20 Society Gals In Gambling Raid

Twenty smartly dressed women, who liked to play poker on their nights out without their husbands, were caught in a raid early yesterday on a fashionable home in Island Park, L. I., where a high stakes poker game for women only has been running for two months.

A few burst into tears when detectives from the office of Nassau County District Attorney Frank A. Galotta announced that it was a pinch.

Some screamed hysterically and one dashed to a bedroom and hid in a closet.

They said they were not under arrest all admitted that their husbands were prominent New York business men.

Two men arrested by limousines at their homes and driven to the poker game at 12 Klidare Road. They also got limousine service home they said. The success of the game for women only was explained by one of the card-playing patrons who said:

"Our husbands like to play poker on their nights out, so why can't we?" All the women were released. Two men were arrested as operators of the game. They were Frank Russo, 38, of 304 E. 124th St., and Charles Kaufman, 44, of 1013 Fall St., Bronx.

Trial in September. In First District Court, Mineola, they were released in $500 bail each after pleading not guilty of common gambling. They will go on trial in September.

The raiding squad had watched the house for two weeks before moving in. Some nights as many as 30 jeweled women played, police said.

The lavishly furnished house was equipped with four oversized poker tables, the raiders said.

Bodies Of Crash Victims Gathered

EDELWEILER, Germany — The U. S. Army used searchlights and gasoline flares before dawn today to gather the remains of 56 soldier-victims of a two-plane collision and covered them with the red and white nylon parachutes they never had a chance to use.

Army medical men, working in pairs, loaded the bodies on stretchers and carried them out of a wheat field and a rocky forest where two snub-nosed C-47 "Flying Boxcars" collided in bright sunshine Thursday and fell like chunks of lead in the worst post-war disaster to befall U. S. forces in Europe.

Isotopes

A boon to the scientists themselves. Waste products once terribly dangerous are made more harmless.

Dale W. Jenkins, of the U. S. National Research Council in Washington told the conference that "nuclear energy has provided a new tool which has permitted real progress in solving" the problems of epidemics and their spread.

This was done through making various disease-spreading insects radioactive so their movements could be studied. He predicted that "additional discoveries of major importance in the field of public health can be expected in the near future."

At the same time three Brazilian scientists told how they had made mosquitoes radioactive by exposing them to a radioactive isotope and were able to study their habits in a campaign aimed at wiping out malaria.

Medical topics dominated the day's program with scientists giving complex reports on use of radioactive substances to trace the growth of cancer, thyroid ailments and heart disease.

To prevent leaving fingerprints, authorities said. He held the pistol in his right hand and took the cash with his bandaged hand, bank employees said.

"It apparently was a spur of the moment job," a Highway Patrol spokesman said. Only a skeleton force of troopers remained on duty in this area, but roadblocks were manned by troopers and sheriff's officers and town police here and at Wake Forest, Louisburg and Henderson.

Youngsville is a small farming community 24 miles northeast of Raleigh and only five miles north of Wake Forest.

The bandits fled in a two-tone 1953 Ford Victoria with green fenderpants, police said.

If It's A Girl Name Is Connie

WILMINGTON, N. C. — Mayor Don D. Cameron spent this morning expecting Hurricane Connie and a new addition to his family to arrive "any minute."

Cameron's wife Betty is expecting, and Cameron said if it's a girl he will name her Connie. However, the name won't be Conrad if it's a boy. "I don't like that name, hurricane or no hurricane," Cameron said.

He was picked by Gen. George C. Marshall in 1947 as an assistant secretary of state and was nominated to Athens by President Truman. President Eisenhower sent him to Thailand last year.

Texas Gov. Would Not Support Adlai

CHICAGO — Rebel Democratic Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas warned yesterday he would bolt the party ticket again next year if Adlai E. Stevenson wins the presidential nomination.

Shivers, who with several other Southern Democratic governors bolted the Stevenson ticket in 1952, said he would support "practically anybody else" other than Stevenson for the Democratic nomination in 1956.

But if Stevenson wins the nomination, he said, he would support "practically any Republican."

Shivers broke with Stevenson in 1952 largely over the tidelands oil issue.

He spoke out at a news conference at the 47th annual Governors' Conference, heaping fresh fuel on the hot political fires that have been burning at the meeting all week.

