

BULLETINS

PANAMA, UP—Political observers expected the National Assembly to complete the murder trial of former President Jose R. Guizado today and render a verdict quickly.

ORANGEBURG, S. C., UP—Two Air Force helicopters completed an all-night rescue yesterday of 93 persons marooned on stumps, log clusters and tiny islands by sudden winds that whipped up dangerous icy waves on big Lake Marion.

CHARLESTON, S. C., UP—Duke University senior Bobby Hackett, who came back despite frigid weather and blustery winds, today held the trophy as winner of the 10th annual Azalea invitational golf tournament.

WASHINGTON, UP—Former Secretary of State Cordell Hull was still on the critical list at the Bethesda Naval Hospital today, although he had regained consciousness following a stroke he suffered Saturday.

WASHINGTON, UP—Sub-freezing temperatures destroyed one-third of Washington's cherry blossoms yesterday, officials estimated.

TEL AVIV, Israel, UP—A United Nations Mixed Armistice Commission condemned Egypt yesterday for an attack on a wedding party last Thursday in which one woman was killed and 20 persons wounded.

"Goose" Tatum Gone; Saperstein Unhappy

NEW YORK, UP—Abe Saperstein of the Harlem Globetrotters can't find Reese (Goose) Tatum and can't sign Maurice (The Magnificent) Stokes—so he starts his cross-country tour against the College All-Stars with nothing left but money.

Saperstein, the fabulous owner-coach-promoter, has built his Trotters into a movable gold mine because they make people laugh. And Abe admitted today his team is hurting for laughs with Tatum, basketball's clown prince.

And 34,083 New Yorkers agree with him. They watched his team open the 21-city tour against the collegians Sunday with 67-63 and 72-70 victories. With Tatum missing, there wasn't a laugh-a-half and many of the fans spent a good part of each game sitting on their hands or chanting, "We want Goose."

WILD GOOSE GONE

Saperstein suspended Tatum several weeks ago for missing seven games and Goose has made himself scarce ever since.

"I would take Goose back if he promises to show some responsibility," Saperstein said. "I suspended him for missing seven games. We advertise that he plays for us and the public deserves to be protected. We pay him $53,000 a year and I think only two major league baseball players make more."

Before leaving for tonight's Globetrotter-All Star game at Boston, Saperstein also admitted Stokes, the pride of little St. Francis (Pa.) College and New York's favorite 1954-55 college player, had turned down a one-year contract.

"I offered Stokes a one-year contract for a lot of money," Saperstein said. "He turned it down. I wanted to sign him for a full season not for a part of one."

Big Circus

month's stand is Wednesday. Lions, ye. Lions are adaptable. And elephants.

TIME ELEMENT VITAL

"There was a tiger act I wanted to use," said Alan Handley, producer-director of the circus telecast that will run from 8 to 9 p. m., "but I didn't get far with the idea when I was down in Sarasota, Fla., winter quarters making preliminary plans for the show."

"The trainer told me that the tigers' act lasts nine minutes. Obviously we can only allow three minutes or so on television."

This matter of time has been one of the big headaches for Handley in planning the show. "In the circus, you know, they're just used to going on for hours," he said. "They don't have to worry about advertising sponsors and network time. I'd ask, for example, how long so-and-so's act ran. I'd want an exact answer. What I'd get would be something like this: 'Five minutes. Or maybe it's 10 minutes.'"

VISIT "CLOWN ALLEY"

The "big show" has been on television once before, but in an entirely different way than now. In 1948, CBS-TV picked up an actual entire performance and gave it to the public in the New York City area only. Just two TV cameras were used.

"For this show," explained Handley, "we will use 10 cameras, and it is a specially created production, not just a slice of the circus in performance. And, of course, it goes to the whole country."

Handley expects to dream of elephants for some weeks to come. There will be 55 on the telecast, including 20 "babies" making their first public appearance.

There will also be a visit to 'Clown Alley,' where we'll meet Emmett Kelly, Felix Adler and all of the rest," Handley said.

who knew Miss Ward for 11 years while they were neighbors on New York's Lower East Side, testified that at one time during their visit with Adams she remained discreetly in another room while Miss Ward and Adams were alone.

The buxom, red-haired witness said she went into the bathroom for 13 or 20 minutes "as result of a conversation with Miss Ward."

Earlier testimony had linked Adams with Miss Ward, but he said at that time that he did not remember her.

MAY OFFER LETTER

In another effort to discredit Miss Ward's six days of testimony as the state's star witness, the defense may introduce a letter which she wrote to a Stamford, Conn., man begging for $200 after she had broken off her association with Jelke.
