Lausche Boom Is Really A Slap At Adlai

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is more than meets the eye in the boomlet to make Gov. Frank John Lausche of Ohio the 1956 Democratic nominee for president. It is developing like a vote of no confidence in Adlai E. Stevenson, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Lausche will be 60 years old next month. He is a son of immigrant parents, a lawyer, five times elected governor of his state. Lausche is a Catholic. He also is a somewhat unpredictable politician.

Only this week in New York, Lausche referred to President Eisenhower in terms scarcely to be expected from a leading figure in the Democratic Party. Speaking before New York's Ohio Society, Lausche said Mr. Eisenhower had brought "unity and confidence" to the nation. That raises a fair question.

If Mr. Eisenhower brought unity and confidence to the nation, whom does Lausche hold responsible for the previous shortage thereof? Lausche didn't answer that one.

Statements in Character — Such statements are in character for Lausche. They might, and probably do, mean that if Mr. Eisenhower were a candidate, Lausche would not care to take him on. But there is serious doubt that the President will run again. Friends of Stevenson suggest that Lausche's political independence would prevent his nomination. The Lausche boomlet is Southern-bred. APPLE DUNKER — Cutest apple dunker at the Halloween Carnival at the Army was 12-year-old Fatsy Allen (flanked here, clockwise, by E. B. Goodman, 14, Harry Phipps, 12, Larry Watson, 12 and Wayne Turnage, 12. Fatsy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen, 912 West Carr Circle. Merchants and householders could hope, at least, that the carnival took some of the steam out of local youngsters so that tonight's Halloween activities won't create tomorrow's hangers-on for window-washers.

Renounces Lover For Crown

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret announced tonight that she will not wed RAF Captain Peter Townsend.

The announcement came from Clarence House. In the unprecedented personal statement, Margaret said:

"I would like it to be known that I have decided not to marry Group Captain Peter Townsend.

"I have been aware that, subject to my renouncing to my rights of succession it might have been possible for me to contract a civil marriage. But, mindful of the church's teachings that Christian marriage is indissoluble and conscious to my duty to the Commonwealth, I have resolved to put their considerations before any others."

"I have reached this decision entirely alone and, in doing so, I have been strengthened by the unfailing support and devotion of Group Captain Townsend. I am deeply grateful for the concern of all these who have constantly prayed for my happiness.

Signed Margaret. Margaret's statement made it clear that she loved Townsend but it also made clear she gave him up for church and crown.

This was the abdication of King Edward VIII in reverse. Edward gave up his crown in 1936 for the love of American divorcee Wallis Simpson.

But Margaret renounced the man she loved for her royal duty as a princess of the reigning house and third in line of succession to the crown.

They said the royal family feels the "impact" of meeting Townsend two weeks ago for the first time. (Continued On Page Six)

Sultan Taking 25 Beauties To France

BEAUVALLON, France (AP) — Exiled ex-Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef arrives here today with 25 beauties from his harem for what probably will be a brief stay before he returns to the Moroccan throne.

Artisans in this Riviera resort are working overtime to prepare the 120-room pink plaster Hotel du Golf for the once-royal visitor and his retinue. The local soccer team has been drafted to help out, and it regular weekly game today had to be cancelled.

The French government is flying Mohammed from the Indian Ocean island of Madagascar, with two wives, two "semi-wives" and 21 concubines, to his new home in exile here.

Meanwhile, in the narrow, crooked streets of Morocco's native quarter, crowds celebrating the Moslem "Christmas"—birthday of the prophet Mohammed—waved pictures of the ex-Sultan in taken of their hopes for his early return. Most of Arab Morocco wants Mohammed back and last week Berber Pasha Thami El Glaoui, who master-minded his dismissal two years ago, announced he now favors Ben Youssef's "prompt return" to the throne.

They packed Merva Arvenen aboard a plane for London within a few hours of her arrival from there by air, refusing even to permit her a quiet walk around Ciampino Airport.

Reporters were unable to detect the "understrangle" in Miss Arvenen, all the less because immigration authorities said there was nothing "political" about it. They disclosed that curvy Merva, Finnish entrant in the recent (Continued On Page Four)

LOGHESUND, Sweden (AP) — Two happy young couples who traded mates said from their adjoining apartments today that they made the switch mainly "for the children."

"There are times when a divorce is preferable to an unhappy marriage," explained 25-year-old Lennart Pettersson. "And I don't see that the fact that Tom and I have married each other's wives is anything startling."

GRIFFITH, KNEEPAINTERS, KELLER, FOOTBALL, ETC.

The death of Clark Griffith, one of the great figures in baseball history, brought back fond memories and also a touch of sadness to Herbert B. Taylor and members of his famous Kneepants League of Dunn.

On two occasions, the president of the Washington Senators had played host to the little Dunn kneepanters and seemed to take an unusual amount of interest in them.

Taylor, who founded Dunn's league and whose office wall is lined with pictures of Griffith and his boys, observed today that, "Clark Griffith was a grand old man, one of the best. He was a big man—one of the immortals of baseball fame—but he wasn't too big to be nice to a bunch of little kneepant ball players."

It was when the Dunn Kneepanters visited Washington, in 1948 that Griffith made one of his rare public appearances to welcome the Dunn ball players.

Flyer Named Cloud Wins Air Contest

Jeff Cloud of Rockingham sounds like an airman and is one as he proved at the air contests at Dunn-Erwin airport yesterday afternoon. He cut the ribbon (a roll of toilet paper dropped at 2000 feet) ten times before it had descended to the 1000-foot level, copping the radio that went to first-place winner.

Cloud was flying a souped-up 85 horsepower cub.

The landing contest, conducted in a 25-knot wind that made landings very difficult, was won by John Coffey of Raleigh. He won a Bulova chronometer.

Coffey put his Cessna 170 four-passenger aircraft within three feet of the mark placed on field for pilots to shoot at.

About 55 ships flew in from North Carolina, Virginia, and South Carolina according to Keith Finch of the local flying club. It was the first contest of its kind to be held here.

Judges in the air show were Earl Jones of Cromartie Hardware in Dunn, a D-17 pilot during the war and holder of the Distinguished Flying Cross and other ribbons; Bob Elder, CAA inspector from Raleigh; and Bob Godwin, flight instructor from Stallings Air Force (Continued On Page Two)

GODFREY ANGRY AT PRESS

"Deliberate Lies," He Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Godfrey charged today that many of the reports printed about him during the last two years have been "deliberate lies."

Godfrey began a serialized autobiography in the Saturday Evening Post with an attack on his critics. "I'm tired of reading those twisted tales about myself," he said. "It's about time I was telling my own story."

The publication of the first of eight installments of "This Is My Story" came after a week in which four members of the cast of Godfrey's program were fired. The firings brought to 20 the number of members of his "family" who have been dismissed in the last two years.

"The fantastic tales concocted for the newspapers by the press agents of my former associates have probably at least confused some of my listeners. I think, therefore, that I owe this story to them. "Maybe if I had any brains I'd let it go the way it is and ignore (Continued On Page Four)
