eagerly await the return" of U. S. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold from his free-the-film mission to Peking.

TO MEET ON 18th

Fayetteville Presbytery will hold its January meeting at Highland Church in Fayetteville on Tuesday January 18th. At a prior meeting of the Presbytery, it was voted that the question of union would be only discussed at the January meeting and voted on at the April meeting.

Without a dissenting voice, those present expressed the firm belief that the big majority of the laymen in the Presbytery were opposed to union.

"As one of the speakers expressed it," said the statement from Mr. Rose, "the purpose of the meeting is to organize all those churches in the Presbytery that oppose union and to be sure that delegates of the same mind from each church are elected to Presbytery. We must then see that these men attend Presbytery and vote accordingly."

As to the manner of the voting, the elders present at the Fayetteville meeting voted as favoring a secret ballot when the question of union was put at Presbytery. They also voted to go along with the proposed plan of not voting on the main issue until April.

Several speakers, however, pointed out that by April the 22 Presbytery votes needed throughout the General Assembly to kill the union proposition will most likely have been reached and Fayetteville Presbytery will then lose the effectiveness of its vote.

Dr. D. S. Currie, Sr. of Parkton

DREW - HENDERSON Funeral Home
 24 - HOUR SERVICE
 Phone 3306
 211 W. Harnett St.
 Dunn, N. C.

W-1955 NORTH CAROLINA Get Your New License Plates

BEFORE THE CRUSH
 OF THE LAST MINUTE RUSH!
 Don't Stand In Line Late This Month, Get Your 1955 Plates Now —

Complete Garage Service
 Finest Service Equipment and Widely Experienced Mechanics Are Available Here To Give You The Best In Maintenance and Repair.

Dennis Cadillac-Oldsmobile
 S. CLINTON AVE DUNN, N. C.