DEMOCRATS WIN SMASHING VICTORIES

...lynns Marilyn Monroe—right down to the last shapely twist. Left to right are: Dianne Conn, Ruth Dare Tart, Betty Lou Kirby and Janet Hedges. That's Attorney Hooper, of course, appearing oblivious to the charm about him. And the name on that piece of music Glenn's holding — "Slaughter On 10th Avenue." Brother, it's gonna be some show. You'd better be on hand early if you want a seat. (Daily Record Photo.)

Women Like Adlai Better Than The Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson rates high with men voters but higher with the women. He is far in front of the pack for next year's Democratic presidential nomination.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon also seems slightly more popular among women than men voters, but he has no comparable advantage over other Republicans who might be nominated next year.

These conclusions are based on an unusual sampling of political opinion just completed by the United Press. Results of a poll among 100 selected male voters was reported on Oct. 26. A poll among women in the same pattern now has been completed.

Cross Country Survey

Seventeen United Press bureaus made the sampling. Each asked a given number of representative women to state who they believe at this time to be the most likely Democratic and Republican presidential nominees next year, assuming that President Eisenhower does not seek a second term. It was requested that the participants name the individuals most likely to be nominated rather than their personal choices.

The United Press asked 87 women in many fields of women's activity.

Forecasting a scramble among Republicans if the President drops out, the women scattered their five among 11 first-choice Republicans who might be nominated. But they limited the Democratic field to six names. That followed the pattern of the men who last month named 13 Republicans and six Democrats.

Here are the leaders in the women's poll: Democrats: Adlai E. Stevenson, 66; Averell Harriman, 13, and Estes Kefauver, 3. Republicans: Richard M. Nixon, 37; Earl Warren, 21; William F. Knowland, 9; Goodwin J. Knight, 3; George M. Humphrey, 3; Henry (Continued On Page Six)

ALY AND YASMIN — Aly Kahn, divorced husband of American movie actress Rita Hayworth, is shown here with their daughter, Yasmin, at his home in Paris. Miss Hayworth and two daughters are visiting Kahn, but she denies any intentions of remarrying him although she has filed suit for divorce against Dick Haymes. (NEA Photo.)

Party Leaders Disagree On National Trend

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said yesterday's scattered off-year elections had "no national significance." He predicted that next year, with the presidency and control of Congress at stake, the country will give the GOP "a resounding vote of confidence."

Dunn Leaf Market Enjoys Best Year

After tomorrow — or at least within a few days when the final bookkeeping chores have been wrapped up — the Dunn tobacco market will go into its winter snooze.

At the Big Four warehouse, Mc-Lamb Implement Company will store tractors and the Planters Warehouse on the other side of town will be turned over to cotton storage.

It has not been quiet up to now. The market sold more tobacco this year than ever before, and farmers came down to Dunn market to have grown their weed over a wide area.

On one day of the season, reported E. L. Dudley of the Big Four warehouse, seventeen different counties were represented in the tobacco sold from the floor.

"I think we've made a lot of friends this year," said Dudley. "And I think they'll be back next year."

Benson Man Faces Trial In Hog Sale

RALEIGH (AP) — One man has already been sentenced and another faces court action as a result of investigations by the State Department of Agriculture into transportation and sale of diseased hogs.

E. A. Parker, Benson recorder's court solicitor, said an investigation by state veterinarians resulted in a warrant charging transportation and sale of diseased hogs.

He said A. M. Coates, a farmer who lives near the Johnston-Sampson county line, will have a hearing (Continued On Page Six)

Widow Is Left Less Than Usual

NEW YORK (AP) — Turfman William Woodward Jr. left the disposal of his 5-million-dollar racing interests, including the famed racehorse Nashua, to the trustees of his estate in a will that bequeathed his widow less than the law allows.

The terms of Woodward's will were made public by his attorney, Theodore Miller, who filed the 1948 document for probate in surrogate's court today. The 35-year-old banking heir and sportsman was shot to death Oct. 30 by his 40-year-old wife Ann, who said she mistook him for a prowler.

