Coach Could "Get Took" By Golfer On His Team

By TED CRAIL, Record Staff Writer

Over at Campbell College there's a French and Spanish teacher, not too long from Syracuse, N. Y., who became serious about his golf a few years ago.

There is also a 19-year-old pre-med student and ex-caddie, native of Dunn, who has a wide, bashful grin like the ones you see in the insurance ads and a big and beautiful golf stroke like the ones you see in the newsreels.

They are the coach and star, respectively, of the Campbell College golf team. Fate is knocking on their door this week. If both answer the knock with a win in this week's matches, they will wind up fighting it out for the championship of the Chicago Country Club.

Young William Corbett, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Corbett of Dunn, was medalist this year in the qualifying rounds that preceded the Chicago tourney. He has been medalist in another tournament, but never has reached a final except in college play.

Last year, when he tried the Chicago championships, it was the coach, John Myers, who put him out.

Whether Myers could beat him this year is a different question. The records show, Myers says, that Corbett has been playing two thirds of a stroke better than himself.

"I think he's a little better player than I am," said Myers, "but he may tense up worse than I do."

In Corbett's family, Mother golfs, Father golfs, brother Clarence golfs but William golfs best of all. Father, to his son's regret, was dumped by Earl Mahone last week in the second round of the

Jill Drops Her Case Against Hayward

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Blonde actress Jill Jarmyn has withdrawn a request for a battery complaint against film star Susan Hayward which resulted from a brawl in the bedroom of actor Don Barry's apartment.

The young actress signed a statement yesterday saying: "I hereby withdraw my request for a complaint at this time." She said she canceled her action because "I've been through a humiliating experience and I want to forget it."

The blonde had accused her red-haired rival of hitting her with a hair brush, knocking her against a coffee table and threatening her with a lighted cigarette.

Miss Hayward had said the fight resulted because of things Miss Jarmyn, who had been going with Barry, said to her.

Trial Of County Solicitor Slated To Open Tomorrow

By LOIS BYRD, Record Staff Writer

Disposition of drunken driving cases in Harnett Recorder's Court will be the chief target of legal attack when the trial of Solicitor Neill McKay Ross begins Thursday in Superior Court on charges of misconduct in public office.

A study of the bill of particulars upon which the State will reply for prosecution of the well-known solicitor of the lower court shows that Solicitor Jack Hooks will attempt to prove that Ross flatly dismissed drunken driving cases and accepted lesser pleas in serious highway and liquor law violations.

Ross faces four counts, one for attempting to discharge the duties of his office while under the influence of intoxicants, and three others for failure to call cases, willful dismissal without hearing state witnesses and allegedly entering into secret agreements with various defendants, agents and attorneys to terminate and not prosecute cases.

A list of 54 cases with numbers, names of defendants and dates tried were handed Ross and his attorneys Monday by Solicitor Hooks when asked for specific charges.

Originals of these case records are in possession of the State Bureau of Investigation which impounded the records during the September term of the grand jury.

However, Judge George Fountain who will preside at the Ross trial granted the defendant the right to refer to the cases in order to refresh his memory while in the presence of a SBI agent.

Hooks in his bill listed only case number, names of defendants and dates of the trial. However, judgments rendered in the cases are public records in the office of the clerk of recorder's court.

Here is what a study of the 55 cases showed:

In the 54 court cases, the defendants, the charges, the dates, and the dispositions are as follows: Lewie Matthews, possession of whiskey, not proessed August 23, 1955; Arthur Ransom Beasley, drunken driving, not proessed July 21, 1955; John Thomas Dudley, drunken driving (second offense), state accepts plea of guilty to careless and careless driving, prayer for judgment continued on payment of $25 and costs on August 23, 1955.

Everett Preston Bethune, drunken driving, not proessed with leave on July 14, 1955; Otis Earl Stephenson, drunken driving, not proessed July 7, 1955; James McLean, possession for sale not proessed with leave August 8, 1955.

HOUSEBREAKERS CONVICTED

Dope Addict Gets Suspended Sentence

Willard Matthews, about 50, of Dunn and Erwin, after pleading guilty to charges of possessing narcotics, today was sentenced to serve two to three years in prison.

