By JESS STEARN

"As a so-called idol of women for 25 years," they say, "Clark Gable has been a sitting duck for any smart attractive scheming woman whose out hunting a soft glamorous berth.

All his professional life, he has been haunted by women hounding him in the streets, pounding on his hotel doors, forging even into the privacy of his California ranch.

These Little Things

NOTES FROM OUR PASTOR ON A VISIT TO EUROPE

The Rev. Ernest P. Russell pastor of the First Baptist Church, and Mack M. Jernigan, prominent Dunn attorney, have returned from an interesting tour of Europe and the Middle East countries. They did so many things, saw so much and had so many interesting experiences it would take many, many hours and column after column to tell all of it. They saw the cross on which Christ was crucified. They traveled over the same streets and hills that Jesus and the Disciples trod. They saw the changing of the guard at Buckingham palace in London and got a glimpse of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, as a limousine sped her off the palace grounds. They marveled at the majestic beauty of the Swiss Alps. They stood in awe at the beauty of the magnificent St. Peter's Cathedral in Rome, probably the grandest of all Catholic shrines, and sighed over the plight of starving peoples outside the cathedral. They visited St. Paul's Cathedral in London, the only structure left standing by the Luftwaffe, which made shambles of every other.

Hippy Curves Out, Bosoms Up Hips, Waists Rise; Now It's A Y-Look

PARIS (AP) - Dressmaker Christian Dior turned his own little fashion world upside down today. He discarded his "H-look" and took his "A-silhouette" and inverted it to get a "Y-look."

Hips and waists rose in Dior's 1956 models in a rose-like line to a high well marked bust. Widened shoulders brought about the "Y-look."

The Y silhouette was emphasized by a new corset which eliminated all hippy curves and pushed the bosom up under the model's chins.

Colors, hats, fabrics and fashions in the Dior show all have a strong touch of the Oriental.

Oriental Trend
Three items in the show highlighted this Far Eastern trend:
1. A "craftan"—a Chinese tunic with fly-away panels revealing the underneath dress.
2. A "camisole"—a little skirt that Dior converted to a kind of bolero or overblouse emphasizing the high waistline.
3. A "gumpe"—a little buttoned-in scarf or collar giving decollete.

Varied Cases Heard Today In Dunn Court

If you want to get drunk, be sure and stay clear of the police station. Jerry Clegg didn't and he's sorry—to the extent of a $15 fine. Clegg faced Municipal Judge H. Paul Strickland today on the following charge, "engaged in drunkenness in the town of Dunn and in a public place, to-wit the police station."

Clegg came to the police station in search of his brother. Unable to navigate home under his own steam, he was placed under arrest on the public drunkenness charge.

Though he pleaded innocent to the charge, Judge Strickland found him guilty and sentenced him to pay $15 and court costs and suspended a 30 day jail term for six months providing Clegg remain sober and on good behavior.

Other cases in municipal court were:

Birth Control Is Advised By Huxley

NEW YORK (AP) - British biologist Julian S. Huxley said today the world "must have birth control" to solve the "very serious problem" of over population.

Huxley arrived here from London on route to a "thinker's conference" being sponsored by Cyrus Eaton, prominent American industrialist, at his Pugwash, Nova Scotia, home.

Huxley said the world's population is increasing at the rate of 34 million a year.

"With a potential food shortage, this increase could become a very serious problem within a couple of generations if we don't do something about it," he said.

The political flareup came during debate on a bill to authorize the federal government to grant states enough funds to provide Salk vaccine for children whose parents are unable to pay. House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack, (Mass.) started it by charging the Eisenhower administration handled the vaccine program in "a most disgraceful manner."

Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.) countered that "if there was anything disgraceful about it, it was the attempts to play politics with it."

The fight was on until Rayburn stepped in and declared a 45-minute recess.

PRODUCING CENTENNIAL EDITION - Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leach of Norfolk, Va. have arrived in Dunn to begin work on a Centennial Souvenir Edition of The Daily Record, which will record 100 years of progress in Harnett County. It will be published just prior to the opening of Harnett's birthday celebration in October. Mr. Leach, president of Colonial Advertising Corporation of Norfolk, last year directed the production of a

325-page edition of The Fayetteville Observer in connection with Cumberland County's Bicentennial celebration. It was the largest edition of a newspaper ever published in this state. Other members of his organization will join them and members of The Daily Record staff within the next few days to work on the historical-progress edition, which will embrace every phase of life in Harnett County. House Locked Over Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House, driving toward adjournment, suddenly locked in a sharp political wrangle today over the polio vaccine program.

Speaker Sam Rayburn called a 45-minute recess in hopes a brief "cooling off" period would forestall a general political free-for-all that might endanger hoped-for adjournment tonight.

Woman Hurt; Cars Damaged

One woman was hurt and two cars were extensively damaged at a wreck Friday noon at the intersection of 15-A and 210, one mile North of Lillington.

Patrolman Herman Ward said that a 1953 Chevrolet driven by Mrs. Bertha Stephens Ginn, 72, of 404 S. 3rd Street, Smithfield had stopped at the stop sign and then pulled into highway 15-A into the line of traffic. Her car was hit on the left side by a 1955 Olds driven by Milton Allen Matthews, 57, Lillington, Route 1 oil distributor, who was driving North on his way home to lunch.

Both drivers suffered only minor injuries.

Miss Clara Litman of 111 S. George St., Goldsboro who was a passenger on the right front seat of Mrs. Ginn's car was thrown out by the impact. She suffered lacerations of the head and left leg and was taken by ambulance to the Johnston County Hospital in Smithfield.

Damages to Matthews' new automobile were estimated at $800. Mrs. Ginn's car received damages estimated at $350.

Patrolman Ward cited Mrs. Ginn to Harnett Recorder's Court for failure to yield the right of way. She told the officer she had 30 years of driving experience.

Monte Carlo Bank Broke; Shuts Doors

MONTE CARLO (AP) - The biggest bank in Monte Carlo went bankrupt today.

Jacques DeCourcelles, president of the Monaco Tribunal, ordered the Monte Carlo banking and Precious Metals Society, biggest financial institution in this glamorous principality, to close its doors.

The failure resulted from a scandal that has shocked Monte Carlo for weeks. It reached to the household of handsome Prince Ranier III and forced the resignation of four of his main advisers.

The bank, which has run up a deficit of hundreds of millions of francs, will be liquidated.

Unofficial reports have placed the bank's deficit at some 3 billion francs ($8,625,000). About two-thirds of the investments belonging to the government of the principality ruled by the 32-year-old bachelor prince were involved.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Screen actor Robert Francis, 25, and two companions died instantly Sunday night when their single-engine plane crashed and burned near Lockheed Air Terminal.

Francis, who achieved stardom in his role as Ensign Willie Keith in the film version of "The Caine Mutiny," was identified by Burbank police as the pilot of the four-seat Beechcraft Bonanza which crashed shortly after takeoff.

The other two victims were identified as actress Ann Russell, 24, and Hollywood agent Irving G. Meyers, 36.

Miss Russell, whose real name was Mrs. Audrey Anne Dorsche, was believed to have been divorced from Lt. Edward Dorsche, stationed at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo. She is the mother of three children.

Dunn's newest certified public accountant is Dan Matthews, who is connected with Thurman C. Ennis and Company here.

Mr. Matthews who is well known in State accounting circles, took the stiff examination in May but has just been notified he successfully completed and passed the examination.
