THE GREAT GABLE — Fact or Fable

He's Fundamentally A Lone Wolf, But A Friendly Man

(Fourth in a series of articles taking you behind the scenes in the life of Clark Gable, the Great Romantic, King of the Lovers. Copyright 1955 by The New York Daily News.)

By JESS STEARN

Paradoxically, Clark Gable, while fundamentally a lone wolf, is a friendly man, with a lively interest in others. During all the years he was King of MGM, the legend of Clark Gable's inaccessibility grew to the point where he became widely regarded as a male Garbo.

Bishop Says Indecent Dress Tempts Devil

ATLANTA (AP) — Bishop Francis E. Hyland of the Savannah-Atlanta Catholic Diocese says "Indecent and immoderate" female attire these days is bringing temptation into "the very house of God."

In a pastoral letter read at messes in all Georgia Catholic churches Sunday, the bishop criticized fashions which "expose rather than over the body," worn even at church by some women. The styles "constitute not only a source of temptation but even an occasion of sin," he wrote. The bishop urged Catholic women to dress so as to "safeguard and promote the virtue of Christian modesty."

JAKIE BENNETT

And The Bride Was Lovely In Her Skin

TINY TOWN, Colo. (AP) — Col. Herbert Lindle, 60, and Louise West, 48, braved the chilly mountain air last evening for a wedding in the nude before some 80 guests at the Colorado Sunshine Club.

The bridesmaid was stripper Evelyn ($50,000 Treasure Chest) West, who wore only a large bouquet of flowers. Best man was John Garrison, president of the club and evy-every inch a nudist.

The guest list included New York columnist Earl Wilson, who dignified a pair of striped swim trunks with a black coat and silk hat, and New York real estate promoter William Zeckendorf, who came attired as a western sheriff. The minister, known only as Homer, conducted the rites in full attire although he is a member of the club in good standing.

The bride couldn't refrain from an occasional shiver during the brief ceremony. She and Lindle, of San Antonio, Texas, embraced three times for photographers before she called it quits and slipped into a red housecoat. Lindle donned a shirt and hurried his bride into the club for the reception. Miss West apparently felt the warmth of photographers' flash bulbs sufficient. She remained outside for some time to chat with Zeckendorf, keeping her wits and her corsage about her. "I'm like the kid when he saw the giraffe," Zeckendorf said later. "If I hadn't seen it, I wouldn't believe it."

Exchange Of Visits Among Ike's Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he discussed with Russian leaders at Geneva the possibility of exchanging visits of high officials of both governments to further the friendly atmosphere generated at the summit conference.

He told his news conference that no definite plans were made. But in his personal contacts with Russian leaders, he said, there was talk about improving opportunities for such personal contacts at every echelon of government from the top down.

Ranging over a wide variety of subjects from a new grandchild on the way to the Senate investigation of Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott, he also told reporters:

1. He will make an intensive study and decide personally, after the current Senate hearings are completed, whether Talbott has violated government ethics by his profit-sharing partnership in a management engineering firm that does business with some defense contractors. Talbott announced today that he is withdrawing from the firm.
2. He feels there eventually may have a meeting with Red China on the foreign ministers' level to discuss Far East problems. But the scheduled meeting of U. S. and Red Chinese ambassadors at Geneva Aug. 1 will be concerned primarily, so far as this country is concerned, with obtaining the release of Americans held in Red China.
3. He is joyfully looking forward to the birth of a fourth grandchild sometime around Christmas. His daughter-in-law, Barbara Eisenhower, broke the good news to him when he got home from Geneva.
4. The Big Four conference was a hopeful beginning which if handled wisely, may lead to benefits for all of mankind. But the expediency attitudes were created at Geneva will not cause this country to let down his defenses.
5. His old friend, Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov, told him during their private meetings at Geneva that Russia has a deep desire for peace.
6. Presidential assistant Sherman Adams has assured him that (Continued On Page Eight)