Superior Court Judge George Fountain agreed to suspend the sentence on condition that Matthews enter the U. S. Narcotics Hospital in Lexington, Kentucky for treatment and the condition that he not be involved in the narcotics traffic during the next three years.

Matthews was arrested during the summer by SBI agents who found 25 half grain morphine tablets in his possession. He was charged with possession and concealing of narcotics, also with transporting the morphine.

Solicitor Jack Hooks not-proessed the transporting charge. SBI Agent Robert Pope, chief witness for the State, testified that Matthews has been a dope addict for the past eight years and quoted Matthews as saying he had been in seven different hospitals seeking a cure.

He said Matthews had no reputation for selling narcotics but had been known to exchange shots with other addicts.

SOURCE UNDISCLOSED

Matthews declined to tell the court where he secured the dope. SBI Agent Pope told the court he knew the source, but preferred not to disclose it at this time.

Meanwhile today, the grand jury returned an indictment against B. Gilbert Porter, well-known Dunn restaurant operator, for possession of narcotics. Dunn police and SBI agents found a quantity of dope in Porter's possession during a raid made on his home here early this fall.

Trial of the Porter case has not been set.

A jury today convicted David Stephenson, 37-year-old former Dunn convict and Hubert Henry Glover, 42, also of Dunn, for breaking and entering Rodney Chestnut's beer tavern in Dunn. Both defendants claimed they were innocent.

Stephenson admitted on the witness stand that he has served a total of 15 years in prison on five different occasions. Judge Fountain delayed passing sentence until later in the week.

49th Seal Sale Opens Tomorrow

The Commercial Class of Erwin High School has been working hard addressing envelopes to practically everyone in the county.

This isn't just typing practice. Mailing starts tomorrow on the annual Christmas seal sale of the Harnett County Tubercular Association, now is its 49th year both nationally and locally.

This year's chairman is E. H. Bost, retired manager of Erwin Mills, who lives in Erwin. Money collected by the association from their seals will be used primarily to fight tuberculosis on a local basis.

The organization hopes this year to raise $4,500—topping the approximately $4,000 raised last year. Eighty percent of the money collected stays within the county. The other 20 percent is used for national research projects.

Mrs. L. W. Griffin, executive secretary of the association, said yesterday that tuberculosis continues to be an important health problem.

New cases of the disease have been discovered here during the year, she said. The last time Harnett County was visited by the mobile x-ray unit which it shares with other counties, ten cases of tuberculosis were uncovered.

The association uses the funds collected to work with the county health department on a cooperative basis, Mrs. Griffin reported. It has, in the past, paid part of the salary of a county nurse and lent assistance in many ways.

She urges that people respond generously to this latest running of a campaign that has, over the years, saved literally hundreds of thousands of lives, and given hope to millions who once would have been hopeless.

Honor Role Of Donors

United Fund, which gets a good part of its yearly quota from payroll deductions in the checks of employees of larger business firms, is off to a good start in that phase of collections in Dunn.

Margaret Warren, executive secretary of the Fund, reported this morning that 13 local firms are already on the "Honor Roll" of businesses whose employees join the Fund 100 percent.

"We haven't really got started on this yet," said Mrs. Warren, "so that's pretty good."

Solicitation of business and factory employes is headed by Raymond Cromartie and Gene Smith. All firms employing five or more will be asked to help the Fund through payroll deductions and many more names are expected to be added to the Honor Roll within the next few days.

Those names appearing already are Machine and Welding Co., Rose's Five and Ten Cent Store, Leder Bros., First Citizens Installment Loan Dept., Ro-Mar Mattress Co., Howard M. Lee Furniture Co., Mary Stewart School, Carolina Power and Light, Colonial Frozen Food Lockers, Inc., Godwin Building Supply Co., First Citizens Bank and Trust Co., Carolina Cleaners and Radio Station WCKB.

Two Top Aides Appointed By Candidate

CHICAGO (U)—Adlai Stevenson today announced he is starting his campaign for the presidency by entering the Minnesota presidential primary.

