TUCKER MAIN SPEAKER

Principal speaker of the day was the Rev. Leslie Tucker, pastor of the host church, who delivered the inspirational sermon. His subject was: "Christ In Our Lives and Homes."

The Rev. Mr. Tucker developed the theme along three main points.

1. A clean home, moral and otherwise; 2. A loving home with mutual respect and sharing; and 3. A challenging home.

The minister told the young people that members of the family in this day and age have too many outside activities to distract from the sort of homelife they should be living.

He challenged each of them to make a self-analysis of their own homelife and to take remedial steps wherever they are needed.

OTHERS ON PROGRAM

The Rev. Tom Young of West End gave the Invocation. F. Orva Perkins of Fayetteville spoke on the topic, "Officers and Teachers Talk It Over;" the Rev. David Huffines of Lillington spoke on "Planned Class Fellowship" and the Rev. Mr. Young spoke on, "Reship

"If Christ is in our home," he said, "there will be three natural results."

He outlined them as follows: 1. A clean home, moral and otherwise; 2. A loving home with mutual respect and sharing; and 3. A challenging home.

None of the stills were in operation at the time of their seizure and confiscation.

Assisting Coats in the raids were the following agents:

P. A. Lundell of Goldsboro, John West, James Thornbrough and Michael O'Rourke of Wilkesboro, and J. F. Kelly of Fayetteville.

The officers raided two 100-gallon cooper stills in the north-eastern end of Harnett, pouring out 1,350 gallons of mash at one and 500 gallons of mash and three gallons of whiskey at the other.

ANOTHER HARNETT RAID

returned this week from Europe to say that the Ohio governor would be a "formidable" Democratic presidential candidate. Russell said it was too early for him to be committed to anyone, but his kind words for Lausche as a "middle of road" statesman still stand.

Russell was defeated for the 1955 Democratic presidential and took no part in the campaign to elect Adlai E. Stevenson. He was the candidate of Southern conservatives but insists he will not seek the nomination again.

Saluted By Texan

Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas saluted Lausche Thursday as a "moderate" which means about the same as middle-of-the-road. He of whiskey; two 250-gallon submarine stills, and 500 gallons of mash and 800 gallons of mash; 300-gallon submarine still, 300 gallons of mash and 23 gallons of whiskey; 150-gallon still, 1,000 gallons of mash, 10 gallons of whiskey; 250-gallon still, 800 gallons of mash and 30 gallons of whiskey.

showing alertness and intelligence" if they nominated the Ohian. Shivers balked Stevenson in 1945 to support Mr. Eisenhower.

Two singers don't make a chorus, but there is something stirring in the South for Lausche and there are others in the area thinking of him for 1956 who have not yet been heard from. Lausche calls the movement a dream of friendly persons. He says he will seek elective office next year and that he considers either a contest for re-election or a go at the Senate to be open to him.

Evidence of responsible Southern Democratic enthusiasm for Lausche is a political switcheroo from 1928. In that presidential election Herbert Hoover broke into the Solid South to overwhelm Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York. Smith's Catholic religion was a major factor, but so was prohibition, which Smith opposed.

That was 16 years ago and times may have changed.

Questioned about a persistent rumor that Rita would reward Aly Kahn after divorcing Haynes, Crum said: "I'm a lawyer, not a prophet."

Now in Paris, ostensibly to conduct her daughter Yasmin there for a reunion of the child and Aly, Yasmin's father, Rita herself has been reported frequently in the company of the prince.