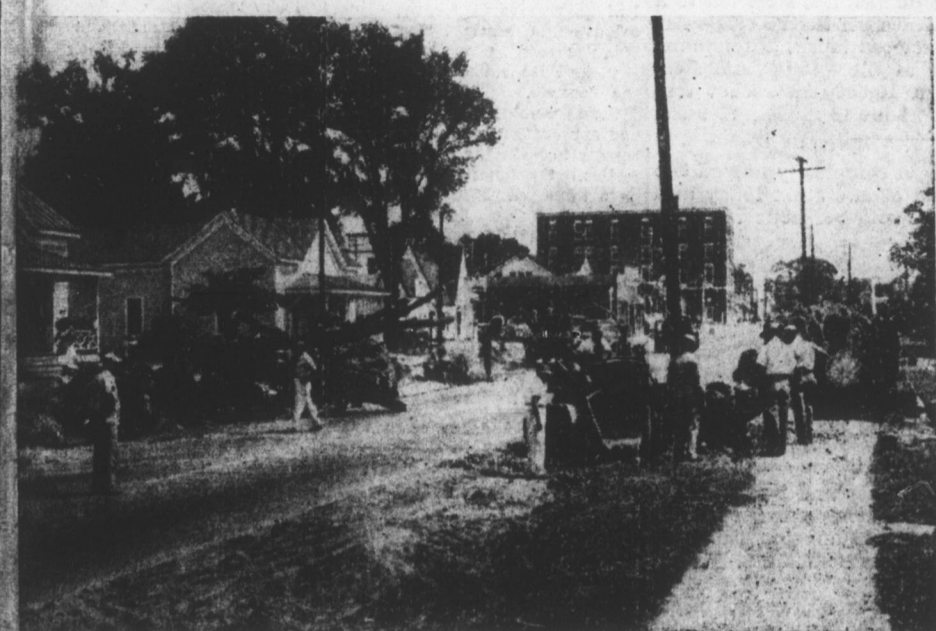

Error Proves Very Costly To Dunn Man

Frank Weaver, Sr. of Dunn is beginning to think that he's jinxed. It's all because of a slight error — but the error is proving quite embarrassing as well as inconvenient and expensive.

Weaver, well-known Dunn mechanic, received his new driving license on June 19th. The very next day, to his surprise, he received a letter from the revocation department of the State Highway Safety Division notifying him that his license had been revoked because of his driving drunk conviction at Hillsboro on June 13th. Talbott Leaving Business

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott told Senate investigators today he is pulling out of his $60,000-a-year private business partnership.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower said he personally will study the record in the Talbott case and decide whether the air secretary has violated ethics of government.

The President said at his news conference he will make the study after the Senate investigating subcommittee finishes its inquiry into Talbott's outside business activities.

Talbott told a reporter he does not intend to resign as Air Force secretary. He made that statement on entering the subcommittee room as the investigation was resumed.

NOTHING DISHONEST Then he took the stand and told the investigators he has done nothing dishonest or illegal in his Pentagon post to further his interest in Paul B. Mulligan & Co., management engineers. But he said he now realizes he was "mistaken" in using his office and Air Force stationery to help the firm's business.

"My greatest concern in the world is the Air Force," Talbott said, reading from a prepared statement. "I've lived it and worked it until it is part of my body." "Rather than injure the Air Force I would divest myself of the Mulligan & Co. interest ten times over." Therefore he said he took legal action on July 22 to end his partnership.

Talbott read to the subcommittee a letter to his partner dated July 22 the day after he told the subcommittee he would quit the firm if the senators thought it would help the Air Force.

Dr. L. H. Campbell, chairman of the Centennial Committee, and William B. Eaton, executive director, met with the Coats area committee to bring the local group up-to-date on general Centennial celebration plans.

5 Americans On Plane Hit By Commies

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Communist Bulgarian anti-aircraft guns today were reported to have shot down an El Al Israel airliner carrying 57 persons, including at least five American tourists.

Reports from Greek frontier guards said the plane was seen going down in a forced landing inside Red Bulgarian Territory. The plane was smoking and aflame after being hit by anti-aircraft shells.

The Bulgarian government confirmed that the plane had crashed inside Bulgaria and "invited" El Al's commercial representative in Greece to cross the frontier "to view the wreckage." No mention was made of survivors.

The pilot of the Constellation was British Capt. Stanley Hinks, a wartime wing commander in the Royal Air Force who won several decorations. His radio officer was an American named Chalmers.

The Israeli Foreign Office said the plane was down near Tsr Banovo, Bulgaria.

There was no immediate report of the fate of the 50 passengers and seven crew members aboard the four-engined, American-built Constellation plane.

Greek authorities said they rushed investigators to the border near the Greek villages of Surbanovo at Serres. They were unable to at the victims or investigate the crash, because the plane fell inside Red territory.

Officials of El Al said among the Americans aboard were a Mrs. Steinbaum and a Mrs. Kate and her daughter who boarded the plane at London.

Reports received here said British diplomats in Sofia were attempting to get information on the (Continued On Page Eight)

SAY JANE RUSSELL IS A BUST

Visiting Russians Declare Every Man Needs A Monroe

HOLSTEIN, Iowa (AP) — The visiting Russian farm experts were tightlipped today about America's agricultural and military might. But they had positive opinions about the nation's movie queens.

Marilyn Monroe won enthusiastic praise. One of the Russians echoed the sentiments of many American men by proclaiming "every man should have one like that."

But Jane Russell doesn't appeal to the Soviets. "The only thing she has is a bust," one of them said.

The Russians took time out from their tour of hot Iowa farmlands to slip into air-cooled movie theaters and inspect America's most publicized girls.

N. M. Gureev based his judgment of Marilyn Monroe on her performance in "The Seven Year Itch." The Russian implied that girls of (Continued on Page Two)