Attorneys pointed out that Mrs. Woodward, who is under medical care for grief at Doctors Hospital, could contest the will because it did not leave her a one-third widow's share as required by state law. However, Miller said Mrs. Woodward had been "amply taken care (Continued On Page Six)

PRETTY BARMAID DENIES CRIME

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A pretty barmaid held in the rat poison deaths of two small brothers has agreed to take a lie detector test, police said today.

The 30-year-old brunette, identified as Mrs. Mary Falcon, denied harming the boys. She reportedly had a fight with their mother a month before they died. At first police thought death came from eating contaminated scraps from garbage cans.

City Police Supt. Froyosty Dayries said an investigation showed poison was "fed to the children with food." He said the woman being held may be given the lie detector test.

A neighbor of the victims' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Baughman, told police Mrs. Falcon, known to the boys as "Mrs. Jackson," fed peanut butter sandwiches (Continued on Page Six)

Erwin Mills Still Silent

All was silent today as the Erwin Mills continued closed down and 2000 workers continued out of work, over the strike called by 42 cloth doffers.

At the Mill, Manager W. H. Miley, Jr. said there were no developments whatsoever. "I haven't heard a thing," he said. Lucy Dawkins, union manager, who has called the strike unauthorized but has tried to bring the doffers together with the company, said he knew of no new meetings or attempts at settlement.

STEVENSON FOE WINS IN KENTUCKY

Chandler Scores Big Win

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Former Baseball Commissioner A. B. Happy Chandler pushed his way back into the national political limelight today by winning the Kentucky governorship with what may be an all-time high vote.

Chandler's lead edged above 100,000 early today with returns from 2,344 of Kentucky's 4,044 precincts.

The count was Chandler 300,741; Republican Edwin R. Denney 200,706.

Chandler had an excellent chance of bettering the record margin of 106,000 run up by former Gov. Keen Johnson, a Democrat in the 1939 governor's race.

Chandler's tremendous victory margin came as a surprise to Kentucky political observers because the one-time governor and former senator ran up his vote without any help from Kentucky's present Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby.

HAD EXPECTED SPLIT A split in Democratic ranks, an outgrowth of the August primary battle in which Chandler defeated the Wetherby candidate, Judge Bert T. Combs, Prestonsburg, had been expected to hold Chandler's victory margin to no more than 50,000. Nationally, Chandler's victory is expected to play a part in the 1956 Democratic National Convention. As governor, Chandler will lead Kentucky's delegation, a circumstance not expected to help the candidacy of Adlai E. Stevenson.

Chandler is looked upon as a member of the southern conservative Democratic wing opposed to Stevenson.

The Chandler victory, however, might help the chances of Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) There have been widespread reports here that Chandler looks upon Kefauver with favor.

These Little Things

By HOOPER ADAMS

BEULAH, TRANSISTORS, ALFRED, OTHER NOTES

Charles Smith says he misses the excitement, bustle and glamour of Washington's swank Hotel Statler, but that he's much happier to be back in Dunn... Mrs. Beulah Graham doesn't know whether Ermon Godwin is her friend any more or not... Ermon got her interest in photography as a hobby and now she's finding out just what an expensive hobby it is... But she's getting to be a real good photographer... She bought a new 35 millimeter camera and has made some wonderful color shots... There has been some talk of forming a camera club in Dunn... There are enough photographers here now to do it... Local news stands have been selling out of The Saturday Evening Post as the result of the Arthur Godfrey yarn... He must be more popular than some people seem to think... Alfred Surles, a man with a roving eye for beauty, surveyed the girls at Johnson's Restaurant the other night and exclaimed, right out loud, (Continued On Page Two)

Lions Lusty Revue Rides Thursday

"Convention Capers," the lusty revue which the Dunn Lions Club is presenting at Dunn High School auditorium tomorrow night, is slated to begin at 8 p. m.

