ANOTHER ECONOMY MOVE

Postal Service In Dunn Is Cut Again

Latest economy move by the Post Office Department to affect Dunn means that 8 p. m. will be the late limit on mail to leave here that same day. Previously, the deadline had been 9 p. m.

Ralph Wade, postmaster, said this probably will cause greater inconvenience to his staff than to Post Office patrons because "not too much" mail was coming in between 8 and 9 p. m.

But he expects he will have to increase his night staff from two to three persons in order to have mail processed and ready to leave in time to meet the schedule.

The change came about because the "highway post office" which had been running from Richmond to Sanford (via Dunn) now runs from Richmond to Fayetteville. Instead of being at 3:30 p. m., the stop here is now 7:30 p. m.

"A lot of other places besides Dunn are effected," said Wade. "The Star Route from Raleigh to Fayetteville is cut out altogether and there are a lot of other changes."

ECONOMY MOVE

This is one of a series of economy moves made by the post-office since 1950 when the succeeding postmasters-general began to holt about the yearly deficit in their operations.

Most dramatic change was the shift from two-day deliveries in residential districts to the present one-day. Criticism of the move has not abated and there is periodic effort to bring the post-office to reverse itself.

The present postmaster-general, Arthur Summerfield like his predecessors is seeking to secure legislation which would authorize raising regular mail to four cents, aimed to seven cents — curing the deficit problem that way.

Wade said today, "You see, ninety percent of the post-office expenses are in salaries and those are set by Congress. The department can't do much about that. About the only way they can save money is to make cuts in service."

The most serious local change of recent date was when the mail messenger service between the post-office and depot was discontinued at night. That caused more trouble than the present economy move is likely to, said Wade.

Plane Explodes Soon After Leaving Denver

LONGMONT, Colo. (AP) — A United Airlines four-engine DC-6B airliner crashed in a flaming explosion on a farm 30 miles east of the Rocky Mountain foothills Tuesday night, killing all 44 persons aboard.

Among the 39 passengers who lost their lives were at least one child and 14 women besides the crew of five.

The plane, United Flight 629 enroute from New York to Seattle, Wash., had taken off from Denver's Stapleton municipal airport for a 1,076-mile non-stop flight to Portland, Oregon, less than half an hour before it crashed at 9 P. M. (EST) in a sugar beet field eight miles east of here.

SEARCHERS FIND BODIES

Three hours after the crash, searchers had accounted for the bodies of all the victims among the littered wreckage, which was scattered over a two-mile area.

There was no immediate explanation of the tragedy, the second major airliner accident in less than a month. The other, on October 5, also involved a United Airlines plane, a DC-4, which smashed into 12,005 feet Medicine Bow Peak in Southern Wyoming, killing 68 persons in the nation's worst civil aviation disaster.

The Wyoming crash site is about 100 miles northwest of Longmont.

WEATHER CLEAR

The weather was clear in the vicinity of Tuesday night's accident, although it was cold—about 34 degrees—and there had been light snowfall in the region in the afternoon.

The plane's crew members were identified by United Airlines as (Continued On Page Six)

Until the day of last week, Glen Spivey, manager of the new A & P Store at 1400 West Cumberland, leading a rich and active life.

For almost a month, he spent three nights a week here, four in Rockingham, spending back and forth from his home in the latter city as he prepared to move his family to Dunn.

It's quite a family, too. The 30-year-old Spivey and his wife have two daughters — Glenda, 6, and Debbie, 4 — and two sons — Brad, 2, and Roger, 1. They are now living on West Divine St.

Spivey said he has found Dunn full of exceptionally nice and friendly people. "I think most of them go out of their way to help you," he said.

A native of Richmond County, where he went through grade and high schools, Spivey sold newspapers as a boy, first started with the A&P while in high school.

He worked after school and on Saturdays until he went into the Army. Sent to the Marianas, he worked as a mechanic in a ground air crew, preparing plans for their missions over Japan.

Leaving the Army after three and a half years, he tried out several jobs — including following his career as a mechanic — but he decided to go with the A&P again.

He joined the Rockingham branch in 1949 as a clerk and worked his way up to assistant manager. His position with the Dunn store is his first full management. The A&P has large stores in both Rockingham and Dunn. There are about 15 employees in the local branch.

