Woman's Club Met On United Nations Day

The Lillington Woman's Club, holding its October meeting on Monday on United Nations Day, appropriately enough heard a program on international relations. Mrs. Joe Caviness, international relations chairman, spoke, informally on the work of the UN and presented questions and answers on a wide range of activities which fall under the UN's jurisdiction. No members were directly questioned, but a show of hands on questions, revealed that club women need more specific study about this vital organization for world peace. Mrs. Caviness proposed that the international relations committee sponsor in the near future a study course on the UN, open to all members.

Music, in keeping with the United Nations theme, was prepared and presented by pupils of Mrs. Caviness Brown. Composers of England, France, Finland and America were represented on the program. Piano solos were played by Frances Puryear and Mary Le Grande Ammons. Vocal numbers were rendered by Emily Kelly who sang "The Lilac Tree," and Judy Womble whose number was "There is a Lady". A choral ensemble composed of Emily Kelly, Joanne Pittman, Judy Womble, Mary Le Grande Ammons, Bargar Jean Blackman, Nell Black, Jerry Bradley and Frances Puryear sang "Song of the Nations" in conclusion. Mrs. Brown played the accompaniments.

Earlier Mrs. Caviness had asked Miss Lois Byrd, publicity director for the Harnett Centennial, to cite benefits reaped from the county's successful birthday celebration. Miss Byrd also was presented with a chrysanthemum corsage in appreciation of her services to the Centennial. She said the Centennial pointed up the need for and emphasized the importance of county wide cooperation. Such cooperation on a county scale, she said, was responsible for the success of the Centennial and would apply in other worthwhile undertakings.

During the business session, Mrs. Joel Layton, Jr., club president, announced that Mrs. Edwin Brown, President of the N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs will speak in Lillington on December 16. Reports of the recent meeting of the Ninth District in Raeford was made by Mrs. J. B. Gourlay, who with the president represented Lillington. Junior club members attending the same meeting were Mrs. Roger Mann, Mrs. Edward Breeden, and Mrs. Gene Baker. Mrs. J. J. Lanier, chairman of the club's "Help A Home Project" called for bed clothing and chairs to aid the needy family of four children and two adults which the club has promised to assist in cooperation with the county welfare department. During the meeting of the club executive board, a recommendation was made that the club sponsor a game tournament as a fund raising project later in the Fall. This will follow the bazaar set for November 18. Mrs. George Ray will be in charge of the club's booth for the bazaar. The booth will offer Christmas gifts for sale.

New club year books distributed on Monday are dedicated to Mrs. Charles Ross, club parliamentarian. The original cover design is the work of Mrs. Sharon Turlington Cooley, art student at Meredith College.

At the social hour coffee, brownies and novelty candies were served. Bronze and yellow flowers decorated the assembly room. Hostesses included Mrs. Carl Kelly, Mrs. M. D. Lanier, Mrs. J. G. Layton, Mrs. J. J. Lanier, Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Neill Kelly. Around 35 attended.

Miss Taylor Weds Malcolm Wade In Methodist Church

In a setting of white candles, white chrysanthemums and attendants dressed in bright fall colors, Miss Betty Gray Taylor became the bride of Malcolm B. Wade, Jr. on Saturday, October 22 at 7 p. m. at Spring Hill Methodist Church near Manners.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Taylor Olivia, while Mr. Wade is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade of Lillington, Route 3.

Mrs. Helen Hill of Ft. Campbell, Ky., sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids included Mrs. Virginia Booe of High Point, sister of the bride, Mrs. Gladys Wade Murchison of Lillington and Mrs. Doris Wade Stewart of Winston-Salem, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Faye Moore of Fayetteville.

Dresses of the attendants were styled identically of antique tafeta with scoop necklines, full ballerina length skirts worn over hoops. Folds of the material trimmed the bodice and formed brief cap sleeves. Mrs. Hill's dress was a melon shade; Mrs. Booe wore tangerine; Mrs. Murchison, blue; Mrs. Stewart, orchid; and Mrs. Moore, green. They had matching shoes and headpieces, and each carried bouquets of bronze mums designed by Mrs. Lloyd Johnson.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Vicki Taylor and Mrs. Ethel Graham.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white satin fashioned with sweetheart neckline. The voluminous skirt was gathered to a v in front and extended into a court train. Her finger tip veil of silk illusion fell from a seed pearl crown, designed by the bride and fashioned by Mrs. Lloyd Johnson. Lace medallions outlined the neckline of the dress, extended down the bodice and cuffed the long sleeves. Her bouquet was composed of white figi mums and angel feathers.

Mrs. Taylor, mother of the bride, wore Navy with blue accessories, and had a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Wade, mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in a Fall outfit of teal blue, with matching pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Wedding musicians were Miss Betty Lou Russell of Greensboro, vocalist who sang "Because" and the pianist was Mrs. Alton Harrington of Olivia.

Clifford Jack Wade, brother of the bridegroom, served as bestman and ushers were J. D. Taylor, Johnny Taylor of Spring Lake, Route 1, W. M. Stewart and Dam-

OHIO SOCIETY—Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, left, president of the Ohio Society of New York, shows Gov. Frank J. Lausche the cowbell which the president officer of the society uses instead of a gavel. At a dinner in his honor, Lausche, the state's first five-term governor, was presented the society's Good Luck Medallion. In his speech to the society, the ruggedly independent Democrat gave sweeping support to President Eisenhower, saying, "Ohioans are convinced that he has overwhelmingly brought unity and confidence to the people of our country."