Johnnie Cicoone, the director, was pulling soberly on his cigarette last night as he brought the cast through a dress rehearsal and prepared them for tomorrow big show. Little Becky Hill of Lillington, child hillbilly star, looked a show-stopper at the dress rehearsal. Singing in a voice that sounds like a combination of Teresa Brewer and Baby Snooks, she went through a faultless rendition of "Tennessee Wig-Walk."

LIKE MARILYN

Another inchoate show-stopper was Betty Lou Kirby. Betty Lou, a blond high school girl, will do an imitation of Marilyn Monroe. She uses Marilyn's voice (on a record) but other accessories are strictly Betty's own. With the footlights on her, the imitation is close enough to impress Joe Dimaggio.

That's not all, by any means. The Lions' have put together an impressive assemblage for their annual home talent show, and not the least feature will be female impersonations by some men who are hilariously incompetent at it.

Lena Horne Sings Blues For Princess

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret went night clubbing until the wee hours today with Peter Townsend's successor at Buckingham Palace, but she sat out every dance and just listened to the blues.

The princess sent word before she arrived that she wanted Lena Horne to sing the "Beale Street Blues" to her.

Then she sat quietly with 32-year-old Lord Plinkett by her side in the Savoy Hotel restaurant and listened with glistening eyes while the American Negro singer moaned the lowdown, sorrowful blues.

It was the first time Margaret had returned to the bright-light circuit since she broke off her romance with Townsend only a week (Continued On Page Six)

Turk Is A Color; It's Newest Thing

Any housewife who wants a little turk around the house should take time out from her cooking today or tomorrow and see what's going on at Leder Bros.

Late word was that a big shipment of turk could be expected at any moment. It was to go on sale as soon as it could be unpacked. Manager D. A. Dockery of Leder Bros. said the store—through two enthusiastic lady buyers—has (Continued On Page Six)

United Fund Drive At Halfway Point

Bright and awake at eight o'clock, United Fund workers had an enthusiastic meeting this morning. Robert Hadley reports. The real bright spot: reports show the Fund is more than halfway toward its goal.

Money and pledges so far turned in — and more is undoubtedly in the hands of solicitors — show $17,000 or $18,000 volunteered for United Fund's community-building and charitable purposes.

Hadley, president of United Fund, said he and Hal Jordan, campaign chairman, are especially pleased by the unsolicited contributions that have come through the mail from persons in the county.

Next big step in attaining the goal of almost 35 thousand dollars will be solicitation in business houses of five more employees. Employees will be asked to sign up for payroll deduction of their pledges.

Heading up this "Chapter Plan" will be Gene Smith and Raymond Cromartie. A kickoff meeting has been planned for Monday morning, at which final details will be settled, and solicitors will get their instructions.

Actual solicitation is to be preceded by talks to employees which will point up the reasons for the United Fund way of giving.

SAY HE VIOLATED PRINCESS TRUST — RAPPED BY PASTORS AND LAYMEN

Britons Angry At Archbishop; Demanding His Resignation

LONDON — The British people are fighting mad at the Archbishop of Canterbury for his activities in the Princess Margaret-Peter Townsend affair.

In fact, they're after his "holy" scalp and, in many places on the streets of Britain today, they speak of the famed religious leader in a manner of seers and contempt.

The mounting tide of anger against him has brought new demands that he resign from his exalted post.

Newspaper attacks on the prelate were, in some instances, coupled with a cry for disestablishment of the state church. The resignation demand came from Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express, which questioned the "lubious" leadership of the Church of England by the archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

The case against him is strong and grave," the mass circulation newspaper said. "There are plenty who feel that the time has come for him to resign.

A companion article by Express editor John Gordon said "poor" Princess Margaret had been "brainwashed."

THREADBARE CODE

The blast by the Tory newspaper followed a violent attack in the pro-Labor Mirror, which declared in huge front-page headlines and a story covering practically the entire front page, that there was "a rising tide of anger" at the way church leaders are "hanging on to the shreds of a threadbare code of conduct."