'56 Chevrolet To Be Shown

Continued emphasis on the superior performance and rakish lines that contributed importantly to record-breaking sales this year give Chevrolet for 1956 its most distinguished new passenger cars.

Westbrook Chevrolet Company in Dunn and scheduled for debut at dealer showrooms across the nation Friday, November 4, the latest models carry increased horsepower, a sleeker, more rugged appearance and are offered in the broadest array of bodies ever produced by the company.

Owner Earl Westbrook and General Manager Sam Lockhart today extended to the public a cordial invitation to see the wonderful new Chevrolet.

New in the low-price field is a four-door hardtop sport sedan. This car has no obstructing center pillar in the window area and is fashioned with the same styling zest that made the Chevrolet sport coupe a sensation of the automobile market since 1950. Also introduced for the first time are nine-passenger station wagons, bringing the company's total number of 1956 bodies to 19.

POWER INCREASED

Of prime interest to buyers who appreciate the security of ready acceleration is an increase in horsepower extending from the six-cylinder engine to the pace-setting V8. The new model sizes rate at 140 horsepower. The Super Turbo-Fire V8 which, in a recent performance test, set a new all-time record at Pikes Peak in September, develops 205 horsepower.

Among outstanding safety features in the 1956 Chevrolet line are the availability of seat belts and shoulder harness; improved, precision-aimed headlights and crash-tested door locks to minimize the possibility of doors being sprung (Continued On Page Six)

Dunn High Plans Homecoming Event

By TED CRAIL, Record Staff Writer

Dunn High School, which elected a Halloween king and queen last week amid much emotional turmoil, is off to the races again. This week, as a warmup for Homecoming, they're choosing the football version of a queen—a varsity sweetheart.

The stakes again are a penny a vote with balloting already in full swing (it started Monday). Nobody has cut us in on how the votes are falling. If it's anything like last week's contest—in which one high school girl put twenty bucks on her boy-friend, cried when he lost — the high school may need some automatic counters for those penalties.

Anyway, the money will go to a good cause. The Senior Class thinks so. They are the sponsors of Homecoming and any cash that comes their way will probably help out when the graduate seniors make their annual junket to see the sights of Washington, D. C.

There is a sly factor in this year's varsity sweetheart contest which may be causing who knows what heart-ache at the high school.

Normally, the girls who run for the title are nominated, one per each, by senior boys on the football squad. This year, because of an impressive death of football-playing seniors, it was decided to

The Aldas were married in December, 1932, when she was 16 and he was 18. They have a son, Alphonse, 19.

Stevenson's Unannounced Campaign Is Paying Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — The brilliant stage direction of Adlai E. Stevenson's unannounced campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination is beginning to pay off big. You might think Cecil B. DeMille was ordering up the lights and shadows, the flies and drops and background music. The Stevenson show has everything but suspense.

On the record, it seems obvious that the political statement Stevenson plans to make this month will be a declaration of his candidacy. The crack strategy of his managers has built a lot of motion into a campaign which has not yet been acknowledged.

EARLY SHOW OF STRENGTH — This strategy is designed to make an early show of strength calculated to discourage others who would like to be president and to encourage local leaders to leap for the bandwagon as it speeds by. Pennsylvania's Gov. George M. Leader is the latest big time Democrat to sign on with Stevenson. Democratic boss David Lawrence, Pittsburgh, already had indicated a liking for Stevenson. Group Seeks Reversal Of Church's Ouster Order

By TED CRAIL, Record Staff Writer

"The church — the preacher and the deacons — would have to convict me as a 'subversive' and throw me out to shut me up," the young and pretty wife of an ousted member of the Second Baptist Church stated at a meeting last night.

Mrs. Ellis Godwin was one of a group of 25 who decided last night to seek a reversal of the Sept. 28 action removing her husband and five others out of the Second Baptist congregation.

The group, consisting of sympathizers of the ousted, also agreed to offer a motion at the next regular meeting of the church which would seek to "dissolve the pastorate" of Rev. E. C. Keller. Derwood Godwin, local real estate man who was among those who protested the action at the time the church membership voted to throw out the six men, said last night. "We don't have to fire him (Keller), just let him know time's out."

CLAIM TERM OUT — The group agreed their motion should allege that Rev. Keller had had "illegal occupancy" of the pastorate since Oct. 1, when, they claim his official term expired.

Reverend Keller has made no public statement about the dispute since the church membership voted to oust the six. He said today (Continued on Page Two)
