Stennis Says Dark Horse May Win

WASHINGTON (P) — Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss) said today he thinks there is a good chance that a "dark horse" may win the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

This comment to a reporter reflected a belief among many Democrats, particularly in the South, that the nomination may well go to someone other than the three now considered the strongest candidates.

These three are Adlai E. Stevenson, 1952 nominee, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), Mr. Southern Democrat in the Senate, suggested to reporters Tuesday that Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio was one "dark horse" possibility. He denied that he was launching a boom for Lausche or that he was ready yet to throw his support to any candidate.

Stennis declined to comment on Lausche or other potential Democratic standard bearers but said he believes "that there is a good chance for a dark horse."

Midget Team Turns Tables

The season-long see-saw between the Lions and Rotary squads, who make up Dunn's entire midget football league, was perpetuated by the outcome at Monday's game.

Rotary, whopped 26-0 in the last previous encounter with the Lions, turned around and bit their feet. The Rotary win was attributed, by Recreation Director Gene Driver, to a late-joiner of the squad, Carmen Barefoot. Barefoot scored the game's lone touchdown in the second quarter, going over on a 15-yard run; he was also the top ground-gainer.

Annual Tourney Starts Monday On Chicora Links

Members of Chicora Country Club who want to wrap themselves in the mantle of club champion start on a long match-play tournament next Monday.

Qualifying rounds are being played this week. Keith Finch and John Myers, who head the tournament committee, have warned prospective entrants that the qualifying round must be played by next Sunday (Oct. 30).

Howard Benton, winner last year in the annual fall tournament, will not be among this year's contestants. The Benton resident has suffered a slight heart attack, which keeps him out of competition.

A letter to club members states that the Chicora greens have been reseeded, the winter rye is coming up nicely, and the course will be in excellent shape for the next few weeks.

Finch said contestants will be divided into a championship flight and three other flights—four in all. Rules covering play are posted on the bulletin board in the clubhouse. Entrants are to register with Bob Smith, pro.

"MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRL IN THE WORLD" Anita Finds Rome Men Too Handy

ROME (P) — When in Rome, watch out for Roman hands (male), a slightly black-and-blue Swedish movie beauty warned today.

ANITA EKBERG

Lush Anita Ekberg checked over her vital statistics, $9-22-37, after a tour of Rome's streets and bemoaned the Italian romer's custom of pinching, patting and otherwise demonstrating appreciation of pretty girls passing by.

Can't See Coy Success What's more, she said the current police drive against this manual version of the wolf whistle is doomed.

"You might as well ask them to eat spaghetti with chopsticks," she said.

Anita hailed as "the most beautiful girl in the world," said she had taken only a short walk.

"What a workout," she said. "In less than 10 minutes I was touched, pinched and patted. I even got the 'mano morta'."

Literally, mano morta means dead hand. Actually, it is a work of wolfish art. Miss Ekberg described it this way:

"Somebody, a man naturally, puts his hand on you, let's say on your thigh.

He leaves it there and doesn't even bother to look at you for a moment. If you don't brush it off, or do something fast, the hand will suddenly come to life."

Miss Ekberg said she was showing her 120 pounds through a crowd, getting a few pats and pinches, when she began to lose her balance.

"I was falling before a bus when a man caught me," she said. "She looked at her rescuer thankfully.

"I got the mano morta then from him," she said. "But could I slap a man who saved my life?"

Hubert McLamb Taken At Still

It looks like it's trial in April at Raleigh for Hubert McLamb, 27, charged by Federal officers with operating a 600-gallon submarine still on the edge of Harnett County.

Since his arrest after officers made a raid and uncovered 950 gallons of mash and 5 1/2 gallons of bootleg whiskey, McLamb has waived preliminary hearing.

He was bound over to Federal Court.

A resident of Banner township, he was arrested by Federal ATU Officers C. S. Coats of Smithfield and J. F. Kelly of Fayetteville.

The previous Wednesday, these same two officers located a 300-gallon submarine still and 1200 gallons of mash in Banner.

This still was not in operation and no arrests have been made.

Lynch

A plot model of the present equipment was tried out a year ago Lynch said his first design was for a two-row harvester but that "didn't work at all."

"Everybody sits and rides, no body stands up," said Lynch, describing operation of the machine which will take 75 to 80 stalks—1400 pounds—of tobacco on the hydraulic pallet at the rear of the tractor.

The top of the machine is floored so excess tobacco may be piled there if rows are longer than average. To use the rig, the farmer plants four rows, leaves the fifth row out—a procedure already followed by many growers.

LET'S IN SUNSHINE Besides leaving a path for the tractor, the empty fifth row lets sunshine get at the weeds and facilitates dusting and spraying.

Complete field tests on the present model have shown that it "works like a clock," Lynch said. One buyer over in Raleigh has already ordered fifty. Lynch plans to up his present force from 7 employees to 25 in order to take care of demand.

Distributor for the harvester is Implement Sales Co. of Decatur, Georgia, but local farmers may contact dealers in this area. Patent is now applied for, but sales won't wait on that. By next year, Lynch expects it to be widely in use.