Stevenson appointed two professional political figures to take charge of his effort to win the Democratic nomination at the Chicago convention next summer.

At a news conference Stevenson said his decision, announced yesterday, to run again for president was made without any consideration of the effect of President Eisenhower's illness.

"It was largely made in the early part of this past summer after getting evidence of interest in my candidacy, and the decision was confirmed around Sept. 1 after conferring with my children," Stevenson said.

FINNEGAN TO MANAGE He said he did not make his announcement earlier "mostly for personal reasons." However, he added, he wanted to be quite sure of certain regions and certain individuals "before throwing his hat into the ring."

Appointed as pre-convention campaign manager, was James A. Finnegan, secretary of state in Pennsylvania. As executive director for Finnegan, Stevenson named Hyman B. Raskin of Chicago, a former member of the Democratic national committee and a law partner of former National Democratic Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell.

Stevenson also said that two leaders in his 1952 campaign would be active this time. He named Wilson Wyatt of Louisville, Ky., who was his personal manager in 1952 and Mitchell.

Stevenson said he is counting on Wyatt and Mitchell for "invaluable and indispensable" advice and counsel again.

The decision to enter the Minnesota primary in March was made to meet the time requirements of Minnesota laws. Stevenson said, he disclosed that he had notified the Democratic Farmer-Labor Party by letter that he is accepting its invitation to enter.

"The only firm decision I have made with respect to primaries is in Minnesota," Stevenson said. "The others we will consider as we come to them."

Nun's Story Rejected By London Jury

LONDON (U)—A jury has rejected charges by a Roman Catholic nun that she had been assaulted and imprisoned falsely by her religious superiors.

The case involved Sister Priscilla, 57, whose name before she entered the order of the Poor Sisters of Nazareth was Margaret McCann. She charged that she had been assaulted and imprisoned by the mother superior of her convent and later was imprisoned and assaulted at St. Joseph's nursing home. She sued for damages.

After the court rejected her claims, Sister Priscilla said she would carry an appeal to the Pope.

These Little Things

By HOOVER ADAMS

Mutt Butt sells live bait to fishermen, everything from worms to grasshoppers. Fishermen over the country spend millions of dollars annually for live bait and fancy artificial bait.

But Mutt is the first to tell you that actually the kind of bait does not make too much difference. He and Gene Johnson, one of the best fishermen around here, were talking about it last night at Upchurch's.

Truth of the matter is, agreed Mutt and Gene when the fish start biting they'll hit at anything and it's hard to keep them from it. Gene recalled that he once ran across a school of fish and, lacking bait, cut off a piece of his handkerchief and used that. He had wonderful luck.

And Mutt recalled that once in Florida he spotted a bunch of tarpon in the water. He simply cut off a piece of towel "and the fish ate it up." He hooked some nice ones.

Mother Interrupts Hearing

MIAMI (U)—Juvenile Judge Walter Beckham of Miami, who said this Gold Coast city is a haven for unwed mothers from other states, appealed to the Kefauver committee today for federal adoption of children.

While Beckham, one of the most prominent judges in his field in the nation was addressing the committee a black-haired plainly dressed woman burst from the audience and shouted: "The man is lying."

"They took my two children away from me — then and the Catholic charities," she cried. "He has no feeling at all. I have been trying for months to get my babies. "Why can't I have my children? I'm no drunk. . . I'm no prostitute."

U. S. Deputy Marshal Jack Peeples grabbed her and tried to restrain her. Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) who was presiding over the hearings on child adoption and juvenile delinquency, promised he would listen to her story later if she would sit down.

COURTS ACTS SLOWLY The woman went to the back of the federal court room where the hearing was being held and sat down quietly.

"I would like to make a point clear in view of this situation the 'youburst,'" Judge Beckham said. "We are always very slow in taking children away from their parents. We never sign a final order until a natural mother is sure she doesn't want her child. We give her every chance for reconsideration. Perhaps we are overly tender in that respect."

Judge Beckham said Florida has a different problem than most states because of an unusually large volume of pregnant unwed girls who came here from other
