PETE. THE PARAKEET.

BILLY AND EVERETTE

James (Gardner's Dairy) Surles' fame and reputation as a breeder of fine parakeets is spreading far and wide.

A few weeks ago, a lady tourist from Baltimore stopped at James' home and bought a couple of his prized birds, and took them home to train them to talk.

While here, she particularly admired James' personal pet parakeet, which he calls Pete. That Pete is quite a bird. He can talk a blue breeze and make no mistake about that.

The lady from Baltimore was both impressed and amazed. James ad almost forgotten her visit when the phone rang the other night and the operator said, "Baltimore, Maryland" is calling Mr. James Surles"

The lady who had visited here had been telling her friends and neighbors about James' parakeet, Pete, and had them gathered around the telephone. For their benefit, James held Pete up to the telephone mouthpiece and

"That lady must have plenty of money," observed James "because they spent nearly an hour on the telephone listening to Pete talk."

Pete was on his good behavior, performed nicely and James was real proud.

New Atomic Weapons To Aid The Army

HEIDELBERG, Germany (IP) — New atomic superweapons will enable the United States Army to "carry the fight to the enemy" and "make any aggressor think twice before attacking," its European commander - in chief said today.

Gen William W. Hoge, com Gen William W. Hoge, commander of 250,000 American troops guarding the Iron Curtain frontier in Europe, said the new "atomic cannon," the "Honest John" rocket and other Sunday punch weapons would make it possible to defend Europe further eastward than earlier thought possible.

WELCOMES GERMANS

In an exclusive United Press in-terview at U. S. Army headquarters for Europe, Hoge added that the addition of 12 West German divisions under the Paris arms treaties would put the free nations in a much better position to defend Europe east of the Rhine than had seemed possible only a year of ago.

"We will never be the aggressors." the grey-haired four star general said. "The enemy, therefore, would always have the jump on us and we must assume he would make penetrations at the outset. But the possession of these weapons in a tremendous psychological boost.