Politics has completely overshadowed the official business of the conference, which today dealt with the problems of mental health.

Shivers refused to be pinned down on the names of possible presidential candidates in either party he might support. But he praised the record of President Eisenhower, saying he had restored "faith" in government and brought peace to "some who have never known it."

The Texas governor supported Mr. Eisenhower in 1952 after breaking with Stevenson.

While declining to name names himself Shivers said he had heard talk among other governors here about Govs. Averell Harriman of

Drive Moves Into Anderson Creek

J. T. Lamm, finance chairman for the Harnett County Centennial in the Lillington area, yesterday extended his fund raising campaign into Anderson Creek and Bunlevel areas.

Lamm visited a variety of business places and reported that the cooperation promised in the selling of shaving permits, beard buttons and cosmetic permits was very encouraging.

In Bunlevel, Mrs. Hubert Byrd, postmaster, will sell cosmetic permits and beard buttons. She also is the Bunlevel representative on the county Centennial social committee. Cosmetic or "war pains" permits for the ladies also will be distributed for sale to circles in the Baptist and Presbyterian church women's organizations.

Mrs. J. C. Byrd is president of the Women of the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. John Cannon, heads the W. M. U. of the Friendship Baptist Church.

Shaving permits and beard buttons also are available at William B. Byrd's Farm Supply Company in Bunlevel. Bethune Brothers also will cooperate in selling Centennial fund raising devices.

Lamm said other business places which have agreed to assist in the official Centennial fund raising campaign are: Shepperd Whittington, Bunlevel, Route 1; Butts Grocery and Market in the Flat Branch community; Hill's Garage and West Grocery in the Anderson Creek neighborhood; and Earl Lasater of Cambro Farm Service in the same vicinity.

Cosmetic permits in the Flat Branch area were distributed to Mrs. John Marsh, who will engage the aid of the circles of the Women of the Flat Branch Presbyterian Church.

Worth Lee Byrd, Lillington insurance man, and Miss Lois Byrd, Centennial publicity director, accompanied Lamm in his tour.

Hurricane Sidelights

WASHINGTON — Weather forecasters pride themselves on their ability to predict the path of a hurricane, but they admitted today that Connie's 30-hour stall had them baffled.

Kenneth S. Norquest, Washington weather bureau supervising forecaster, said the path a hurricane will take is determined by the upper air currents—those ranging from 20,000 to 50,000 feet above the earth's surface.

WASHINGTON, N. C. — National Guard troops were mobilized here early today in answer to "urgent" appeals by the Red Cross to evacuate as many as 1,000 people from danger spots in the path of Hurricane Connie.

Several hundred were reported "in critical need" of help in rural areas virtually marooned by rapidly rising waters of the tidal Pamlico River.

"There's a critical need in Aurora, N. C., about 30 miles from here," Lt. William L. Tadlock said.

MOREHEAD CITY — Gov. Luther H. Hodges shifted his headquarters here from Wilmington today when it became evident that Wilmington would escape the worst of Hurricane Connie.

Hodges flew to the state from Chicago as headed a "task force" of state officials into the storm area.

The governor checked over disaster preparations then rode into the teeth of the oncoming storm to Wrightsville Beach, and went on the air over radio and television to reassure the people.

WASHINGTON — The U. S. her father, Linton Mason in Newport, an other relatives in eastern Tennessee.

Ethel Merman Undergoes Surgery

DENVER — Ethel Merman, star of Broadway and Hollywood musicals, underwent "minor surgery" today at St. Luke's Hospital here.

Doctors would not disclose the nature of the operation but said the star probably would be allowed to return to her Denver home Sunday if complications did not occur.

Continental Airlines President Robert F. Six Miss Merman's husband, accompanied her when she entered the hospital Thursday.

All-Star Game Is Postponed

"Connie" has delayed the Kneepant League's Allstar games till next Wednesday, Gene Driver announced this morning.

The games will pit two teams in the 7 to 12 year old class and two teams in the 12 to 14 year old class against each other.

The youngsters will play regulation hard ball with only some of the distances altered. There will be umpires for all the bases in these important games to avoid dispute.

Admission prices are one dollar for adults and fifty cents for children. The funds thus obtained will go toward the purchase of uniforms and equipment for the League. Tickets may be purchased from the Kneepant League members or at the Recreation and Parks office in the Armory.
